TAFT TAKES STAND WITH BALLINGER

Dismisses Charges Against Interior Department Officials—Maker of Them to Go.

SECRETARY'S ACTS UPHELD

His Conservation Policy Not Out of Harmony with President's—Letter Given Out at Albany.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—President Taft took his stand to-day on the controversy that has raged about Richard A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, because of his policy on conservation of natural resources. The President stands with Mr. Ballinger. While here this evening he gave out a letter to Mr. Ballinger, in which he exonerates the Secretary and other officials in the matter of charges affecting Alaskan coal land, grants the Secretary's request for the dismissal of L. R. Glavis, who made them, and in general approves Mr. Ballinger's policy.

Mr. Taft's letter, which is dated Beverly, Mass., Sept. 13, began:

"On the 18th day of August last L. R. Glavis, Chief of Field Division of the General Land Office, with headquarters at Seattle, Washington, called upon me here and submitted a statement or report relating to the conduct of the Interior Department and particularly to the action of yourself, Assistant Secretary Pierce, Commissioner of the General Land Office Dennett, and Chief of Field Service Schwartz in reference to the so-called Cunningham group of coal land claims in Alaska.

"Mr. Glavis's report does not formulate his charges against you and the others, but by insinuation and innuendo as well as by direct averment he does charge that each one of you while a public officer has taken steps to aid the Cunningham claimants to secure patents based on claims that you know or had reason to believe to be fraudulent and unlawful.

Glavis's Shreds of Suspicions.

"I have examined the whole record most carefully and have reached a very definite conclusion. It is impossible for me in announcing this conclusion to accompany it with a review of the charges and the evidence on both sides. It is sufficient to say that the case attempted to be made by Mr. Glavis embraces only shreds of suspicions without any substantial evidence to sustain his attack.

"The whole record shows that Mr. Glavis was honestly convinced of the illegal character of the claims in the Cunningham group and that he was seeking evidence to defeat the claims. But it also shows that there was delay on his part in preparing the evidence with which to bring this with other claims to hearing, and that justice to the claimants required more speedy action than the department, through Mr. Glavis, seems to have taken.

"Mr. Glavis seeks by quoting from a single telegram in the department to show that at one time the department wished to delay him in his investigations of the Alaska claims, and at another time unduly to hurry him, and he attempts to prove these two circumstances by citing telegrams and correspondence without disclosing other circumstances and correspondence which he knew or had under his control, and which do show an entirely proper reason for the action which in each case was directed to be taken.

"In other words, the reading of the whole record leaves no doubt that in his zeal to convict yourself, Acting Secretary Pierce, Commissioner Dennett, and Mr. Schwartz, he did not give me the benefit of information which he had that would have thrown light on the transactions, showing them to be consistent with an impartial attitude on your part toward the claims in question.

Ballinger Got Only $250 Fee.

Mr. Taft points out that Mr. Ballinger's employment in the Alaska cases involved a fee of only $250. He goes on:

"Your only action which could in any manner affect the Cunningham group of claims was an order made by you soon after assuming office, that the 30,000 claims pending and undisposed of in the Land Office should be pressed to final hearing and disposition as rapidly as possible consistent with justice, and these included the 931 Alaska coal claims, of which the Cunningham group numbered nineteen. As such expedition was essential both in the public interest and in that of the claimants, it could hardly be said to be action taken in the Cunningham claims.

"The record overwhelmingly establishes that, expressly because of your previous relation as counsel to one of the claimants, from the time you entered upon your duties of the office of Secretary of the Interior until the present day, you have studiously declined to have any connection whatever with the Cunningham claims, or to exercise any control over the course of the Department in respect to those claims; that you have said so in written and verbal communications to your subordinates and to the claimants themselves. Moreover, in May last you came to me and made a similar statement to me of your course and intention in respect to those claims.

"The statement made by Mr. Glavis that while you did thus formally withdraw from any official connection with the Cunningham claims, you nevertheless continued to exercise your influence in regard to them, is not sustained by any evidence in the records produced.

"The truth is that had you or Commissioner Dennett or Chief of Field Service Schwartz, during the years of the pendency of these claims, been desirous, through dishonest motives and without regard to law and the interests of the public, of bringing them to patent, the opportunities for you to have done so were many, and the circumstance that speaks, not more conclusively than many others, but still most emphatically, against the accusatory statements of Mr. Glavis is the fact that though his conviction that the claims were fraudulent or illegal was well known in the department, he was allowed, during all the years of the pendency of these claims, to remain in charge of them as an agent of the department, when it would have been entirely easy for either you or Dennett or Schwartz to remove him to Portland or elsewhere and thus take the claims out of his jurisdiction.

"In your answer you request authority to discharge Mr. Glavis from the service of the United States for disloyalty to his superior officers in making a false charge against them. When a subordinate in a Government bureau or department has trustworthy evidence upon which to believe that his chief is dishonest and is defrauding the Government it is, of course, his duty to submit that evidence to higher authority than his chief.

"But when he makes a charge against his chief founded upon mere suspicions,

FEAR FOR GOV. JOHNSON.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 15.—Gov. John A. Johnson underwent an operation for a deep-seated abscess in St. Mary's Hospital here to-day. Dr. William J. Mayo performed it, assisted by Dr. Charles Mayo. It was a serious operation, and Gov. Johnson's condition is regarded to-night as grave, though the surgeons hope for his recovery.

Gov. Johnson was upon the operating table for two hours and fifty-three minutes, while his wife waited within call. As soon as he had recovered from the effects of the anaesthetic his first words were a request to see Mrs. Johnson. She went at once to his bedside. Later in the day Mrs. Johnson, coming from the Governor's room, said that he was resting as easy as could be expected, and that she hoped for his speedy recovery.

Dr. C. F. McNevin, house physician at St. Mary's Hospital, at 9:30 o'clock this evening issued the following bulletin on Gov. Johnson's condition:

Gov. Johnson's condition is very bad. Pulse irregular and fast. Temperature subnormal.

Dr. William Mayo, who performed the operation on Gov. Johnson to-day, said in a long distance telephone conversation at 10:45 to-night with Frank A. Day, Gov. Johnson's private secretary:

The Governor had a bad spell at 8:30 P. M. From this he rallied, and I expect him to get through the night all right. If he survives to-morrow the chances for his recovery are good, though the danger will not be over for several days. His pulse is 140 and his temperature 99.

Gov. Johnson went through an operation some time ago for appendicitis, and was apparently cured. Adhesions afterward developed, however, and he again went under the knife. Recently there had been evidence of several adhesions and some more serious trouble and the Governor was told that another operation was necessary. It was not believed that it would be so serious as it has turned out, but Gov. Johnson arranged his affairs, both of the State and of his family, and then came here.

WOMEN KILL EACH OTHER.

With Knife and Revolver Have Desperate Struggle in Chicago Flat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Two screaming women, both wounded, called for help from the first floor apartment at 5,600 Prairie Avenue this afternoon. When neighbors rushed into the flat they found one woman dead, with eleven bullet holes in her body, and the other unconscious with a bullet wound in her breast and a knife cut across her forehead. She died a few hours later.

Mrs. Julius Tripp, who, with her husband, lived in the flat, was the dead woman. She was lying fully dressed on the floor of a front bedroom, her clothing torn almost to shreds. The other woman was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jacob Silvers of New York. She was attired only in a night dress, and was lying on her back on a bed in an adjoining bedroom. Beside her was a new revolver.

Mrs. Silvers died at the Washington Park Hospital at 10 P. M., and before dying confessed she had killed her sister-in-law.

The rooms in which the fight occurred were found in confusion. Furniture was wrecked and pictures lay on the floor, indicating that the struggle between the women was a long and desperate one.

Between periods of delirium in the hospital before her death Mrs. Silvers said that she and her sister-in-law had quarreled over household matters.

"I made up my mind to kill her with an axe," the woman said, "and then I came to the conclusion I would use a revolver."

Relatives of the two women bear out the belief that Mrs. Silvers was not of sound mind.

RACERS NEAR DROWNING.

Motor Boat Turns Turtle on the Hudson—Two Rescued.

The high-speed motor boat Elco-Craig turned turtle yesterday afternoon in the Hudson River, near Spuyten Duyvil, while competing in the opening races of the National Motor Boat Carnival, and its two occupants, Irwin Chase, who had charge of the boat, and William F. Ray, the engineer, were thrown into the water and narrowly escaped drowning.

Racing at an average speed of about twenty-six miles an hour the Elco-Craig was plowing through the water in its second round, when the famous Dixie II. passed Elco-Craig on the starboard side. A log floating directly in the path of the Elco-Craig caused Mr. Chase to make a quick turn of the boat to avoid striking the log. The sudden swerving of the craft caused it to turn turtle, and both Chase and Roy were hurled into the water.

With heavy oilskins on the men were in no condition to remain afloat any length of time, although both are good swimmers. The Captain of the Revenue Cutter Manhattan, which was patroling the triangular course, saw the mishap from a mile or so down the river and hastened to the rescue, but just before the cutter arrived a passing tug, with a heavy lighter in tow, went to the rescue of the men and pulled them aboard.

James H. Hoadley's, well-known speedy Den won the race for speed boats for the inter-State trophy. There were seven starters, including George F. Baker, Jr.'s, Vim. R. E. Vanderhoff's Whim got second place.

OPERATE ON "MONK" EASTMAN

Surgeons Amazed at the Scars of Many Battles They Found.

A man walked into Harlem Hospital last Friday morning and asked to be operated on immediately. He had some internal trouble which was causing him agony. Drs. Cassini, Bennett, and Herrity looked him over and then put him on a diet to prepare for the ordeal of the operation. Yesterday his condition warranted the operation, and he was placed on the operating table.

The physicians were astounded on viewing the man's body to observe the scars of three or four stab wounds, several bullet wounds, and a wound under the right eye evidently made by some blunt instrument. When he came out of the anaesthetic and was resting comfortably in bed, Dr. Cassini taxed him about his numerous scars.

"Oh, I've been in war," replied the man.

"The Spanish war?" suggested the surgeon.

"No, half a dozen wars down on the east side. I'm Monk Eastman."

The man was truly Eastman, and he is rapidly recovering from the operation. Meanwhile ever since Friday a plain clothes policeman has stood on guard outside the hospital. None of the men who have had the detail at different times would tell what they were doing there.

MISS STEWART WEDS; HOLDS TO HER FAITH

Becomes Bride of Prince Miguel, but Has Not Entered the Catholic Church.

PRINCE RETAINS RIGHTS

Has Not Yielded His Place in Line of Succession to the Throne—Royalty at the Wedding.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DINGWALL, Scotland, Sept. 15.—Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York, was married to-day to Prince Miguel of Braganza in the little Roman Catholic chapel of St. Lawrence. When the bride arrived at the church she graciously posed for an army of photographers and waved her hand to cheers.

The guests included Lord and Lady Monson, Lord and Lady Guernsey, Miss Burden, Mrs. Drexel, aunt, and Miss Drexel, cousin, of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, who brought a party including Mrs. Edmund Baylies, Mrs. Ronalds, Lady Craven, Louis Webb and Creighton Webb. There were also present Justice and Mrs. Gerald, Miss Daly, and Miss Sybil Douglas.

With regard to reports that it has been already arranged that the bride will enter the Roman Catholic Church, I have authority to state that it is an open question whether or not she eventually will become a Catholic. The Prince does not push the matter, and, so far as present indications are available, the bride is not disposed to abandon her Protestant religion.

It is mentioned as a remarkable coincidence that at the last royal wedding in Scotland the bride was a Stuart, the beautiful Queen Mary, and that the marriage was performed, as in this case, by a Bishop Chisholm. Prince Miguel has Stuart blood in his veins, and it is said at Dingwall that his bride, through her father, is able to trace her ancestry back to the royal house of Stuart. Her brother, Rhinelander Stewart, who gave her away, wore a Highland costume and tartan of the clan Stewart.

The congregation of St. Lawrence's Church is made up of descendants of the clans who belonged to the faith in the days of Mary, Queen of Scots.

The scene of the wedding of Prince Miguel a member of one of the proudest royal families of Europe, to Miss Stewart, the latest of the American heiresses to cross the Atlantic to find a husband, was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The chapel building was alive with color. In addition to the evergreens and trailing lengths of smilax that festooned the interior, the chancel was banked with tall white lilies, lilies of the valley, and palms, while the rustic arches that led up to the church were covered with flowers and inscribed in Portuguese, with the words, "God bless the Prince and his beautiful bride." A feature of the decorations were the colors, ruby and blue, associated for generations with the house of Braganza.

The avenue leading from Tulloch Castle also was spanned by several arches and gay with the American, Austrian, and Portuguese flags, and the colors of the bridegroom. The arch at the end of the avenue bore the words in English: "Long life and happiness to the Prince and Princess."

The wedding party arrived at the chapel in motor cars. The bride was accompanied by her mother and her brother, W. R. Stewart, Jr., who gave her away. She was unattended by either bridesmaids or pages. The Prince arrived in the company of his younger brother, Prince Francis Joseph, who supported him throughout the ceremony. Bishop Chisholm of Aberdeen, who during the visit of the King and Queen of Spain, said mass at the chapel daily, officiated. His assistants were Father Fraser of Dingwall and Father MacDonald of Glenfinnan.

The ceremony, which lasted about twenty minutes, was followed by the celebration of a low mass, after which the Bishop pronounced the Pope's blessing and a general benediction. The music was rendered by the choristers of the chapel, accompanied by the band of the Seaforth Highlanders.

The bride wore a graceful dress, carrying a long train of snow white chiffon over soft satin. The chiffon was embellished by long lines of fine embroidery in white silk, silver, and tiny pearls, made up of sprays of heather, fleur de lis, and Portuguese devices. A veil of old lace was worn over a wreath of orange blossoms and heather, fastened with a large feather of diamonds and sapphires, which has been in the Braganza family for centuries. This was present of the bridegroom. The only other jewels worn by the bride were a set of combs with diamond heads, a gift of the Archduchess Maria Theresa.

The bride made a charming appearance as she passed up the aisle on the arm of her brother, who wore a Highland costume, and a Stuart tartan. Her replies during the ceremony were low and tremulous, but the Prince, whom the Bishop addressed as "royal Highness," responded in clear tones that were audible throughout the edifice.

In an address to the couple following the ceremony Bishop Chisholm said the occasion was auspicious for both themselves and the Princess of a great catholic country. It was auspicious also for Scotland, and especially the Highlands, because here the Prince accepted the greatest gift God could give him, a wife. The Prince bowed in acquiescence at this remark. Continuing the Bishop said that history was repeating itself. He recalled an interesting incident of the house of Braganza as far back as 1830 when John, King of Portugal, married a Countess of Lancaster, who was a Scottish Princess, and who, after her marriage, always was escorted by a bodyguard of kilted Scotsmen.

On the return of the party to Tulloch Castle the wedding luncheon was served, during which pipers played marches, strathspeys, reels, and other appropriate music.

The weather was beautiful, and Dingwall was gay with bunting and crowded with visitors. The Prince, his father, and his brother made their appearance early, driving to the chapel at half past eight to attend mass. A small crowd already had gathered on the streets and cheered the bridegroom as he passed.

The wedding party drove away amid a burst of enthusiasm from the crowd that had gathered from all the countryside. The band of the Seaforth Highlanders played in turn "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the national anthem of Austria.

A member of the Braganza family declared to-day that the statement that Prince Miguel had renounced his claim to the throne of Portugal was erroneous. He explained that under the Portuguese law there was no such thing as a morganatic marriage. The only conditions necessary to legalize a marriage with a member of the Braganza family are the consent of the head of the house of Braganza, and that the bride be a Roman Catholic.

FOOD SHORTAGE TALK INTERESTS LONDON

Times Comments on Speeches of Taft and Hill and on Our Lack of Meat.

CALLS AMERICA PROFLIGATE

Has Suddenly Awakened to the Situation After Unthinking Waste of Magnificent Natural Resources.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—President Taft's speech in Boston, James J. Hill's speech on the possibility of a shortage in the American wheat supply, and the reports that the United States may have to seek cattle for its meat supply from South America, are made the text of an editorial which will appear in tomorrow's London Times, headed "The United States and World Commerce," which deals with "one of the most pregnant questions now confronting the American people."

"Not so long ago," says the article, "the suggestion that the United States were about to cease to be the chief granary of Europe would have been received with incredulity on both sides of the Atlantic. We in Europe, with our Old World notions of what constitutes a populated land, never dreamed that we soon might have to look to other sources for our wheat supply or that the great meat industry of Chicago would be compelled to seek its cattle abroad, while Americans, with the careless optimism of a young nation dowered with one of the largest and richest territories on earth, still regarded not only their wheat supply, but all their natural resources, as a kind of Fortunatus's purse.

"Farm, timber, and even pasture lands, deposits of coal and iron, all that makes a country rich, were being exploited with the utmost profligacy, and the prosperity of generations unborn was being mortgaged to the selfish needs of the present. That these excesses should suddenly have been stopped during the last few years is perhaps the most significant fact in contemporary American history."

The results of the national stocktaking then made, as they are likely to affect America's relations with the world at large, are examined by The Times. The new tariff law has abandoned what had been the dominating principle of American protectionism, namely, the penalization of all imports which could compete with domestic products. The Payne law admitting wood pulp free of duty is instanced as the beginning of a radical change in the American commercial policy.

"In a comparatively short time," The Times says, "the United States may find themselves obliged by circumstances they cannot control to readjust their trade relations with the world.

"Meanwhile there is growing up in America an evil which may have no small influence upon the course of American industrial development. The shortage of both wheat and cattle is attributed to the lack of labor. What has happened in England is happening across the Atlantic. Workers are deserting the country for the town so rapidly as to make the possibility of the rapid growth of the unemployed urban class a serious problem.

"J. J. Hill believes that the danger can only be averted by the creation for American manufacturers of a large foreign market and, perhaps, that is why President Taft's Administration has turned its energies to the development of foreign trade. No observer of the great movement of international commerce can fail to have been impressed by the recent quickening of American aspirations.

"As in world politics so in world commerce, the American people have begun to realize and reach out after the great prizes in which their place among the nations entitles them to a share. They are beginning to realize that the potentialities for wealth of their own continent are not inexhaustible, and that they must be ready to adapt their fiscal system and their methods of commerce to modern conditions of international trade and cosmopolitan finance."

The Times leader cites the co-operation between the Washington Government and the great business houses of New York in China, and concludes:

"As a commercial world power the United States are still in their infancy, or rather perhaps they are still a giant but half awaked. The significance of the discovery that their natural resources are not inexhaustible and of the approach of the problems of modern civilization such as that of unemployment has yet to be fully brought home."

NEW TESTS INDICATE NO LIFE ON MARS

Prof. Campbell's Observations Indicate There Is Little If Any Water Vapor There.

NO CLOUDS ABOUT PLANET

Director of Lick Observatory Says Experiments Taken at High Altitude Disprove Theory Previously Held.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Evidence tending to disparage the theory that life as it exists on the earth may be sustained on Mars has been obtained by Prof. W. W. Campbell, Director of Lick Observatory. As a result of his recent observations from the summit of Mount Whitney Prof. Campbell says he has proved that there is no water vapor of appreciable quantity on Mars. He also asserts that there is no evidence that Mars is inhabited.

Prof. Campbell says that the photographs taken from Mount Whitney of the spectrum of Mars, as compared with photographs of the spectrum of the moon, demonstrate conclusively the truth of his assertion. When the expedition returned last week it was thought that the presence of water vapor might be shown. Since that time, however, the negatives obtained during the periods of observation have been developed and the result has been to the contrary.

In speaking of the expedition and its results to-day Prof. Campbell said:

"The expedition had for its purpose study of the question of whether water vapor exists in the atmosphere of Mars. The observations made on the nights of Sept. 1 and 2 were mainly photographic.

How the Test Was Made.

"Water vapor in the atmosphere of any planet causes dark bands to be formed at certain definite positions in the spectrum of that planet; conspicuous bands if water vapor is abundant; inconspicuous bands if the quantity is slight.

"The observer of Mars must look through the earth's atmosphere; and the great quantity of water vapor in our atmosphere, if the observer is near the sea level or at ordinary altitudes, blots out the effect of any Martian vapor, making a solution of the problem impossible. By ascending Mount Whitney to an altitude of 14,501 feet, our expedition placed itself above probably four-fifths or more of the earth's water vapor. Further, the air on Mount Whitney was astonishingly clear during the time of the observations.

"Even a small quantity of water vapor at this high altitude would be almost fatal to success if we did not have a fairly satisfactory method of eliminating its effects. Our method was as follows: Our moon has no appreciable atmosphere. The Lunar and Martian spectra are affected alike by water vapor in the earth's atmosphere. These spectra are photographed, one immediately after the other, while conditions in our atmosphere remain unchanged, and with the moon and Mars at the same altitude above the horizon, so that their rays traverse equal paths in our atmosphere. If the vapor bands in the Martian spectrum should be found to be stronger than in the Lunar spectrum, we should conclude that Mars has water vapor in considerable quantities. If the bands in two spectra were equally strong, that would show that water vapor on Mars did not exist in sufficient quantities to be detected by spectroscopic methods.

"The latter condition was found to exist when these methods were applied under the superlatively favorable conditions existing on Mount Whitney.

Three Sets of Pictures Taken.

"Both the spectra were photographed when Mars and the moon were near the horizon, again when they were at medium altitudes, and finally when they were 49 degrees above the horizon.

"This does not mean that Mars has no water vapor, but only that the quantity present, if any, must be very slight. Let us recall the fact that we see Mars by reflected sunlight. The rays which reach our instruments passed from the sun into the Martian atmosphere, for the most part down to the surface of the planet, and then out again to us, thus passing twice through the planet's atmosphere and any water vapor it may contain. Even with this multiplying effect on Mars, vapor bands in the Martian and Lunar spectra were alike, and we conclude that any water vapor in the Martian atmosphere must be much less extensive than we have contained in rarefied and remarkably dry air strata above Mount Whitney.

"These observations do not prove that life does not or cannot exist on Mars. The question of whether life can exist under these conditions is one for biologists rather than for astronomers.

"Two years ago Percival Lowell's staff at Flagstaff, Arizona, announced the discovery of large quantities of water vapor on Mars. Previously English, French, and German astronomers who made observations from the sea level or points near the sea level reached the same conclusion. They are all wrong. What they saw was not water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars, but water vapor over the point in the earth's atmosphere from which they made their observations.

"Mars is never clouded, and when the astronomer is getting ready to observe the planet he does not ask himself: Will Mars be clear? He knows it will. He put this question to himself: Will the earth be clear?

No Clouds Found on Mars.

"It is possible that some observers have seen specks that resembled clouds at widely separated intervals, several months apart, perhaps several years. But they were not clouds.

"I have always held the belief that the existence of polar caps was evidence of water on the planet, but there is no proof that this is the case. The polar caps behave as would carbon dioxide. Now, carbon dioxide is the last lingering remnant of an ancient atmosphere. It is the heaviest component part and would persist the longest. Perhaps other ingredients escaped into outer space.

"The fact that clouds are perhaps never seen at the edge of the polar caps militates against the theory that the caps consist of snow and ice as we know them.

"There is no single scrap of evidence that Mars is inhabited. All that the astronomer can hope to do is to determine whether conditions on the planet are favorable to existence of life or are opposed.

"The so-called canals and other markings I do not consider as evidence of man's work. No doubt changes in details of the markings on the planet's surface from time to time appear in connection with the changes of the season, perhaps due to ordinary changes in vegetation."

PEARY TO SEEK SOUTH POLE?

Mailboat from Labrador Reports He and Bartlett Are Going.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 15.—The mailboat from Labrador, which arrived at St. John's to-night, reports that Commander Peary and Capt. Bartlett have already settled on an expedition to the south pole. They have on board the Roosevelt furs, sledges, and other equipment necessary for such an expedition.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The report which has reached here that Commander Peary and Capt. Bartlett have decided on a south pole expedition will create a great stir in geographical circles. Although Capt. Robert F. Scott's expedition was decided upon before the arrival of the news of the Cook and Peary exploits, it was admittedly pressed forward with the intention of forestalling a possible American expedition and because of quickened interest in polar exploration, evidenced by the projected German and Belgian expeditions to the antarctic.

Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton was invited to join Capt. Scott, but his engagements prevented him from doing so.

Capt. Scott's expedition still depends upon raising the necessary funds, at least $200,000 being required. A considerable portion of this has already been promised, and there is little doubt that the report that Commander Peary is likely to start for the south pole will stimulate the public and hasten the subscription of the remainder. The Government has not as yet announced its intention of assisting the enterprise financially, but it may be taken for granted that this will be done.

MISS ELKINS NOT ENGAGED.

William F. R. Hitt Makes Written Denial of Their Betrothal.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Miss Katherine Elkins, her mother and brother, are expected again in Paris in eight days. Their plan is then to proceed to Switzerland.

William F. R. Hitt, who has been attentive to Miss Elkins during her Paris visit, sent me to-day a written denial of his engagement to Miss Elkins.

ABRUZZI TO JOIN THE KING.

Will See Naval Manoeuvres and Then Lecture in Rome.

ROME, Sept. 15.—The Duke of the Abruzzi will meet King Victor Emmanuel at Gaeta and will probably witness the latter part of the naval manoeuvres. The Duke will then receive his appointment as Rear Admiral.

Later he will come to Rome to lecture before the Geographical Society on his expedition to the Himalayas.

SAVES THREE FROM DROWNING

Children Fall Off Pier at the Same Time—Stephen White's Brave Act.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Sept. 15.—The two little daughters of Mrs. James Schue and Claudia Walker, the small daughter of George Walker of this place, were at play upon one of the piers fronting on Northport Harbor yesterday when, while walking along the stringpiece balancing themselves like tightrope walkers, all three fell into the water.

Their screams brought Stephen White of this place on the run, and he leaped into the water after them. The children were sinking when he dove in and Claudia had lost consciousness. He got all three out safely, and they were soon revived.

GAS-PROPELLED SEA SERPENT

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Sept. 15.—A vision of a sea snake fully 200 feet long lying close inshore, with enormous jaws emitting spray, vicious teeth, blazing eyes, flapping ears, and a flowing mane extending from his wicked head down to the main body, startled New York travelers from the Jersey Coast as their trains whisked by the new steamboat pier at this place this morning. The monster towered even higher than the locomotives of the passing Jersey Central trains.

"Help!" shouted the plump commuter from Asbury Park, starting from a doze.

Some opined that the beast was intended either to scare Raritan smugglers, protect the pounds from night fishermen, or to boom shore real estate next season.

A. L. Gorlin, the sad-eyed, solemn man who recently settled here, viewed the thing intently for hours from the bathing beach, and then explained the appearance substantially as follows:

"Moving pictures is my business. That's my sea serpent, and I am proud of her. She'll look bigger to-morrow when we get her tail on. She's mounted on a gasoline launch, speed twelve miles. She's made mainly of empty barrels.

"We'll have the Cunard and Sandy Hook boats in when we throw her on the screen, but first we'll give the newspaper men about here a private view."

FLINT LOST IN CANYON.

Senator Rescued After He Had Almost Given Up Hope.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 15.—Lost in a canyon on San Clemente Island, with no water and but little hope of being found by other members of his party, United States Senator Flint of California spent seven hours Monday. Mr. Flint was a member of a party composed of Gifford Pinchot, United States Forester; Stewart Edward White, the author, and Charles F. Holder. San Clemente is 35 miles from Catalina. The party spent several days in fishing, tramping, and exploring the Indian mounds. On Monday they went on one of these exploring expeditions. On the return Senator Flint saw what he thought was a short cut to camp. He tried it, and soon found himself working down the narrow runway of a deep canyon.

The Senator reached the bottom of the gorge, the sides of which rose abruptly. He turned to go back, but found that he could not do so. The canyon walls were of decomposed granite. He tried to work his way back, but fell and rolled fifty feet, being bruised severely.

His only way out was to keep straight on. It was desperately hard work, creeping over the edges of dry water falls, sliding from one grade to another, and making his way down the canyon bed.

As he was about to give up in despair he saw the ocean before him. He scrambled down the last hundred yards, and came out on a small, sheltered part of the beach.

Some time later a fishing boat appeared in sight. The castaway Senator took off his coat and waved it as a token of distress. At last he attracted the attention of the fishermen, who rescued him.

EVENTS AT POLE TOLD BY HENSON

NIGHT SPENT IN IGLOOS

FLAG CHEERED BY ESKIMOS

Smoke and an Odor of Brimstone in Whale Sound—Commander Peary's Wonderful Endurance.

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador, Sept. 15—(By Wireless Telegraph via Cape Ray, N. F.)—"We hoisted the Stars and Stripes twice at the north pole," said Matthew Henson to-night. He is Commander Robert E. Peary's colored lieutenant and the only other civilized man, according to Commander Peary, who ever reached the pole.

Henson gave an account of the one night and two days he and Commander Peary and four Eskimos camped at 90 degrees north latitude. He personally assisted in raising the American flag, and he led the Eskimos in the cheers, with an extra cheer for Old Glory in Eskimo.

Knows the Eskimo Language.

"Having spent eighteen years with Commander Peary and a considerable portion of that time in the arctic," said Henson, "I have acquired a knowledge of the dialect of the Northern Greenland Eskimos, who are probably superior to any other. As is commonly known to travelers in the Far North, the Eskimo entertains a strange prejudice toward any tongue but one, and it is therefore necessary, for successful dealing with them, to study their unwritten language.

"We arrived at the pole just before noon on April 6, the party consisting of the Commander, myself, four Eskimos, and thirty-six dogs, divided into two detachments equal in number and headed respectively by Commander Peary and myself. We had left the last supporting party at 87 degrees 53 minutes, where we separated from Capt. Bartlett, who was photographed by the Commander. Capt. Bartlett regretted that he did not have a British flag to erect on the ice at this spot so that the photograph might show this as the farthest north to which the banner of England had been advanced. I kept a personal diary during this historic dash across the ice field.

Slept One Night at the Pole.

"Our first task on reaching the pole was to build two igloos, as the weather was hazy and prevented taking accurate observations to confirm the distance traveled from Cape Columbia. Having completed the snow houses we had dinner, which included tea made on our alcohol stove, and then retired to rest, thus sleeping one night at the north pole.

"The arctic sun was shining when I awoke and found the Commander already up. There was only wind enough to blow out the small flags. The ensigns were hoisted toward noon from tent poles and tied with fish lines.

"We had figured out the distance pretty closely and did not go beyond the pole. The flags were up about midday April 7 and were not moved until late that evening. The haze had cleared away early, but we wanted some hours to take observations. We made three close together.

"When we first raised the American flag its position was behind the igloos which, according to our initial observations, was the position of the pole, but on taking subsequent observations the Stars and Stripes were moved and placed 150 yards west of the first position, the difference in the observations being due perhaps to the moving ice.

Flag Moved Short Distance.

"When the flag was placed Commander Peary exclaimed in English:

"'We will plant the Stars and Stripes at the north pole.'

"In the native language I proposed three cheers, which were given in the Eskimos' own tongue. Commander Peary shook hands all around, and we had a more liberal dinner than usual, each man eating as much as he pleased.

"The Eskimos danced about, and showed great pleasure that the pole at last was reached. For years the Eskimos had been trying to reach that spot, but it was always with them 'tiquelgh,' which, translated, means, 'get so far and no closer.' They exclaimed in a chorus, 'Ting neigh tim ah ketisher,' meaning, 'We have got there at last.'"

Solid Sea of Ice.

Henson said conditions were about the same at the pole as elsewhere in the arctic circle. All was a solid sea of ice, except for a two-foot lead of open water two miles from the pole.

The Eskimos who went along on the final lap were Ootah, Egingwah, Ouzaueeah, and Sigloo, the two first being brothers. Commander Peary took photographs of Henson and the Eskimos waving flags and cheering.

"The report is absolutely untrue," continued Henson, "that I did not go to the pole. I went the whole distance side by side with the Commander and just as far as he did."

Henson added that he knew that some in the expedition did not wish him to get to the pole, if they could prevent it, but he knew that before he started. He also said that he saw Commander Peary write the records which were left in the ice. The Eskimos who were with them, with the exception of Ouzaueeah, understood English, and one of them could count a hundred.

"At the pole," continued Henson, "we could see no open lead, and we went no distance beyond the flags. The ice near the igloos was at least ten feet high and the flags were placed on a hummock twenty feet in height. The ice at the pole was about the same as on the journey up, all rafted in between with small floes. Nearly all the winds we had were from the northeast. Commander Peary had three thermometers, and the coldest day was 57 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. I believe there is a little difference in the temperature at the pole from that some distance south."

Henson learned from the Eskimos

Evidence of New Volcano.

that for three days in Whale Sound last month they saw a cloud of smoke and there was an odor like brimstone. The natives were greatly frightened, and Henson thought a new volcano had broken out, and so informed them.

Henson made his first trip north in 1891. He went there because he was interested, and kept on going year after year. Of Commander Peary he said to-day:

"He is the best man that we could have for arctic expeditions. He has wonderful endurance, and the weather never is too cold for him. Many times I would not leave the camp except for him. It never blows hard enough, nor can the snow drift deep enough to discourage the Commander. A compass course is all he desires. So long as a man does his work half decently the Commander never complains. The Eskimos think that there is no man like him."

Matthew Henson was born in Washington, but lived for a time in Florida. He says he prefers the north pole because it is too warm, and there are too many mosquitoes in the South. He is quite proud to be the colored man to go to the farthest north. He says he cares less for glory than for earning a living for his wife in New York.

Has Lost Twenty Pounds.

He is in good health, but lost twenty pounds in the sixty-eight days' march to the pole and return, and now weighs 135 pounds. The only frost bites he sustained were on the cheek and fingers. He thinks some colored men can endure as much exposure as white men, although he is not sure that he stood the cold the first year as well as his white companions. Since then, however, he has become acclimated.

Speaking of the Eskimos, Henson said they could draw as good a chart of that country as any person. They do not know the length of a mile, but can estimate distance very exactly. To one who knows the language they will tell dates within a few days. The Eskimo women can reckon just how many days the men are out. The men cannot take observations, but they know what they are taken for.

In conclusion, Henson said he certainly would go to the south pole tomorrow if he had a chance, as he was interested in exploring and it would be hard for him to stop.

PEARY'S RETURN DEFERRED.

Will Not Reach Sydney Before the End of the Week.

Special to The New York Times.

SYDNEY, N. S., Sept. 15.—The only news received from Commander Peary today came in a message from him to Mrs. Peary, which said he would be "unable to reach Sydney before the end of the week."

Most of the out-of-town people who had come to Sydney with the expectation of welcoming the explorer have gone, dropping away detachment after detachment. The town has resumed its normal appearance, and, owing to the uncertainty which continues to shroud the movements of the Roosevelt, the reception plans so feverishly pushed a few days ago have come to a halt, the committee realizing that it has plenty of time and that there is no need of going further until definite news is received.

Harry Whitney of New Haven, who Dr. Cook says has in his possession documents and records proving Dr. Cook's claim that he reached the north pole, will find several hundred telegrams addressed to himself when he reaches Sydney.

The Sydney Record publishes this evening a statement made by Joseph MacDonald, a barrister of North Sydney, who, according to The Record, knows both Dr. Cook and Bradley well. The Record says:

"Mr. Bradley when he arrived at North Sydney in his schooner, the John R. Bradley, had a letter of introduction to Mr. MacDonald, from the latter's brother in New York. Mr. MacDonald introduced him to the bankers at North Sydney and performed other offices of a similar nature for both him and Dr. Cook, and saw a good deal of them during their stay at North Sydney. Mr. Bradley also called to see him after he came back from his trip to the north.

"On the passage up neither Mr. Bradley nor Dr. Cook said anything about a north pole venture, and when Mr. MacDonald remarked upon the great supply of provisions which the schooner John R. Bradley had on board—she was, he said, literally filled to the hatches with stores and equipment likely to be needed on a prolonged arctic journey—an evasive reply was given. Dr. Cook, he was told, was going on a scientific expedition with the object of collecting data for a book on arctic life. Mr. Bradley himself was going on a sporting trip and would hunt musk ox, walrus, and polar bear and other arctic big game.

"When Mr. Bradley returned to North Sydney that Autumn after leaving Dr. Cook in the Far North, Mr. Bradley admitted to Mr. MacDonald that Cook's real objective was the north pole. Another thing stated by Mr. Bradley was that Dr. Cook wanted to get north as soon as possible so as to get there ahead of Peary, who was then preparing for the expedition just ended, and so obtain a pick of the Eskimos.

"A thing which struck the people at North Sydney when Mr. Bradley and Dr. Cook were there in 1907, was the peculiar relations between the two men. The explorer and the millionaire sportsman did not appear to go about as equals, but rather as master and man, Dr. Cook being the man. The attitude of the latter was singularly humble, not to say obsequious, to Mr. Bradley, and he always deferred to the latter's opinion on whatever came up, and Mr. Bradley was always inclined to contemptuously outspoken with his friend the scientist. The latter, in fact, had every appearance of being subject to the former's orders."

FLAGS RAISED BY PEARY.

One of Them He Had Carried on Every Expedition.

BATTLE HARBOR, Via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 15.—Commander Peary told today of the flags he raised at the pole and the records he left there, and he touched again on some of the assertions credited to Dr. Frederick A. Cook.

Commander Peary said that when he reached the pole the first flag to be thrown to the breeze was a silken American emblem presented to him by his wife fifteen years ago. He had carried this flag on every one of his expeditions to the north, leaving a piece of it at the highest point he attained. The last remnants were raised and left at the pole.

He then raised the navy ensign, the flag of the Navy League, then the flag of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and finally a flag of peace. Tent poles and snow lances were used as flagstaffs, and when all had been raised the commander took a number of photographs of the group.

After this ceremony Peary inclosed records of his trip and other documents and personal papers in a box, and buried this in the ice. The documents were placed in watertight coverings, and the box itself was watertight, so that it would float if the shifting or melting ice brought it to water. Commander Peary has not yet developed the photographs he took at the pole.

Referring to the weather conditions at the pole, Commander Peary said he found nothing like the revolving wind reported by Antarctic explorers. He said weather conditions varied from time to time, although there was probably considerable uniformity. He would not say whether or not he found currents at the pole.

Commander Peary received a cablegram to-day asking him to make a statement regarding a report from a Danish source that he had posted a notice on the Greenland coast to the effect that Dr. Cook was dead, making this notice a pretext for the appropriation of Dr. Cook's supplies. He said he knew nothing of this; that it evidently was a newspaper fabrication. He expects to be quoted erroneously in the press as making a variety of statements. He added that he had said all he intended to say regarding Dr. Cook for the present.

Peary did not witness the beginning or the end of the solar eclipse; the part he did see was obscured by clouds. He said he had experienced no earthquake in the polar region, explaining at the same time that it would be difficult to recognize such occurrences because of the movement of the ice and the continual grinding noise resulting therefrom.

The steamer Roosevelt has on board a valuable collection of mineral and geological samples and specimens of northern bird, plant, and animal life for the American Museum of Natural History.

In referring to the reception being planned for him when he reaches home, Commander Peary said:

"From such fragmentary reports as I have received, I am more touched, gratified, and honored than I can say at the way the public has treated my work."

TYRIAN AT POINT RICHE.

Steamer Carrying Correspondents Proceeds for Battle Harbor.

POINT RICHE, N. F., via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 15.—The steamer Tyrian, with a number of newspaper correspondents on board, arrived here this morning from Sydney, and left this afternoon for Battle Harbor.

Capt. Dickson has sent a wireless telegram to Commander Peary placing the Tyrian at the disposal of the explorer for his return to Sydney.

CONTEMPT CHARGED IN COPYRIGHT CASE

REPRINTED PEARY STORY

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A petition was filed late this afternoon in the office of the Clerk of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, charging the Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, publishers of William R. Hearst's Chicago Examiner, with reprinting copyrighted material in the face of an injunction.

The petition, signed by The Tribune Company and its solicitors, Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Phitt, asks the court to declare the defendant and its managing editor in contempt for violation of the injunction referred to. The latter applies to republication of the account of the discovery of the north pole by Robert E. Peary, which account was copyrighted by The New York Times Company and The Tribune Company.

Judge Grosscup granted the temporary injunction. The petition calls attention to the fact that the defendants announced at the time that they would disregard the injunction and "take their chances." Owing to the visit of President Taft it is not expected that Judge Grosscup will hear arguments on the petition tomorrow, but the matter probably will come before him on Friday. Attorney Moritz Rosenthal will represent the defendants.

Text of the Petition.

United States of America, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, ss:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division.

New York Times Company and The Tribune Company vs. Illinois Publishing and Printing Company.—No. 29,595.

To the Hon. Peter S. Grosscup, Judge of the Circuit Court of the United States:

Your petitioner, The Tribune Company, respectfully represents and charges:

That on the ninth day of September, A. D., 1909, your petitioner and The New York Times Company filed their certain bill of complaint herein against the Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois, as defendant, in which said bill your petitioner and the said New York Times Company prayed, among other things, for a temporary injunction restraining the defendant, its agents, attorneys, employes, and servants, and each of them, from "printing, reprinting, publishing, copying, vending, or in any manner circulating or disposing of any book, newspaper, or publication containing the whole or any part of said narrative."

Bill of Complaint Delivered.

That at the time of filing of the said bill of complaint as aforesaid, your petitioner and the said New York Times Company gave notice to the defendant that your petitioner and the said New York Times Company would apply to your Honor, at a time and place in said notice fixed, for the issuance of such temporary writ of injunction, and, at the time of giving such notice, delivered to the said defendant a copy of the said bill of complaint so filed by your petitioner and the said New York Times Company.

That at the time and place fixed in said notice, to wit: At the residence of the Hon. Peter S. Grosscup, Judge of said court, in Highland Park, in said district, at the hour of 8:30 P. M., on the said ninth day of September, 1909, your Honor held said court, and the clerk of said court was present, and your petitioner and the said New York Times Company appeared by their counsel, and the defendant appeared by Roy D. Keehn, its counsel, and after argument by counsel for the respective parties, the court ordered that an injunction issue, and thereupon there was issued out of said court, in said cause, a temporary and preliminary injunction, in and by which the said defendant, Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, its agents, attorneys, employes, and servants, were and each of them was enjoined and restrained from "printing, reprinting, publishing, copying, vending, or any manner circulating or disposing of the story and narrative of said Robert E. Peary of his voyage to the north pole, or any part thereof, contained in the copyrighted book of the complainants, described in the bill of complaint filed herein, and from printing, reprinting, publishing, vending, or in any way circulating or disposing of any book, newspaper, or publication containing the whole or any part of said narrative, except the copyrighted book or a licensed copy thereof."

And the court in and by said injunction did further order that "the complainant, The Tribune Company, file with the clerk of this court a copy of the copyrighted matter as soon as may be after its receipt, beginning at 11:30 P. M. or thereabout, and that the defendant may have an inspection for the purpose of comparison."

Notice of Injunction Given.

That at the time of the issuance of said injunction the said defendant was represented upon said hearing by its said counsel, and said injunction was then and there read and heard by said Keehn, and that before midnight on said ninth day of September, 1909, and before the defendant had printed the edition of The Chicago Examiner, published by said defendant on the tenth day of September, 1909, your petitioner advised and informed Victor H. Polachek, then and now the managing editor of said Chicago Examiner, and of the said defendant, that said injunction order had been issued as prayed in said bill of complaint, and then and there informed said Polachek of the provisions of said injunction order; and your petitioner says that the said defendant and its officers, agents, and servants, and said Polachek had notice and knowledge of said injunction, and were fully advised and informed that said injunction had been issued, and of the nature and scope of the said injunction order, on said Sept. 9, 1909, and long before the commission of the contempt hereinafter specified.

Your petitioner further says that said Victor H. Polachek was, on Sept. 9, 1909, and on Sept. 10, 1909, and still is, the managing editor of The Chicago Examiner, the paper published by the defendant, and was, prior to said Sept. 9, 1909, by the defendant placed in control of its said paper, and was, on the 9th day of September, 1909, and the tenth day of September, 1909, in immediate control of the publication of the said Chicago Examiner, so published by the defendant as aforesaid.

Your petitioner further says that the said copyright matter referred to in the bill of complaint filed in this cause as aforesaid, was by your petitioner, the Tribune Company, published in its daily paper known as The Chicago Daily Tribune, of Friday, the 10th day of September, 1909, and was the matter printed under and following the notice of copyright in Columns 1 and 2 of the first page of The Chicago Daily Tribune, so published by your petitioner on the tenth day of September 1909, and in Columns 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of Page 7 of the said Chicago Daily Tribune of Sept. 10, 1909, and your petitioner attaches hereto a copy of the said Chicago Daily Tribune of Sept. 10, 1909, and marks the same "Exhibit A" and by express reference thereto makes the said copyrighted articles, set forth in the columns of said paper as aforesaid, a part of this petition, as fully as if the same were in words and figures set forth herein.

Matter Published by Defendants.

That on the tenth day of September, 1909, and while the defendant, the Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, and said Victor H. Polachek, managing editor of the said paper, had full knowledge and notice of the issuance of the said injunction, the said Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, and the said Victor H. Polachek published and caused to be published the said paper known as The Chicago Examiner under date of Sept. 10, 1909; and your petitioner attaches hereto and marks "Exhibit B," a copy of said "Chicago Examiner," dated Sept. 10, 1909, and makes Column 1 upon Page 1 of said "Chicago Examiner," by express reference, a part of this petition, with like effect as if the matter set forth in said columns had been set forth in the body of this petition in words and figures as in said exhibit, set forth.

And your petitioner says that said defendant, the Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, and the said Victor H. Polachek, an officer and employe of said defendant, by publishing said article so contained in Column 1, on Page 1, and in Columns 1, 2, 3, and 4, on Page 5 of said Chicago Examiner, violated the said injunction on the said 10th day of September, 1909, with full notice and information regarding the issuance of said injunction.

Your petitioner further says that your petitioner, The Tribune Company, in pursuance of said order of this court, did file with the clerk of this court a copy of the said copyrighted matter, as soon as might be after its receipt, and before the commission of the contempt thereinbefore specified, and which receipt began about 11:30 P. M. on said 9th day of September, 1909, and your petitioner craves leave to refer to said copy so filed by it with said clerk and now on file in this court with like effect, as if such copy has been set forth at length herein.

Said They Would Disregard Writ.

That after the receipt of said copyrighted matter by your petitioner, The Tribune Company, and after the same had been filed by it with the said Clerk as aforesaid, and after said defendant, the Illinois Publishing and Printing Company, and said Victor H. Polachek, its managing editor, and the managing editor of said Chicago Examiner, had full notice and knowledge of said injunction and its provisions, and before the publication of said Chicago Examiner, "Exhibit B" aforesaid, said defendant and said Polachek stated that they would publish said "Exhibit B" notwithstanding said injunction, and would take their chances.

Wherefore, the premises considered, your petitioner prays that an order may be entered herein, directing said Illinois Publishing and Printing Company and said Victor H. Polachek to show cause, by a short day to be fixed by this honorable court, why they and each of them should not be attached for contempt of this honorable court for violating the said injunction as aforesaid, and should not be punished for such contempt.

And your petitioner will ever pray, &c.

THINK THEY HAVE SLAYER.

Man Named by Survivor of Three Children in Utica Outrage in Custody.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—To-day has brought several important developments in Sunday night's Italian murder mystery in this city, culminating to-night in the arrest of the man suspected of the crime. The arrest was made on Bleecker Street, not far from the house where the two murdered children lived, by Police Sergeant Barry and Officer Grande, an Italian patrolman. The man in custody is Michele Rizzo, and it is said that some time ago he boarded at the Procopio home. The authorities had been seeking him throughout the day, working upon the first definite clue which they have had since the crime was discovered early Monday morning.

The clue was secured this morning from little Fanny Infusino, the surviving victim of the tragedy, at the hospital, where she is confined. Until to-day the child had maintained that she did not know the name of the man who had committed the crime, but this morning her confidence was won by Mrs. W. C. Gray, and she talked freely, giving the name of the man, as well as the most complete description of him that the police have had.

Mrs. Gray was the woman who first discovered the plight of the [illegible] Infusino children, near the Eagle Street culvert beside the dead body of their companion, Theresa Procopio. The child did not hesitate to give to her the information which she has withheld from the authorities. To Mrs. Gray she said that she did not know the man, but his name had been told her by the Procopio child. Mrs. Gray would give the information which she secured only to the authorities, and the name, for obvious reasons, was given out wrong.

The child says that the murderer had a black mustache, black hair, wore black clothes, but not nice ones, and that he wore a soft black hat.

The girl explained that the first shot was fired at her, the second at her brother, and the last one was sent through Theresa's heart.

The funeral of Theresa Procopio was held this morning and was attended by thousands. Four little playmates were the pallbearers, and the casket was heaped with flowers. Not only were nearly all the Italians in the city in attendance but hundreds of Americans were in the cemetery and at the church. This afternoon the funeral of Freddy Infusino was held, and the crowd was even greater than at the funeral of the girl. The streets leading from the church to the cemetery were lined with people long before the hour for the funeral procession.

TAFT AND HUGHES PRAISE EACH OTHER

13,000-MILE TRIP BEGINS

Nation's Executive, Speeding Westward, Speaks Also at Springfield and Worcester—In Chicago To-day.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—After traversing to-day the two great States of Massachusetts and New York, President Taft to-night is skirting the southern shores of Lake Erie on his way to Chicago, where he is due to arrive at 11:30 A. M. to-morrow to make his first important stop on a 13,000-mile tour of the West and South.

The Presidential train of three cars, with two empty coaches ahead as buffers, passed through here at 7:35 P. M. as the first section of one of the regular Chicago expresses.

Wherever the train stopped to-day on its run from Boston there were large crowds at the railway stations, and the President was greeted with enthusiastic cheers. The day was typical of many that are to come, and the President was prevailed upon to make a number of five-minutes speeches from the rear platform of his car at points not included in the itinerary. In Massachusetts Mr. Taft spoke at Worcester, Springfield, and Pittsfield. Entering New York State, the President was greeted at Albany by Gov. Charles E. Hughes, and both made little talks to the depot throng, which cheered the State and Federal Executives with equal enthusiasm. Gov. Hughes was the President's guest on the run from Albany to Syracuse, and had dinner with him on the car Mayflower.

Mr. Taft was in rare good humor today. He seemed thoroughly happy that the journey toward which he has been looking for several months had at last begun. He thanked those who came to greet him in the different cities, and said he believed that the long and arduous trip would bring him into closer touch with the people than any other plan which could be devised. The more he could see of the country and the people during his term of office, he said, the better President he would make. In behalf of the people of the State of New York, Gov. Hughes bade the President godspeed and a safe return to his duties in Washington.

President Taft and Gov. Hughes are pronounced admirers of each other and their meetings are always characterized by exchanges of compliments. To-day President Taft told of the splendid work Gov. Hughes had done for him, and the Governor replied that the President could never call upon him in vain.

Taft's Fifty-second Birthday.

Starting from Boston a little after 10 o'clock this morning, well tanned by more than five weeks on the golf links and strengthened by forty days of vacation, the President headed straight for the West. It was his fifty-second birthday, and he received many congratulations and messages of good-will. At Pittsfield some enthusiastic admirers fairly filled the President's car with flowers. The throng which lined the way from the hotel to the station in Boston was but a forerunner of those encountered along the way. Even at places where the President's train did not stop there were many to wave him a greeting.

As guests out of Boston the President had with him his aunt, Miss Della Torrey, Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, and William Nelson Cromwell of New York. Miss Torrey, of whom the President is very fond, went as far as Worcester, leaving the train there to go to her home at Millbury, where many of Mr. Taft's ancestors lived. Senator Crane went as far as Pittsfield, and Mr. Cromwell to Albany.

The President set a precedent to-day for the entire trip by electing to run on a slow schedule. The New York Central lines surrounded the train with every precaution for its safety. There were always three men on the engine, and prominent representatives of the traffic department were aboard from the start.

Vice President Sherman made a vain effort to see the President at Utica, Mr. Sherman's home city. It was not known that the Vice President was at home or would be at the station. The train stopped about thirty seconds for orders. Mr. Sherman clambered aboard the rear end, and was making his way toward the President's room, when the conductor, not knowing the Vice President was aboard, gave the signal to go ahead. Mr. Sherman shouted to one of the attachés that he was not able to go on to Syracuse, and hopped off. He left behind, however, a five-pound box of candy as a birthday present.

Taft Speaks at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 15.—A crowd of about 5,000 persons gathered at the station here to greet the President, whose special train arrived at 12:37 P. M. and left five minutes later. Mr. Taft addressed the throng briefly from the rear platform of his car.

"I am very much pleased," the President said, "to be in Springfield. I have been here before. I like Springfield first rate, and it has been a pleasure coming through your State of Massachusetts. You pride yourselves on a city of homes. It is also a city of traveling men, who go throughout the entire length and breadth of the union selling their wares. I like to talk to that class of men. I am a sort of itinerant preacher myself. I am bringing a message of good will to all. I am starting on a long journey. Whether my throat and digestion will last, I do not know.

"As you know, the people have voted me $25,000 for traveling expenses. Congressman Gillet helped me get that. It is very hard to get anything from the Appropriations Committee unless you have a mighty good case."

The President then referred to the work of the Executive, and concluded by saying: "The bulwarks of the Government are the men you elect to Congress. Goodbye."

President Taft's rear-platform speech at Worcester, where his aunt, Miss Torrey, alighted, was similar to that delivered here. Referring to the fact that many of his boyhood vacations were spent at Millbury, just outside of Worcester, the President said:

"You haven't done right by Millbury. You ought to clean up the Blackstone River, so that it will not smell when we go there.

"I feel very much at home in Worcester County. All my ancestors have come from Worcester County on both sides way back. The first one who came here was a housewright. He was a carpenter. My father, who was interested in genealogy, had a good deal to explain in telling how it was that when he signed his will he signed it with a cross. He always said he had hurt his hand with a hatchet, and therefore could not use it with the pencil. But his wife, Sarah Taft, signed hers in her own name, which only shows that what helps out in a family is to have the woman of it understand things."

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—President Taft put in a busy half hour during his brief stop in Albany to-day on his westward journey.

Gov. Hughes was one of the first to board the President's car and extend greetings when his special train arrived at 3:45 P. M. Charles S. Francis of Troy, United States Ambassador to Austria-Hungary; Judge John T. McDonough, a former member of the Supreme Court of the Philippines, and Postmaster James B. McEwan, who was a classmate of Mr. Taft at Yale, were among those who chatted with the President during his stay.

Taft and Hughes Together.

"I want Gov. Hughes to come out and back me up on this platform," said the President. "When we are together there is plenty of strength, and we work better than on separate platforms.

"In Massachusetts, where I have just come from, I had a Senator and a Congressman or two to help me out on the platform, but I do not need any one here, for I have Gov. Hughes. He always helps me out on the platform, and that's where I need assistance."

President Taft then presented the Governor.

"I have made a good many speeches in the last few years," said Mr. Hughes, "but those I enjoyed making most were the ones for which I had the best subject, and the best subject for a speech is a man. And I never made speeches with better satisfaction to myself than I did during the last campaign in support of your great President."

"You'll never call on me in vain," responded the Governor, who continued:

"Just one word this assemblage irrespective of party desires to have said and that is godspeed and best wishes for the Chief Magistrate of this Nation. He is going on a long journey so that the people may see him and hear his voice. It is an undertaking of difficulty and personal hardship, but it will be for the benefit of the people and will assist him also in the better discharge of his duties. He takes with him our cordial regards and best wishes, and I hope he will remember the cordial send off of the people of the Empire State. The people of this State have a warmth of feeling toward the Chief Magistrate which is not excelled anywhere."

Gov. Hughes had planned to take the 4 o'clock train for Syracuse, but on invitation of the President remained on the special train to his destination.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A busy day here has been arranged as the inaugural of President Taft's long speech-making trip to-morrow. From the moment when he steps from the train at 11:15 A. M. into the arms of a numerous Reception Committee until midnight when he retires to his private car every minute will be turned to account.

For an hour and a half an automobile will carry him slowly through a gauntlet of 150,000 public and parochial school pupils, lining miles of boulevards, and carrying small American flags. James Markham, who was one of Judge Taft's bodyguard during the last campaign, and who is Secretary to Chief of Police Steward, stated to-day that minute precautions have been arranged for the protection of the children as well as of the President.

The review of the pupils will terminate at the Congress Hotel, where the President will make an informal address to his hosts, the Commercial Club.

During the afternoon the President will witness a baseball game between the New York and Chicago Clubs of the National League, weather permitting.

He will be the guest of the Hamilton Club at an informal dinner, after which he will address a mass meeting at Orchestra Hall. At 11 P. M. he will attend the ball of the American Bankers' Association, and at midnight will be escorted to his train, which, three hours later, will leave over the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad for Milwaukee.

ESCAPED TIGRESS AT BAY.

Takes Refuge in Hole After Being Shot Repeatedly in Marseilles.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 15.—The royal Bengal tigress that escaped from a steamer in the harbor yesterday, instead of being captured last night, as at first reported, was still at large to-day, and is now at bay in a hole at an excavation for a new building with six bullets in her body.

It is supposed that the tigress hid last night in the mouth of a sewer, and the people along the water front were greatly excited this morning when it was learned that she had not been shot or captured. The district was guarded by cordons of soldiers and police, and no one was allowed to go out on the wharves.

Twice during the night the tigress was seen slinking along the wharves and was fired upon, but both shots missed. She was located this morning in the excavation.

A lion tamer named Hendrickson undertook to capture or kill the beast. He began by smoking it out, and as the tigress emerged he fired six shots from a heavy revolver into her side, but the wounded animal, leaving a trail of blood, managed to find another hiding place.

A number of men went to work to open up the entrance to this hiding place so that Hendrickson could get in and kill the animal. A great crowd watched the operations.

When the hiding place was sufficiently uncovered, Hendrickson again attempted to smoke her out, but this time the tigress was more wary. Blazing straw was thrown in, but without avail, after which pieces of poisoned meat were strewn about the mouth of the hole, and Hendrickson and the other pursuers settled down for a long wait.

and in his statement he fails to give his chief the benefit of circumstances within his knowledge that would explain his chief's action as on proper grounds, he makes it impossible for him to continue in the service of the Government, and his immediate separation therefrom becomes a necessity.

"You are therefore authorized to dismiss L. R. Glavis from the service of the Government for filing a disingenuous statement, unjustly impeaching the official integrity of his superior officers.

"I cannot close this letter without referring to certain other matters connected with your conduct of the Interior Department which have been unfairly used in the public press to support a general charge that you are out of sympathy with the declared policy of this Administration, following that of President Roosevelt, in favor of the conservation of National resources, especially in connection with coal lands, with waterpower sites, and with the system of reclamation of arid lands, which are all within the jurisdiction of the Interior Department.

Replies to Ex-Gov. Pardee.

"In the first place, it was charged on the floor of the Irrigation Convention at Spokane by former Gov. Pardee of California that you had restored to the public domain for settlement certain lands which had been withdrawn by the last Administration for the purpose of conserving waterpower sites, and that after complaint made thereof you had subsequently withdrawn some of the lands again from settlement; but that meantime, between the one act and the other, an opportunity had been given to the so-called 'Waterpower Trust' to file entries and obtain vested rights in valuable waterpower sites in the State of Montana.

A Cruel Injustice Done.

"When the facts are examined in this regard, it will be found that the persons responsible for the circulation of these charges have done you cruel injustice. The fact was that in January, 1909, in the last Administration, executive orders were made withdrawing from public settlement 1,500,000 acres at the instance of the Reclamation Service, for conservation of waterpower sites. Soon after you became Secretary of the Interior, you brought this order to my attention, and said that it included a great deal of land that had no waterpower sites on it, running back many miles from the rivers, and that it included much land which ought to be opened to public settlement; that you had applied to the Reclamation Bureau to know whether it was desired for reclamation purposes, and what their recommendation was in the premises, and that they recommended that it be returned to the public domain."

The order revoking the withdrawal of the 1,500,000 acres was made in April. Sufficient information was procured from the Geological Survey to permit an order withdrawing the land upon which were waterpower sites in May, and this withdrawal covered about 300,000 acres instead of 1,500,000. The form of the new order of withdrawal was such that it set aside all filings and entries of any kind which had been made prior to its going into effect; and, as matter of fact, not one single filing has been attempted on any of the waterpower sites since the original order of withdrawal in January, 1909.

"It further appears from a report of the Director of the Geological Survey that the order of withdrawal of January, 1909, was hastily made by townships and by reference to inadequate maps, that it included large areas not within miles of any river or stream, and that it failed to include many valuable water power sites in the immediate vicinity.

"From the same reliable source it is learned that under the withdrawals made by your department from time to time, beginning in May last, there are now withheld from settlement awaiting the action of Congress, 50 per cent. more water power sites than under previous withdrawals, and that this has been effected by a withdrawal from settlement of only one-fifth of the amount of land.

Forestry Bureau Was Wrong.

"Another instance in your conduct of the department which has been mentioned as indicative of your purpose to block the general plan of conservation of natural resources is your refusal to carry out a contract made in the last Administration between the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture, by which the Interior Department delegated to the Forestry Bureau of the Agricultural Department the power and duty to conserve the forests on the Indian reservations, and to expend under the control of the Forestry Bureau the money appropriated by Congress to be expended by the Indian Bureau for such conservation of Indian forests.

"Your declination to carry out the contract was made necessary by a ruling of the Controller, whose ruling is final and without appeal even to the President, that such an arrangement is a delegation of responsibility and authority for the expenditure of money which the appropriation by Congress for the Indian Bureau did not authorize.

"In my judgment he is the best friend of the policy of conservation of natural resources who insists that every step taken in that direction should be within the law and buttressed by legal authority. Insistence on this is not inconsistent with a whole-hearted and bona fide interest and enthusiasm in favor of the conservation policy. From my conferences with you and from everything I know in respect to the conduct of your department I am able to say that you are fully in sympathy with the attitude of this Administration in favor of the conservation of natural resources."

BALLINGER IS GRATEFUL.

Declines Further to Comment on the President's Letter.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—"I am very much gratified with the President's disposition of the matter," said Secretary of the Interior Ballinger to-night, when asked to comment on President Taft's letter to him upholding the Interior Department in its controversy with the Forestry Service.

Further than this he declined to discuss the statement.

PERU AND BOLIVIA DISAGREE.

South American States Again Near Clash in Boundary Dispute.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 15.—The rumor was current here to-day that Peru sent an ultimatum to Bolivia demanding that the latter country should either accept or reject the recent arbitral award by Argentina with reference to the frontier dispute. This could not be confirmed, but it is known that there are serious complications between the two countries.

Peru has rejected Bolivia's latest propositions, and the Peruvian Minister has advised the Peruvian merchants here to place their business interests in the hands of persons of other nationality and to prepare for any emergency.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 15.—The Journal of Commerce says that telegrams from the Pacific Coast announce that an agreement between the Governments of Peru and Bolivia on the recent boundary dispute, which at one time threatened to plunge those States into war, had been, or was on the point of being, signed. The basis of the agreement is the decision of President Alcorta, of Argentina, and this decision, by the [illegible] agreement, is recognized by [illegible].

EMPLOYES WITH LEGS NEEDED

Let City Workers Use Them Instead of Autos, G. Waldo Smith Says.

The Board of Trade decided yesterday to begin an investigation of the expenditures of the city Government. G. Waldo Smith, who introduced the resolution calling for the inquiry, quoted the statement of the Democratic Union that the municipal automobiles cost the taxpayers $1,000,000, with $550,000 additional for expenses.

"What we want," said he, "is city officials and city employes with legs, not automobiles. They do not need machines to travel around on the city's business. I go all over the city on the cars and they can do the same."

Philip Tilden, of the Taxpayers' Conference, stated that that organization is investigating "city extravagance," and Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, announced that that body would make public a report on "city graft" in a few days.

The City Committee of the board was authorized to take up the investigation.

DE LUCIA MISSING WITH OUTING MONEY

The Band Was on Hand to Lead the Picnickers to College Point, but the "Standard Bearer" Came Not.

Large cardboard posters, printed in red and black ink, have been exhibited for several weeks in the Italian restaurants, barber shops, drug stores, saloons, and grocery stores in the neighborhood of Morris Avenue and 150th Street, announcing that yesterday the Carlo J. De Lucia Social Club would give an outing and picnic at Donnelly's Grove, College Point. A silver cornet band was to furnish music, the posters said; there would be six athletic events, to each of which would be attached "suitable prizes." Breakfast, dinner, and supper would be served.

Holders of tickets were requested to assemble in front of the confectionery store of Carlo J. De Lucia, 254 East 150th Street, between Park and Morris Avenues, at 9 o'clock; after which they would march in a body to the foot of East 134th Street, there to take boat for College Point. The tickets were $4 apiece. About 125 of them were sold before yesterday.

It was not later than 8 o'clock when the silver cornet band gathered in front of Carlo J. De Lucia's confectionery store, under the window of the flat, two flights above, which the standard bearer of the club occupied with his young wife. All the posters showed the picture of De Lucia himself as "our standard bearer."

The band was thus early on the scene for the purpose of calling together more swiftly those who were going on the outing. Within the sound of the cornet were most of the ticket holders, and it needed only music to bring them out on the run. Presently a hundred or more ticket holders were standing around the band. White felt hats and wide green and red sashes lashed around their waists marked out these favored $4 ticket holders.

But where was "our standard bearer"? Though the band set out on his favorite tune he did not show his head from his window just above. A wave of impatience went around through the ticket holders. Who had the money that had been paid for the tickets? Who would pay the expenses of the outing? No one could be found who had the money.

A delegation went into the store. Young Mrs. De Lucia told its members that she did not know where her husband was. She had not seen him since Tuesday afternoon. All night she had waited for him. She was tired and nervous and very much frightened. Wouldn't the crowd please go away?

The report of the delegation did not satisfy many of the ticket holders. A telephone message to Donnelly's Grove brought the news that no one had appeared there to pay for the festivities expected. Indeed, Donnelly's Grove had received a somewhat vague hint by telephone on Tuesday night that the outing would not take place, so no preparations had been made.

Therefore the ticket holders went home, took off their white felt hats and green and red sashes, and went to work. The crowd of children and curious adults melted away. The Silver Cornet Band split up into its integral parts. No one complained to the police.

MORE LAWYERS FOR CUSTOMS.

To Enforce the Tariff a Larger Legal Department Is Needed.

D. Frank Lloyd, Deputy Assistant Attorney General, in charge of litigation concerning the classification and appraisement of imports, has asked for a larger staff and additional office room. After a conference with James B. Reynolds, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, it was arranged yesterday that part of the room now occupied in the Appraiser's Warehouse by Major O. D. Madge, Chief Clerk of the Board of General Appraisers, should be partitioned off for Mr. Lloyd.

Even with the additional space his quarters will be inadequate, as the Deputy Attorney General will increase his present staff of seven assistants, as under the new tariff law the Assistant Attorney General has charge of all customs litigation, not only before the Board of Appraisers, as under the old law, but also in the Federal courts throughout the country.

Mr. Lloyd will soon have a conference with Attorney General Wickersham regarding the employment of additional attorneys. The Payne tariff makes provision for four attorneys at salaries of $5,000 to assist the Assistant Attorney General and the Deputy, and authority is also given the Attorney General to employ special attorneys as the necessity arises. The Deputy has already been obliged to send two assistants to Baltimore and Philadelphia to take care of dockets there, and next week another assignment will be made to Boston.

Mr. Lloyd is now only Deputy Attorney General, but it is expected that when Congress reassembles his name will be sent to the Senate by President Taft for Assistant Attorney General.

SAYS ENGLAND EXPECTS WAR.

Conviction There Is That It Is Inevitable, Dr. Hill Thinks.

The Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, and his daughter returned yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic. Dr. Hill went to London to preach in the Marylebone Presbyterian Church. In ten weeks he preached fourteen sermons, in which he urged closer relations between America and England.

"The first time I was in England I saw London from a 'bus," said Dr. Hill. "I found the pulpit a better point of observation. The feeling in England is that a war with Germany is inevitable. They feel that the Germans are aggressive, crafty, subtle, and determined. Meantime England and France have entered into an illiance in which France agrees to use her fighting force on the side of England if any other power picks a quarrel with her. Germany, however, feels that she can whip both with her army, navy, and airships.

"The English are in sympathy with us and our achievements. The English heart beats true."

Dr. Hill said that in his preaching he handled his subjects "without notes—or gloves."

RAID GAMBLING DEN.

Police Take Thirty1four Prisoners In Greenwich Street.

Police Captain Gallagher of the Fulton Street Police Precinct, with thirty reserves and half a dozen detectives, swooped down on a poolroom in Greenwich Street, near Morris Street, yesterday afternoon, and captured thirty-four prisoners.

The patrol wagons had to make several trips to get all the prisoners to the Fulton Street Station. Alfred Mandelsky of 226 East Fourteenth Street, was charged with being the proprietor of the place, and Samuel Ross of 130 Second Avenue, was booked as the "lookout," who had tried to stop McMurray. The rest of the prisoners registered from Hoboken and Jersey City. Most of them were bailed out before midnight, but half a dozen had to spend the night in cells.

D. W. Clark Takes Poison in Whisky—Leaves a Note Telling Why.

David W. Clark, an elderly varnish manufacturer, who had some connection with the Flood & Conklin Varnish Company of 112 to 136 Chestnut Street, Newark, and for four or five months had resided alone at 177 East Twenty-sixth Street, went early yesterday morning, as his custom was, to the Prince George Hotel in Twenty-eighth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues. He was well known there, as he usually dropped in about midnight to get something to eat before going to bed.

He asked a bellboy for some paper and ink and sat down and wrote a note. The boy offered to post it for him, but he replied that he would attend to it himself. He thrust it into his pocket and walked through to the taproom on the Twenty-seventh Street side of the hotel.

There he ordered a club sandwich and a beer. He sent the beer back and said:

"Give me a good stiff whisky with seltzer instead."

George McKeever, the bartender, thought there was something wrong with the guest and asked:

"What's the matter, Mr. Clark? You look worried."

"I wish I were as merry as that Coney Island crowd," replied Mr. Clark, referring to a party which had just come back from the Mardi Gras. "Business has been breaking, and I am worried."

Then he took a small bottle from his pocket, poured it into the glass and drank it off.

He slipped from his chair as though suddenly intoxicated, and McKeever ran to his side. He saw there was something seriously amiss, and telephoned to Manager Cook or the hotel, who sent for Dr. Ross McPherson of 37 Madison Avenue.

As Dr. McPherson bent over Clark he detected a faint smell as of peach kernels. The man was dead, and he had killed himself with cyanide of potassium.

In his pocket was found the letter he had written before he went to the taproom. It read:

To the Coroner of New York: I have taken cyanide of potassium. The reason is business failure, also failing health. Please notify my brother, Dr. A. M. Clark, Alder Creek, Oneida County, N. Y. If not at above address, he can be found at his home, Youngstown, Ohio. Please prepare my body for cremation. Yours sincerely,
DAVID W. CLARK.

Reference: Second National Bank, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street.

In the letter was a check made out to Dr. A. M. Clark for $328. The suicide had signed it, then torn the signature off.

MORE HUDSON TUNNEL TRAINS

Will Run on 90-Second Headway in Rush Hours, McAdoo Says.

An increase in service in the Hudson Tunnels from the present 2½-minute headway to 1½ minutes during the rush hours, beginning next week, was promised yesterday by William G. McAdoo, President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, in an address to about 200 visiting New Jersey real estate men, members of the New York and New Jersey Real Estate Exchange, who had come for a day's inspection of the Hudson Terminal Buildings and tunnels.

After pointing out the vital importance of transportation as a factor of industrial and social prosperity, Mr. McAdoo told of the "quick, frequent, and reliable" service his company had provided in the tunnels to Jersey City and Hoboken.

"All this," he said, "has been done altogether on private initiative, without the least interference from State or municipal commissions. In giving this three-minute service to New Jersey and linking its northern counties with New York City, we have done our part. It now remains for the people of New Jersey to do theirs. Transportation through an open field in New Jersey will not make that field grow into a city. It is of paramount importance that you yourselves should now attract population to the neighboring cities of New Jersey by providing clean government, good schools, parks, and streets. Hitherto nearly all the good roads have been State roads, and there have not been enough of them."

Mr. McAdoo declared himself in favor of the new organization proposed by the New York and New Jersey Real Estate Exchange to incorporate a mortgage and loan company that should obtain New York caiptal for the development of the northern counties of New Jersey.

CASTLES AND GUARANTY TRUST

Charles A. Peabody Explains Sale of Trust Co. Stock to Mr. Harriman.

Publication of statements that the resignation of John W. Castles from the Guaranty Trust Company had been brought about by the sale of the Mutual Life's holdings of that company's stock to E. H. Harriman instead of to Mr. Castles, and that the fact had a bearing on the nervous breakdown of Mr. Castles, which resulted in his suicide on Monday night, influenced Charles A. Peabody, President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, to make the following statement yesterday:

"In reference to the publication in several papers regarding the Guaranty Trust Company and its relations to Mr. John W. Castles, Charles A. Peabody, President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, said to-day that last Autumn this company offered to sell to Mr. Castles one-half of its holdings of stock of the Guaranty Trust Company at a price which Mr. Castles thought too high. After consideration he declined to make the purchase, and subsequently the stock was sold to Mr. Harriman at the same price at which it had been previously offered to Mr. Castles.

"Prior to the sale of the stock to Mr. Harriman, Mr. Castles had already advised the Mutual Life of his proposed resignation as President of the Guaranty Trust Company."

MILLIONS FOR 12-YEAR-OLD.

Francis H. Leggett Left No Will, and Daughter Will Get Bulk of Estate.

It looks as though twelve-year-old Frances, the little daughter of Francis H. Leggett, late head of the big wholesale grocery firm of Leggett & Co., will become, subject to the dower right of her mother, sole heir to the $2,000,000 personal estate of her father, and the real property he left, which probably amounts to that and half as much again.

That is what will happen unless a will is found, and to the surprise of all concerned, two weeks' search has disclosed none. Yesterday, on the assumption that none existed, Mrs. Leggett, formerly Mrs. William Sturges, widow of the Chicago banker, filed a petition in the Surrogates' office to be appointed, with her husband's nephew, Theodore F. Whitmarsh, administratrix of the personal estate. In her petition she gives the amount of the personal estate as $2,000,000, and files a $4,000,000 bond from the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland.

Pneumatic Tubes for Custom House.

Work preliminary to the installation of the pneumatic tubes to run between the Appraiser's stores and the Custom House in Bowling Green is under way. The old boilers in the Appraiser's warehouse are being replaced by the latest type of boilers, capable of generating 1,250 horse power, or just double the former capacity of the steam plant in the warehouse. The new boilers will not only be adequate to drive the engines for the pneumatic tubes, but will also supply heat for the building. The tubes will be used for the transmission of invoices and other official documents, and are expected to greatly expedite the passage of imported goods through the customs. The new tubes will be similar to those in use for the transmission of mail.

FOR GOLD RESERVE AS BEST SAFEGUARD

SAYS CUSTOM IS UNSOUND

Clearing House and Trust Company Sections of American Association Occupy Day of the Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Two great divisions of banking, the trust company and the clearing house, occupied the attention of the convention of the American Bankers' Association here to-day.

The clearing house section discussed different methods of accomplishing the work in different parts of the country and in different cities. The new President of the section, Sol Wexler, of the Whitney Central National Bank of New Orleans, urged that the members consider in the coming year the idea of adopting a uniform rate of charges for all items of business transacted by one bank for another, and also suggested that action be planned looking to the establishment of uniformity in settling daily clearances.

Clearing House Examiners.

At the Clearing House section meeting the report of the Secretary of this branch of the American Banking Association, which is carrying on a vigorous campaign advocating the appointment of Clearing House examiners, was read.

"The advantages of this plan," the report says, "have been clearly set forth in many ways. It is conceded that the adoption of the plan would put banking on a higher plane and would be of lasting benefit to the public. The campaign carried on by the section certainly has created sentiment in favor of this movement, and it is developing day by day.

"The Clearing House cities in which examiners are now in vogue are as follows: Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, and St. Joseph, Mo.

"The section has under consideration the working out of a plan for a uniform method of reporting the weekly exchanges by all the associations of the country, and feels confident some system of accounting may be evolved which will be generally put into force.

"The section also has started to do all in its power to suppress the business known as 'note kiting' by giving publicity to this business carried on by so-called brokers."

Favors Gold Reserve.

In his annual address to the Clearing House section, President E. C. McDougal declared emphatically in favor of a gold reserve in all banks. Commenting on the practice of holding banknotes in the reserve fund of banks, he said:

"The repeal of the laws permitting State banks to carry banknotes in their reserves is needed. The custom of carrying United States Treasury notes in the reserve is equally unsound, but not as unsafe. A small active cash reserve is vastly better than a much larger fictitious reserve."

President Jackson of the trust company section said in his annual address that in the thirteen years of the section's existence the wisdom of its existence had been demonstrated. He said it had a membership of nearly 1,000 companies, representing resources of $4,000,000,000.

"We must remember," he continued, "that every company bearing the word 'trust' in its name is not admitted to membership; a scrutiny as careful as may be had in such a large organization is devoted to the standing of the applicant, and while an earnest effort is made to bring to us legitimate institutions, no welcome is extended to companies transacting a business foreign to our field."

Protective Laws Enacted.

The committe on protective laws reported to the trust company section that its efforts to protect the word "trust," to provide for efficient State supervision, and to place in the category of crime the circulation of false reports of a bank's condition have been active.

"Twenty-three of the forty States, the general assemblies of which were held in 1909," the report says, "provide protection of some degree or other; four more are about to enact protective legislation of a satisfactory sort, and thirteen are left for the incoming committee.

"Of the six other States, Alabama, Mississippi, and Ohio have passed satisfactory statutes. Kentucky, Louisiana, and Virginia are still virtually without safeguards."

The address of Edward T. Perine, President of the Audit Company of New York, held the attention of the trust company section.

"In all the figures which have been summarized," said Mr. Perine, "there is none more satisfying, none more convincing of the fact that panic conditions have been superseded by an era of real prosperity, than to know that with only a slight increase in the number of trust companies the total deposits for 1909 have reached the total of $3,567,000,000, an increase of $654,000,000 for the year, or 22 per cent., and an increase of $1,206,000,000 for five years, which is an increase of 51 per cent."

Before the trust company section the principal address was delivered by Daniel S. Remsen of the New York bar, who spoke on the "Post-mortem Administration of Wealth." The safety of the estate, he declared, was the first consideration, and for that reason he argued that the integrity and business ability of an executor, whether personal or a trust company, was of the greatest importance.

H. P. McIntosh, President of the Guardian Savings and Deposit Company of Cleveland, was elected President of the trust company section.

During the day it was said by some delegates that the central bank idea, suggested in the annual address of the President, George M. Reynolds, was disapproved by many in the convention. The delegates who are admittedly opposed to the central bank idea did not wish to make definite statements concerning possible developments, but there was a feeling that an interesting situation would present itself should action be sought along the line of indorsing the plan.

THIRD RAIL SETS CAR AFIRE.

Women Give an Example of Courage on Sixth Avenue Elevated.

Many of the passengers on a crowded Sixth Avenue elevated train, southbound, were panic stricken yesterday morning when flames began to crawl up the side of the car from the outside, and the car became filled with smoke. The fire was preceded and followed by several blinding explosions.

A crowded train from Harlem was just drawing into the Rector Street station when the fuse exploded, and there was a blinding display under the front end of the forward car. The motorman cut off the power before the train had fully reached the station, but the right forward end of the car caught fire.

The frightened passengers made a dash for the rear cars and those in the rear also became alarmed. Guards went through the train reassuring the passengers, and telling them there was no danger. The conductor of the train grabbed up a fire extinguisher, and in a few minutes had the fire out. The damaged car was cut out of the train and shoved on to a siding. No one was injured. Investigation showed that some chips which had been dropped on the third rail by carpenters were caught between the contact shoe and the third rail and set on fire.

One of the guards on the train said the women aboard gave the men a lesson in coolness and courage.

The Tennis Champion Says

MAY SUTTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

Don't drink coffee.

Don't drink tea.

Don't exercise too much.

These three don'ts constitute the advice of Miss May Sutton, champion woman tennis player of the world, to girls who would go in seriously and systematically for athletics.

Eat what you want.

Take long walks.

Get all the fresh air you can.

These are the three rules Miss Sutton lays down for girls who desire merely to be strong and healthy.

The little champion recently appeared on courts in San Francisco in a series of exhibition matches. It had been reported that she was not in the best of health, but she gave no indication of having "gone back," playing her strong game that made her world's champion, with her same old dash and accuracy.

At the close of the series Miss Sutton was asked to tell what system of training she had found most effective and what, in her opinion, is the best form of exercise and diet for the average American girl. In part she said:

"While I advocate hearty eating, I cannot say too much against the use of tea or coffee. They are nerve destroyers and no one can be healthy who persists in their use.

"Too much exercise is as bad as too little. Walking is the best exercise there is. Early each morning, after drinking a glass of hot water, dressed in loose clothing, I walk for nearly an hour.

"Athletics should receive some attention from every girl. If her time precludes the playing of tennis or golf she should take long walks in the open air, both before the morning and evening meal, throwing the head and shoulders back and taking long, deep draughts of that which money cannot buy but is in reach of the poor as well as the rich—pure air.

"Pure air and a moderate amount of exercise I cannot too strongly impress upon girls as being the only secret of health and grace. Medicine for that out-of-sorts feeling may cause girls to imagine they feel all right, but what they really need is more fresh air and not quite so much sitting around the house in tight-fitting clothes as a great many of them do."

Miss Sutton is declared by physicians to be a perfect athlete. Tennis experts declare that every movement is "a picture."—Lexington (Ky.) Leader.

POSTUM

is, as a morning cup.

A hot, steaming cup of Postum is as invigorating and bracing as coffee. But instead of caffeine-wrecked nerves, headaches and heart troubles that overtake the coffee drinker, Postum furnishes a liquid food which strengthens head and body.

A ten days' trial of well-made Postum (boiled 15 minutes) convinces.

"There's a Reason"

WONDERED WHY

Found the Answer was "Coffee."

Many pale, sickly persons wonder for years why they have to suffer so, and eventually discover that the drug—caffeine—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much flesh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak.

"About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was confined to my bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life.

"During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it.

"After awhile I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum. I didn't like the taste of it at first, but when it was made right—boiled until dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it.

"In one week I began to feel better. I could eat more and sleep better. My sick headaches were less frequent, and within five months I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone.

"My health continued to improve and today I am well and strong, weigh 148 lbs. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum."

"There's a reason."

FULTON RIVER SHOW REHEARSED IN MODEL

Details of Pageant on Opening Day Figured Out by the Chiefs of Squadrons.

BIG FLEET OF STEAMBOATS

100 Craft in the Flotilla, from Oldest to the Most Modern—Line of Warships Miles Long.

The final arrangements for the aquatic pageant and parade on Sept. 25, the opening day of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, were made yesterday at a meeting held at the headquarters of the Naval Parade Committee of the commission, which was attended by the Admirals of the squadrons, the chiefs of divisions, and the Superintendents of the ferries. The Government was represented by Lieut. Hamlet of the Revenue Cutter Service.

By means of cardboard models of boats manipulated on a big table, Capt. George A. White, flag officer of the first squadron, demonstrated the position of the various flotillas during the parade. He called attention to the fact that the warships will remain at anchor in single column, commencing off West Forty-fourth Street and extending up as far as Spuyten Duyvil.

The first squadron will consist of more than 100 steamboats, commencing with the old Norwich, built in 1837, and ending with the Robert Fulton, which was completed this year. This squadron will start at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon from the belle buoy, between Staten Island and Bay Ridge, and steam up to Governors Island, where it will meet the Clermont and the Half Moon.

On arriving at the beginning of the line of warships off Forty-fourth Street, the Half Moon and the Clermont will go to the east of the line and bring up opposite the reviewing stand at 110th Street, while the squadron in the parade will pass on the outer side and go to the end of the line of warships, where, they wil lturn and come back on the east side to the reviewing stand.

Capt. White said that there will be a space of 300 feet between the vessels composing the squadrons, in zig-zag formation, so that the ferries may be able to navigate across the river. One steamboat will go to port, while the following vessel will be 300 feet astern on her starboard quarter.

With regard to the two north pole exploring vessels, Roosevelt and John R. Bradley, Capt. White said that the committee had not received any communication from Commander Peary or Dr. Cook on the subject, but that if an application for space in the parade were made the committee would give a prominent position to either vessel in the first squadron.

The first four vessels are to be the Providence, Hendrik Hudson, Puritan, and Robert Fulton. Lieut. Hamlet will be in charge of the river traffic to see that ferries are not interfered with, but all other river traffic is to be suspended for the occasion.

When Capt. White had finished explaining all the chiefs of division expressed themselves satisfied that they understood what was to be done. The chiefs will wear double-breasted brass-button coats, with New York Yacht Club caps, bearing a single gold star, for which they may pay $3 each, and keep them as souvenirs.

The second squadron, consisting of steam yachts, will be commanded by Commander William Butler Duncan, Jr., and the third squadron, composed of motor boats, will be under the charge of Commodore Adolph Mollenhaur.

The fourth squadron, formed of tugboats and steamlighters, will be commanded by F. P. Dalzell, and the fifth, Howard P. Patterson, President of the New York Nautical College of 130 Water Street. These vessels will be anchored in different positions prior to 1:30 P. M.

The sixth squadron will consist of fireboats, patrolboats, and other Government or city craft.

A patrol squadron will move ahead of the procession up the river to clear the way, while other vessels will be detailed to keep the river clear of traffic during the parade.

The ceremonies incident to the reception of the Half Moon and Clermont at 110th Street will be under the direction of the commanding officer of the Police and Public Safety Squadron. A signal gun will be fired from the patrol vessel stationed at the foot of Ninety-seventh Street, when the head of the parade has passed the Battery. Notice to the patrol vessel will be given by telephone message from the police station at Pier A, North River.

As the Half Moon and Clermont pass each man-o'-war the men-o'-war will salute them with twenty-one guns with the Netherlands or Hudson-Fulton flag hoisted. A salute to the Governor of the State of New York will be given by the flagship of the commanding officer of the parades as his ship anchors.

A return salute of twenty-one guns with the Hudson-Fulton flag at the main will be given to the anchored men-of-war by the flagship of the Escort Squadron as that vessel anchors, provided the "silence" flag be not hoisted at that moment.

Flag Officer of the Escort Squadron and his Chiefs of Divisions, the Commanding Officer, and other Netherlands representatives on board the Half Moon and the representative of the Fulton family on board the Clermont will then proceed to the official pier, where short addresses will be made

Attention is especially called to the square red flag which will be hoisted on the extension of the official piar at 110th Street during the addresses to be made there, and when this flag is flown it will be the signal for "silence," and while it is hoisted no salutes or whistles from any Government or other craft should be given.

At the conclusion of the initial ceremonies his Majesty's ship Utrecht will fire a salute of twenty-one guns, which salute will be followed by a twenty-one-gun salute "by squadron" (or division) in succession by all the men-of-war anchored to the southward and northward of the Utrecht. It is the intention to begin this salute as the head of the column of merchant ships reaches 111th Street, bound south.

The commanding officer of the patrol squadron is requested to give a gun starting signal at 7:30 from a vessel placed near the head of the evening parade.

No vessel after starting in the evening parade will be allowed to leave its designated position in line, (except to avoid the perils of navigation.)

The point of turning for the moving parade to the northward both afternoon and evening will be the northernmost man-of-war, which will probably be at or near Spuyten Duyvil.

CURTISS UNDER CONTRACT.

Chairman Beck Says He Agreed to Fly Up the Hudson.

To put an end to the doubts that have been aroused in the minds of many persons who are anxious to see Glenn H. Curtiss make a series of flights in and around New York during the coming Hudson-Fulton celebration, and in view of the divergent statements made by Mr. Curtiss in Europe by the Aeronautic Committee here, Chairman James M. Beck of the committee gave out yesterdays the terms of the contract which Mr. Curtiss signed on Aug. 4. It bears the signatures of Mr. Curtiss, William J. Hammer, Secretary of the Hudson-Fulton Aeronautics Committee, and Thomas P. White. In it Mr. Curtiss agrees, for the sum of $5,000, to operate his aeroplane on such favorable dates as the committee may select.

Specific mention is made of his agreement "to attempt to make a flight from Governor's Island up the Hudson and around a buoy or other mark near Grant's Tomb and return to Governor's Island, and, in the event of this not being practicable, he agrees to attempt flights across the Hudson from some place such as near Grant Tomb to the Palisades on the Jersey shore and return, performing such evolutions as he deems safe and practicable."

Mr. Curtiss, in the contrast, reserves the right to enter for any special prizes or other competitions of heavier-than-air machines held under the auspices of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission.

"I still prefer to think that Mr. Curtiss has been misquoted," said Mr. Beck in giving out the terms of the contract.

But as his and Mr. Bishop's repeated denials of the existence of such a contract are calculated to put the Hudson-Fulton Commission in a false position, it seems necessary to give to the newspapers the exact contract, which was not only signed by Mr. Curtiss, but was acknowledged by him before a Notary Public.

"In sending him a copy of this contract, with the first payment of $1,500, the Secretary of the commission sent a copy which bore the signatures of the acting President and Secretary of the commission instead of that of Mr. Hammer, the Secretary of the Aeronautics Committee; otherwise it was an exact copy of the contract.

"This copy was sent, nos as a new contract, but simply for the greater protection of Mr. Curtiss. Probably the matter is academic, as we are advised that Mr. Curtiss will reach this city on Sept. 21 for the purpose of making the flights. In the meantime the commission is erecting at Governors Island the aeroplane shed."

Besides Mr. Curtiss, Wilbur Wright has agreed to make a number of flights, and his aeroplane, a new one, is expected to arrive at Governors Island Friday night or Saturday morning.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO PARADE.

Those from 9 to 15 Years Will Take Part in Children's Day Pageant.

Following a conference in the office of Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, President of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, definite arrangements have been made for the participation of the public school children in the parade on children's day, Saturday, Oct. 2.

At the conference were Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., President of the Board of Education; City Supt. William H. Maxwell, Samuel Parsons, Chairman, and George R. Sutherland, a member of the Children's Festivals Committee of the Celebration Commission.

As a result of the conference the hearty co-operation of the school authorities was assured.

The Children's Festivals Committee asked that the children be permitted to join in the march in a body and that permission be given for the use of a school in each pageant district for the purpose of assembling them. This was agreed to by Supt. Maxwell and President Winthrop.

Supt. Maxwell will exercise personal supervision over the arrangements looking to the participation of the public school children in the parade. Their share in the event will be under the immediate direction of their Superintendents and teachers, who will assemble their charges at 12:45 at schoolhouses to be designated and swing them into the line of the procession. Only the grades taking in the children of from 9 to 15 years of age are included in the arrangement. Festival flags will be dealt out by Mr. Parsons's committee to every child taking part.

SAYS STEAMSHIP IS FRENCH.

George Montorgueil Declares That Fulton Merely Perfected It.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—George Montorgueil, in an elaborate review of Robert Fulton's career in France, published to-day, reproduces an official account of Fulton's trials on the Seine on Jan. 26, 1803, and Fulton's own words saying that the real inspiration of his discovery was the experiments of Marquis Jouffroy at Lyons in 1783.

This the writer does to prove that "the steamboat is a French invention, perfected in France by an American, and exploited in America," and he says that for this reason France is sending a member of the Institute and a detachment of her fleet to join in the "tribute of gratitude which America is paying to her illustrious son, who, in many ways, made the Old World tributary to the New."

M. Montorgueil declares that Fulton left France because the Napoleon Government would not accept his Nautilus, a prototype of the submarine, with three of which, Fulton told Napoleon, he could destroy the English fleet. Subsequently Fulton offered the Nautilus to England, but England wanted to destroy the secret, whereupon Fulton went to America.

THREE TO FLY UP HUDSON.

Only Dirigibles Entered in Race to Albany for $10,000 Prize.

For the airship flight from New York to Albany in connection with the Hudson-Fulton Celebration three entries have been received. The lists closed yesterday at the Aero Club of America, which has prepared the rules for the contest and whose Contest Committee will assist in the management of the race. The three entrants for the prize of $10,000 are Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, George L. Tomlinson, and John Roeder.

Mr. Tomlinson will take Horace B. Wild as assistant in his dirigible, but the others have not named their assistants. Capt. Baldwin will use his new dirigible equipped with a twenty-five horse power Curtiss engine. This airship was thoroughly tried out a week ago at Worcester, Mass., and from the showing made at that time Capt. Baldwin feels that he will be able to make the long trip, about 140 miles, successfully.

The start will be made on the first favorable day between Sept. 25 and Oct. 9 at Riverside Drive and 120th Street. The finishing time will be taken when the airships cross an imaginary line drawn from the Capitol at Albany to the De Forest wireless telegraph tower in Ten Eyck Park.

The flight must be made without landing, and in the event of failure the contestant will be allowed to return and start at another favorable time before Oct. 9. The event was open to dirigibles and heavier-than-air machines, but only dirigibles have been entered.

MUSICAL UNION NOT TO SUE.

Decides Instead to Vie with Its Rival for Band Contracts.

It was said yesterday that the American International Musical and Theatrical Union has reconsidered its determination to bring suit against the Musical Mutual Protective Union for the latter association's alleged action in preventing the international union from making contracts to furnish bands for the Hudso-Fulton Celebration. L. Ryer of the Executive Committee of the International union said:

"There will be no suit, and we do not want in any way to antagonize or hamper the commission in charge of the celebrations. We will, instead, try to bring influence to bear on the commission to give our members a just share in the furnishing of the music.

ELABORATE POLICE PLANS.

Flying Squadron of Autos for Emergencies to be a Feature.

Police Commissioner Baker has embodied his instructions to the police for handling the Hudson-Fulton Celebration crowds on Saturday, Sept. 25, the opening day of the celebration, in a pamphlet of thirty-one pages designated as Special Order 225, which was published yesterday.

One of the new police features designed by the Commissioner for emergencies during the celebration is to be a flying squadron of six high-power automobiles, each to carry thirty policemen, and each to be assigned to a special station in instant touch by telephone with Headquarters, so that they may be rushed at great speed to any point. These autos will carry special signs, a separate system of day and night signals by which they can be instantly recognized and receive the right of way from traffic and police.

Policemen who have seen the pamphlet declare that never before have such specific and elaborate police arrangements for the protection of people and property on a public occasion been made. The Commissioner announces that these hospitals will be opened on the morning of Sept. 25, each in charge of surgeons and fully equipped:

HOSPITAL SIGNALS.

By Day—White bunting flag, with gold cross, and white bunting flag, with green cross.

By Night—Will be a balloon flying from flagpole of hospitals, with green and white lights.

Fully 9,000 policemen, in fact every man not assigned to the courts, will be on duty on the opening day by direct order of Commissioner Baker, the problem being to patrol the rest of the city after supplying sufficient men to handle the crowds in those sections to which the naval parade and exercises will draw them. Many men will be assigned to the police flotilla, whose commander will have the steamer Patrol as his flagship. All the police vessels will fly the American ensign, the red cross, and the police flags, and at night the Patrol will show two blue lights at the yardarm, and other police vessels one blue light.

The Commissioner expresses the fear that the men will have to be on duty all day until midnight on Saturday, with a change for supper "if practicable."

Plans were filed yesterday with Building Supt. Murphy for these additional reviewing stands for the parades:

Location and Owner.	Cost.
Central Park West, north of Seventy-seventh Street, Municipal Art Society	$2,000
Fifth Avenue, corner of Thirty-ninth Street, Union League Club	1,000
Fifth Avenue, corner of Fifty-eighth Street, Plaza Bank	500
Riverside Drive, corner 160th Street, (three stands,) G. E. Ward	5,000

Plans have been filed for special decorations of the big display windows of the Flatiron Building looking upon the Park.

Willcox to Help Facilitate Traffic.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission has sent to the heads of all the operating transportation companies in the city a letter urging that during the period of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration the maximum amount of equipment shall be called into play to accommodate the traffic. The letter says that inasmuch as the celebration calls for the use of various streets in parades the commission will entertain applications from roads operating over such streets for a suspension of the commission's service orders on parade days.

If interested in second-hand automobiles you may be suited if you will look over the Automobile Exchange columns in next Sunday's New York Times. The most complete list ever published. Cars to suit every taste at prices to suit every pocketbook.—Adv.

RUNAWAY IN MIDST OF CONEY MARDI GRAS

Six Persons Thrown Out on Heads of the Crowd When the Wheels Hit the Curb.

NONE HURT SERIOUSLY

Peary-Cook Pole Float a Feature of the Parade—350,000 at Island Last Night.

A runaway in the middle of crowded Surf Avenue enlivened the third night of the Coney Island Mardi Gras last night. No one was hurt seriously, but for several minutes there was a panic among the crowds on the sidewalk when the runaways—two horses attached to an open brougham, in which were six persons—made directly for the sidewalk and finally crashed into the curb with force enough to upset the carriage.

The owner and driver of the vehicle was Michael Orlando, a contractor, of 644 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn. With him were his wife, Catherine, his sons, Michael, Jr., James, and Peter, and his cousin, Nicolo Nocellino of 35 Cozzelye Street, Brooklyn.

The carriage was about opposite the main entrance to Dreamland when the animals became frightened and bolted. Orlando did his best to rein them in, but the horses got the bits between their teeth and started on a wild deash up the avenue.

The street was filled with pedestrians, who scattered in terror as the horses came down upon them. Half a dozen policemen, spurring through the crowd toward the runaways, added to the excitemen. At last the runaways were forced over toward the sidewalk, and when the wheels of the carriage struck the curb, one of the horses fell and the vehicle overturned, throwing the occupants out onto the heads of the men and women on the sidewalk.

Orlando and all the members of his family were more or less cut and bruised and were taken into Zeller's drug store, where they were bandaged, and then proceeded home by trolley car.

The parade last night was bigger than on any of the preceding nights, the presence of several hundred Woodmen of the World, who took part in the march, helping to swell it. The usual floats were seen, and a new feature was a man bearing a long pole, labeled "North Pole." On a banner which he carried on one side appeared the words, "Cook—I saw it first." On a banner on his opposite side appeared, "Peary—You're another." The crowd laughed an dapplauded as this figure passed them in the march.

District Police Inspector O'Brien put into effect a new rule last night, which compelled the many automobiles which followed the paraders to form in double lines and drive all the way to West Twenty-fifth Street before turning about and coming back in Surf Avenue. The unruly manner in which the automobilists behaved on the two proceeding nights had been the subject of complaint to the police, many of the residents of Sea Gate being delayed in reaching their homes because of the crush of vehicles in Surf Avenue. Last night there was more order and almost no congestion.

For the first time since the Mardi Gras opened complaints reached the police that some of the crowd were throwing pepper in the confetti. No arrests were made, but a sharp watch was kept by all the policemen in the streets, and Inspector O'Brien said it would go hard with any one caught throwing pepper.

More than 350,000 people visited the island last night, making the largest crowd of the Mardi Gras up to date.

MOTOR CAR PATENTS UPHELD BY COURT

WHOLE INDUSTRY AFFECTED

Patents, Court Says, Cover "Every Modern Car Driven by Petroleum Vapor."

Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court yesterday handed down a decision in the famous Selden automobile patent cases, sustaining the Selden patents, as against the Ford and the Panhard automobiles. The decision is of importance to the automobile trade, inasmuch as the Selden patents, although they have never been actively built upon by the inventor or his associates, are so fundamental as to cover what Judge Hough calls "every modern car driven by petroleum vapor as yet commercially successful."

The suit is that of George B. Selden and the Electric Vehicle Company against the Ford Motor Company and C. A. Duerr & Co., the O. J. Gude Company, John Wanamaker, and others, the Société Anonymedes Anciens Establishments, Panhard & Levassor, Andre Massenat, and Henry and A. C. Neubauer. It has been pending in the United States courts for several years, and vast quantities of testimony have been taken.

The list of defendants was framed so as to include both manufacturer and dealer. Judge Hough in his decision recognizes plainly the peculiar character of the litigation and the consequences that flow from it. He says, after discussing the particular claims of the litigants:

"No litigation closely resembling these cases has been shown to the court, and no instance is known to me of an idea being buried in the Patent Office until the world caught up to it and passed it, and then embodied in a patent only useful for tribute. But patents are granted for inventions. The inventor may use his discovery or he may not, but no one else can use it for seventeen years.

"The seventeen years begins whenever the United States Court may so decree by its patent grant. That the applicant for patent rights acquiesce in the delay or even desires delay is immaterial to the courts, so long as the statute law has now been violated."

An Important Claim.

The first claim is regarded by Judge Hough as the most important, and he holds that both of the defendant companies have violated it. He describes the claim as follows:

"The combination with road locomotive, provided with a suitable running gear and including a propelling wheel and steering mechanism, of a liquid hydrocarbon engine of the compression type, comprising one or more power cylinders; a suitable liquid fuel receptacle, a power shaft connected with and arranged to run faster than the propelling wheel, an intermediate clutch or disconnecting device, and a suitable carriage body adapted to the conveyance of persons or goods."

The other claims held to be violated relate to particulars of the construction generally outlined in Claim 1. There are five of them altogether, and the court holds against one or the other or both of the defendants in respect to each one.

In conclusion, Judge Hough sums up the bearing of the case on the automobile world outside the holders of the Selden licenses as follows:

"The statement of the complainants' position seems sufficient to show that the subject matter of these suits is the modern gasoline automobile. The defendants are severally the manufacturer, seller, and user of the Ford machine, (a well-known American make,) and the maker and importer of the Panhard, a celebrated and typical French product. If these defendants infringe, it is because the complainants own a patent so fundamental and far reaching as to cover every modern car driven by any form of petroleum vapor and as yet commercially successful.

"If I have correctly apprehended it, there was room for a pioneer patent, and it must be held that on its face and in view of the art Selden's was such a patent. This means that Selden is entitled to a broad range of equivalents."

A Rebuke for Lawyers.

Judge Hough, in his opinion, also rebukes sharply the practice of lawyers in most patent cases in taking great masses of testimony, and cites the Selden patent cases as notorious offenders in this respect. In those particular cases, about thirty-two big volumes are required to contain the testimony, pleadings, and argument.

Representatives of the defendants stoutly asserted last night that the effect of Judge Hough's decision would not be appreciably felt so far as they or the automobile business at large is concerned. They said that the cases will be fought to the last ditch. They will be taken now to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and in case that tribunal sustains Judge Hough they will be carried on up to the Supreme Court. By that time, the defendants say, the Selden patents will have expired.

The Selden patent cases have already been in the public eye at intervals for several years, and, according to those who represent the Ford and the Panhard concerns, it will be several years more before a final decision is reached.

Job E. Hedges, the legal adviser of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association, in this city, said last night that while he had not personally handled the patent cases he was quite sure that an appeal would be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals and the whole case whipped out before that tribunal. Mr. Parker, a Detroit lawyer, has been representing the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association in the Selden cases. He was not in town last night.

André Massenet, an official of the Panhard Company in this city, said after reading of Judge Hough's decision that he felt quite sure the matter would not be allowed to rest where it stands at present.

"This is only the first court," said Mr. Massenet. "It will doubtless be taken to the higher courts in due course."

SUIT OVER SPARK PLUGS.

One Patent Holder Begins an Action, Alleging Infringement.

A suit was filed in the United States Circuit Court yesterday which may have an important effect on a good many makers and users of automobiles. Joseph H. Lehman of the Lehman Manufacturing Company, makers of jump spark ignitior plugs, instituted an action seeking to restrain the A. R. Mosler Company of this city from manufacturing spark plugs on the ground of a prior patent.

There are about 125 varieties of spark plugs in the market, and if Mr. Lehman wins his suit some twelve or fifteen manufacturers and several hundred jobbing houses will be liable for incidental damages. In addition, provided the Lehman patent is sustained, the owners of all automobiles and gas engines in which the spark plugs alleged to be covered by it are installed will be brought within the scope of the litigation.

650 SIGNERS FOR JEROME.

Nearly a Third of 2,000 Required for His Nomination Obtained First Day.

District Attorney Jerome closed the first day of his ante-nomination campaign with 650 signatures on the petitions to give him a place on the ballot. This result was accomplished without effort on the part of Mr. Jerome's campaign manager, John A. Henneberry.

All the signatures, with the exception of about fifty, which were obtained on the lower east side, were affixed and acknowledged at the Jerome headquarters, in the Bryant Arcade Building, at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue.

The first to sign the petitions was Thomas S. Somers of 12 West Ninety-sixth Street, and Alonzo R. Peck of 7 West Eighty-second Street. Both for many years have been on the Grand Jury panel and have served on several Grand Juries since Mr. Jerome became District Attorney.

"We have not sought to get any big names or little names, any short names or long names," said Mr. Henneberry last night. "We have just taken people as they came in the effort to find out exactly how these petitions would go if left practically to themselves after the announcement was made.

"A number of men have called here and left checks, and others have handed in money. In no instance was the amount large, but the aggregate ran up to several hundred dollars. We had not made any appeal for funds and did not expect any contributions until the committee was formed and acted in that direction."

Mr. Henneberry said that indications last night were that the 2,000 names Mr. Jerome requires for an independent nomination would be obtained before the close of the week.

$400,000 Fire in Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 15.—The plant of the Portland Flouring Mills Company, one of the largest on the Pacific Coast, caught fire to-day, and the flames soon spread to the company's dock. The fire was caused by the explosion of a dust collector on the sixth floor of the mill. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

DE FOREST DECLINES TO RUN FOR MAYOR

IVINS GAINS STRENGTH

Republicans Think the Nomination for District Attorney Should Go to Whitman.

Robert W. De Forest, who was Tenement House Commissioner under Mayor Low, followed the example of President Butler of Columbia University and President Finley of the City College yesterday and requested the Committee of One Hundred to drop his name from their list of Mayoralty possibilities.

When this request arrived Mr. De Forest's name occupied the place at the head of the Hundred's list. His withdrawal revived the talk of a straight Republican candidate, and the names of Job E. Hedges and Congressman William S. Bennet again were mentioned as possibilities for the first place on the ticket.

Both Mr. Hedges and Mr. Bennet called at the Republican County headquarters last night, but said their visit was not for the purpose of discussing candidacies or candidates. The prospects of William M. Ivins received a boost through the withdrawal of Mr. De Forest. But it was said last night that his activities in connection with the proposed revised charter, which would have given borough autonomy a hard rap, were being put down by the Republican leaders against him.

Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, who controls the situation in Brooklyn, as far as the fusion end of the campaign is concerned, it was said, is opposed to Mr. Ivins. Mr. Woodruff has been known to change his mind many times, however, and if he did so on this occasion it wouldn't necessarily cause a wild sensation.

Mr. De Forest made known his desire to be dropped from further consideration in connection with the Mayoralty nomination in a letter which he sent to Eugene H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Committee of One Hundred. This letter said:

> I return to-day from a camping trip in the Canadian woods, and infer from what I see in the newspapers that my name has been mentioned by your committee, among others, as that of a possible candidate for Mayor. If so, I hasten to inform the committee, through you, that I could not accept such a nomination if tendered, and I ask that my name receive no further consideration.
> I am not at all insensible to the honor of being listed among the eligibles, but I could not undertake the responsibility of such an office without abandoning other duties to which I am committed and which I must therefore regard as paramount.

Chairman Parsons of the Republican County Committee, on hearing of Mr. De Forest's withdrawal, said he undoubtedly would have made an excellent Mayor if elected. It was learned yesterday that former Surrogate Charles H. Beckett had been suggested to the Committee of One Hundred, and the Republicans as a strong candidate for the Mayoralty. Mr. Beckett, who made a fine record as Surrogate, to which office he was appointed by Gov. Hughes to fill out the unexpired term of the late Surrogate Fitzgerald, was a candidate for that office in the last election, but was defeated.

If the Mayoralty nomination and the nomination for Controller should both go to Republicans, the nomination for President of the Aldermen and for Borough President on the Fusion ticket will go to some of the other organizations that will join in the anti-Tammany fight. This has been decided on in advance of the fusion conferences, which will open to-morrow afternoon at the Fifth Avenue Building.

The nomination for District Attorney will be claimed by the Republicans. Some Republicans believe that the nomination for Jerome's present office will go to Charles S. Whitman unless he should be the nominee for Mayor.

The Republican County Committee will meet this evening and appoint a conference committee to meet the Committee of One Hundred and the other anti-Tammany organizations invited to confer. The invitations have been accepted by all the organizations asked to attend the conference. The following committees have been appointed from the organizations included in the Hundred's list:

Committee of One Hundred—E. H. Outerbridge, Raymond V. Ingersoll, Percival Kuehne, Joseph M. Price, Charles C. Burlingham, William A. Coakley, William C. Redfield, John Davis, Franklin H. Giddings, Pratt Stratton, Arnold B. MacStay.

Citizens' Union—William J. Schieffelin, Julius Henry Cohen, Francis C. Huntington.

Kings County Republican Organization—Timothy L. Woodruff, State Chairman; Jacob Brenner, Chairman of the County Executive Committee; Charles H. Kelby, Chairman of the County Committee.

Taxpayers' Conference Committee—B. Aymar Sands, Herbert B. Brush, J. G. Timolat.

Cleveland Democracy—William F. Schneider, Charles S. Beardsley, and W. B. Selden.

The Hundred authorized yesterday a statement on the alleged extravagance of the city in acquiring school sites, in which it was said:

"The failure of the Tammany administration to provide for the erection of needed schools on its eighty vacant sites and the policy of Tammany to spend available funds for the purchase of new sites rather than for the erection of buildings, suggests the question of whether in the purchase of these sites the city has received fair value for its money.

"The cost of acquiring the eighty sites was $4,211,990. Most of them were acquired by condemnation, though a few in each borough were taken through private purchase. From an investigation by the Commissioners of Accounts it appears that under both methods the city has paid an excessive price.

"An examination of the records regarding thirteen of the sites acquired by condemnation shows that while their assessed valuation was $472,400, the city paid $1,038,606 in awards. For sixteen sites acquired by private purchase the city paid $1,452,427, although the total assessed valuation at the time of purchase was only $788,150."

Chicagoan Held on Smuggling Charge.

In Jersey City yesterday United States Commissioner Rowe held Stephen Erhard of 3,333 Fort Street, Chicago, in $500 bail on a charge of smuggling laces and embroidery into this country. He came in on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie on Sept. 7, bringing three trunks. Each trunk when examined was found to contan lace and embroidery worth $700 sewed into the sleeves of coats and the legs of trousers. He has a store in Chicago.

THREE YACHTSMEN HAVE PAID

Others to be Sued for Tax—One Lawyer Finds 30 Objections to Collection.

The time allowed to yacht owners to pay the duty on foreign built yachts, as assessed under the new tariff law, expired yesterday. Only three yacht owners have settled, and the Customs officials now await the fight to be made in the courts by the owners of foreign built pleasure craft. To-day Deputy Collector James J. Johnson will report to Harrison Osborne, head of the Law Division, the yachtsmen who have refused to obey the law. This information will be passed on to the United District Attorney's office, and suits will be begun. The three yachtsmen who have paid the duty are Frederick Gallatin, owner of the Riviera, who gave up $2,856 on Tuesday; Joseph Pulitzer, who paid $11,240 on his yacht Liberty yesterday, and Walter Jennings, who turned into the Treasury $3,731 for the Tuscarora.

About forty-five notices to pay up were sent to yacht owners in this section. They have the option of paying an annual tax of $7 a gross ton on their craft, or of paying 35 per cent. of the appraised value of their craft in a lump sum, in which case the yacht comes under the American flag and is not assessable again. The three owners who have paid have elected to pay the annual tax based on $7 a gross ton. Some requests have also been received for yacht appraisals. Collector Loeb has received several letters from lawyers representing yacht owners, questioning the constitutionality of the new law. One yacht owner has refused to pay on the ground that its retroactive provision is illegal. Another law firm has written in, setting forth at least thirty legal objections to the collection of the tax. The suits to be brought will probably take the form of actions brought in the United States Circuit Court to collect a debt.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN BACK.

Returns with His Family to be Here for the Hudson-Fulton Jubilee.

Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, returned yesterday with his wife and six children on the White Star liner Majestic and told of a strenuous Summer abroad. He cut short his stay on the other side to enable him to be here for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. He is Chairman of the commission having in charge the festivities outside of New York. This State work has been conducted by Andrew S. Draper, State Commissioner of Education, acting head of the committee.

While abroad President Schurman attended the Darwin Centenary at Cambridge University, the ceremonies marking the three hundred and fiftieth year of the founding of the Geneva University, and the five hundredth anniversary of the founding of the University of Leipsic. At both the latter universities he was selected to speak for America. In Paris he participated in the Fourth of July celebration.

"Germany is progressing wonderfully in the work of scientific research," he said. "The amount of work along these lines carried on in England and Germany is amazing. There is much better financial support and more incentive for such work than obtains in this country. The University of Leipsic has behind it in its work the support of both the nobility and people. The result is that the university is accomplishing deeds in scientific efforts that will have a marked effect on scientific work in the years to come."

Enter Soft Hats and Derbies.

$2.74; that's the price. And unless you dissect quality you'll remain in ignorance of how much Hat value we've placed at your command at that modest figure. When seeking a basis for intelligent comparison, use the Hats sold by others at $3.50.

Wafer Flex Derbies are made of fine fur felt; highly calendered. Such softness and glassiness as theirs could only come from solid, honest, basic materials. A shallow surface polish would never do. Best of silk trimmings.

We have a special Derby that has graced thousands of thrifty heads. Also made of fur felt, with silk band and binding and best imported sweats. We sell this line at $1.88, and it follows the curve of brim and height of crown and duplicates the quality and finish of the ones sold elsewhere at $2.50 and $3.00.

Our $3.49 and $4.49 Derbies not surpassed at any prices.

Soft Hats, $1.88, $2.49, $2.74

"How Much?" you ask, indicating a Hat that has caught your fancy. Likelier than not the answer will be $2.50, or $3.00, or $3.50, if the question is asked in 'round-town stores.

Our prices for the same styles and qualities are $1.88, $2.49, and $2.74.

The variety of shapes and the diversity of trimmings and the din of colors—they cut off descriptions; too many.

KAISER SEES AIRSHIP AT WORK WITH ARMY

So Pleased with Operations of Gross II. That He Orders Zeppelin to Manoeuvres.

FRENCH ARMY USES BALLOON

MERGENTHEIM, Würtemberg, Sept. 15.—Surrounded by a brilliant company, including the King of Würtemberg, the Grand Dukes of Baden and Hesse, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, Winston Spencer Churchill, the Earl of Lonsdale, and Capt. Samuel G. Shartle, the American Military Attaché at Berlin, Emperor William witnessed the dramatic appearance of the military dirigible balloon Gross II., which emerged from the clouds overhanging the valley of the Taubar this morning. Those on board the airship were spying out the positions of the Red army and transmitting their observations by wireless to headquarters, many miles in the rear.

The Emperor was intensely interested and watched with his field glasses every turn of the airship, which, answered the helm gracefully. The Emperor was so delighted with the performance of the Gross II. that he sent a message to Count Zeppelin, so it is reported, to come to the manoeuvres from Frankfurt with the Zeppelin III.

The Emperor spent six hours on a hilltop, following the development of the first decisive engagement between the Red and Blue armies. He partook with his guests of the hot luncheon served from the Cuirassiers' traveling kitchen, as the imperial automobile kitchen was unable to climb the steep hill. The crowd of spectators was entertained by the sight of brilliantly uniformed Lieutenants opening meat cans and stirring soup.

LA FALISSE, France, Sept. 15.—The dirigible balloon République, which was damaged ten days ago while making a landing, and which was repaired by military engineers, took part in the army manoeuvres to-day. It was employed for scouting purposes, and made observations which revealed the whole plan of campaign of the enemy.

AEROPLANE AS MOTOR CAR.

Santos-Dumont Expects to Use His on Ground or in Air.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Santos-Dumont at Saint Cyr to-day reduced the record previously held by Curtiss for the shortness of the run of an aeroplane prior to taking wing from eighty to seventy yards. Three thousand persons witnessed the experiment.

Santos-Dumont says he expects in a few days to be able to use his aeroplane as a motor car along the road, rising at will and descending again to resume running upon the ground.

He believes that he will further reduce the distance necessary to traverse before rising to forty or fifty yards.

WASHINGTON WANTS MEET.

Takes Steps to Secure Next International Aviation Races.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Washington Aero Club decided to-day to affiliate with the Aero Club of America, as a step in the direction of acquiring the privilege of holding the next international aviation meet. The Aero Club of America, as the sole member of the International Aeronautic Federation from the United States, has the right to award the place of holding the next international aviation meet, and one of its requirements of candidates for the privilege is affiliation with it.

The final plans for the campaign which the Aero Club and the business organizations of Washington, Baltimore, and Norfolk are to make with a view to securing the meet were arranged at a meeting of the Board of Managers to-day in the office of Acting Secretary of War Oliver, Vice President of the club. A meeting will be held on Friday in the Mayor's office, in Baltimore, when a plan of cooperation with the Washington Club will be outlined.

WRIGHT MAKES BALLOON TRIP.

Travels in Zeppelin III. from Frankfort to Mannheim.

MANNHEIM, Germany, Sept. 15.—The airship Zeppelin III. flew here to-day from Frankfort. On board as passengers were Orville Wright, Prince August William of Prussia, and the Duke of Saxe Coburg-Gotha. The flight was most successful and the passengers were landed here safely. The distance is sixty-six miles.

Prince August William congratulated Orville Wright warmly on his recent aeroplane flights at Berlin. Mr. Wright is to return to Berlin next week for further flights.

SPENCER F. EDDY RESIGNS.

Personal Reasons Compel His Retirement from Diplomatic Service.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Sept. 15.—Spencer F. Eddy of Chicago has sent his resignation from the Diplomatic Corps to President Taft. Mr. Eddy is at present United States Minister to Roumania and Servia. His last preceding post was Minister to Argentina.

Mr. Eddy's decision to abandon the Diplomatic Service after a successful career is due to personal reasons, chiefly continued illness in his family. Mrs. Eddy who is now in Paris, has not been well enough to join her husband here. Furthermore, certain pressing business matters in the United States compel Mr. Eddy's presence in Chicago and San Francisco during the coming Winter.

ROOSEVELTS LEAVE PARIS.

After Tour of Switzerland They Will Go to Italy.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by her daughter Ethel, left here to-day for Switzerland. After a brief tour of the mountains they will go to Venice and thence to Porto Maurizio, where they will spend some time with Miss Carow, Mrs. Roosevelt's sister.

Mrs. Roosevelt was escorted to the railroad station by Ambassador White and Franklin M. Gunther, Secretary of the Embassy.

ESPERANTIST ASKS FOR FUNDS

Archdeacon Appeals to Carnegie for Financial Support.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Ernest Archdeacon, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, who has just returned from the International Esperanto Congress at Barcelona, says he was amazed at the facility with which persons of different nationalities communicated in Esperanto.

He has issued an appeal to Andrew Carnegie to investigate the Esperanto movement and give it his financial support.

DIAZ 79 YEARS OLD.

In Tears When Workmen Call—Taft Sends Telegram of Congratulation.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—Gen. Porforio Diaz, President of Mexico, celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday to-day. He was the recipient of greetings from many foreign lands, and hundreds flocked to the National Palace to present their congratulations. The Diplomatic Corps and Consular body were early at the palace, and United States Ambassador Thompson, on behalf of the former, and Consul General Drier of Sweden, for the latter, presented felicitations. Gen. Diaz, who is in splendid health, feelingly answered these salutations.

A body of workmen who came to the palace expressed the hope that Diaz might yet rule Mexico for many years, and their enthusiasm moved the President to tears.

President Diaz has occupied the Chief Magistracy of the Republic for thirty-two years. He has been again renominated to fill the term beginning in 1910 and ending six years later.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President Taft has sent this telegram to President Diaz on his seventy-ninth birthday:

"I beg to express my cordial congratulations upon your birthday and the hope that you will live to enjoy many, and that your country may have the benefit of your patriotic services for many years to come."

COMPLAIN OF OUR OFFICIALS.

Canada to Protect Passengers from American Immigration Officers.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 15.—The Canadian Railway Commission to-day made an order directing all railroads in Canada which do an international business to direct their conductors to prevent undue interference with passengers in Canada by United States immigration officials. In making the order Chairman Mabee said he had received over fifty complaints against American immigration officials who are alleged to have made themselves obnoxious in Canada, not only to passengers bound to the United States, but to passengers going from one Canadian point to another. The order directed conductors to report all such cases of incivility by American officials on Canadian trains.

On behalf of the railways it was explained that the presence of American officials on trains in Canada was due to a reciprocal arrangement, and was designed to prevent loss of time in making examinations at boundary points.

RESELL MEAT TO CHICAGO.

British War Officials Reported to Have Made Profitable Deal.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Taking advantage of the prevailing shortage in and the enhanced prices of canned meats, the thrifty British War Office is reported to have reaped a handsome profit by selling back to certain Chicago houses large stocks of canned meats ordered before the prices advanced.

It appears that these supplies are not wanted immediately, and that under its contract the War Office may replenish its reserves when it desires at the old and lower prices. Officials of the War Office to-day declined either to confirm or deny this story.

WE'LL FLY OVER SEAS, SAYS MINISTER WU

Chinese Diplomat Thinks Airships Will Soon Make Trans-Ocean Flights.

HE RETURNS FROM PERU

Hopes That Time Will Bring an International Court to Settle Disputes and Prevent Wars.

Wu Ting-Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States and Minister Plenipotentiary to Peru, Mexico, and Cuba, returned yesterday by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Oruba from Lima via the Isthmus of Panama. He appeared to be in the best of health, and received the reporters in the lounge of the Oruba.

"I spent seven days in the Canal Zone," said Dr. Wu, "and was much impressed with the systematic manner in which the work is being carried on, especially the enormous steam shovels, like giant hands, methodically scooping out the earth and casting it aside. The opening of the canal will be a boon to the world at large, and an improvement in trade conditions will assuredly follow.

"I was informed by Col. Goethals that he expected to have it finished by 1915, and I hope to travel through it on my way to or from China.

"This is the twentieth century, and I am prepared to see many wonders. Nothing is impossible any longer. I expect to see people flying through the air like birds in the next ten years, when we know how to live and regulate our lives. People laugh now, but it will surely come, when we pay more attention to aviation and improve our appliances."

"Do you think that aeroplanes will ever fly across the Atlantic?" He was asked.

"Certainly I do, and across the Pacific to China also," he replied. "We must take this seriously, and not make a joke about flying machines."

"What do you think of the use of flying machines in war?"

"I hope there will be no more wars, and that all nations will advance so far in civilization that there will be a universal court to settle all disputes without bloodshed. I believe in peace, not war. If you and I quarrel we may come to blows or go to the courts, but we are not allowed to incite other human beings to slaughter each other. I fear, though, that war is not yet entirely eliminated, owing to the advance of nations in all parts of the world."

AGAINST BRIDGE FRANCHISE.

Acting Mayor Says Proper Return for Queensboro Grant Must Be Obtained.

Acting Mayor McGowan indicated strongly yesterday that he will vote against the granting of a franchise to the New York & Queens County Railway Company to operate cars across the Queensboro Bridge at the meeting of the Board of Estimate to-morrow. The special committee of the board which has charge of the franchise arrangements over the bridge met on Tuesday and appeared to be in favor of passing favorably upon the application. Mr. McGowan has three votes in the board and will be a strong factor to reckon with in deciding the question.

"I am just as anxious as any one to see that proper transit facilities are provided on the bridge," said Mr. McGowan yesterday, "but unless we see to it that the city obtains a proper return for the privilege the public has a right to hold us to account. The franchise which we granted to the South Shore Traction Company was disapproved by the Public Service Commission and is now before the courts.

"It seems to me that we are in honor bound to delay further action on the matter until this question has been decided. We should provide for the transporting of the public across the bridge with all speed, but much more than speed is involved in this matter, and the people will hold us accountable in the future if we make any mistakes."

United Wireless License Extended.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The State Department has been officially advised that the President of Cuba has issued a decree extending until Aug. 1, 1910, the license of the United Wireless Telegraph Company. This notice supercedes the notice which was given to this company on May 22 that the wireless station which that company operated in the Vedada must be dismantled within three months.

ARCHITECTS' CLAIM ALLOWED.

City to Pay $32,945 for Plans for Brooklyn Municipal Building.

Controller Metz approved yesterday the claim of McKim, Mead & White, the architects, for $32,945 for drawing the plans and specifications for the proposed new municipal building to be built in Brooklyn. The Controller acted on advice of the Corporation Counsel, who decided that the firm would win the suit it had brought against the city for collection of the claim if it came to an issue. The adjustment will save the city $5,000.

The squabble over the plans has had the attention of the Law Department and the Department of Finance for some time. The original commission to McKim, Mead & White was given by Martin W. Littleton when he was Borough President of Brooklyn. Mr. Coler refused to accept the plans and contracted for others.

REBATING INQUIRY BEGINS.

The Federal Grand Jury began yesterday its investigation of the charges of rebating between several of the trunkline railroads and the Holland-America Steamship Company. The investigation will cover these charges, which are backed up by correspondence, from the files of the Holland-America Company, presented to the United States District Attorney by a morning newspaper, and also charges that various of the transatlantic steamship lines are in a combination to control ocean rates. The latter charge came in substance before the Inter-State Commerce Commission some time ago in a complaint of the Cosmopolitan Steamship Company of Philadelphia, but it was held that ocean rates were not within the power of the commission to regulate.

Neither District Attorney Wise nor John W. H. Crim, his assistant, who is handling the case against the Holland-America Company and the railroads, would discuss the matter yesterday. It is understood that one witness was examined from the steamship company and several others have been subpoenaed. The matter will continue before the Grand Jury from day to day until some decision is reached as to whether there is ground for the indictments.

KEELER'S LONG HIT BREAKS UP GAME

"Wee Willie's" Drive in Ninth Scores Run That Defeats the Athletics.

HIS ERROR LED TO A TIE

Drops Baker's Fly in Last Inning and Then Mack's Men Score Two Runs, but Keeler Redeems Himself.

After all, Connie Mack's men couldn't make it four straight from the Yankees. The Stallingsites won the last of the series on the hilltop yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. Brockett's single with one out, and Keeler's drive to the right field fence with two down in the ninth inning gaining the victory after the visitors tied in the same round. Consequently the Athletics have their work cut out for them in their home series with the Tigers beginning to-day.

Mack sent Morgan into the box again. That pitcher defeated the Hilltoppers in the first of the series, but he was not equal to an encore. He was taken out after eight rounds so Hartsel might bat for him in the ninth. The best Topsy could do was to strike out, and that was just enough to prevent Philadelphia from passing instead of tieing New York. King Brockett did the honors for the locals, and right royally he twirled. He held the Athletics down to six safeties, only one of which was good for an extra base. The home batsmen, on the other hand, included two doubles and a triple in their ten taps, and each of their distance drives figured in the scoring. Eight of their safeties were made at Morgan's expense. In fielding, too, they outclassed the Mackians.

The first run was earned in the third inning. Demmitt opened the round with an exceptionally fine one-bagger to left, a drive that shot between Davis and Collins so swiftly neither of them had time to get within a yard of it, though they were covering Ray closely. Keeler laid an elderdown bunt in front of the plate and was thrown out by Livingstone, Demmitt going to the far turn on the sacrifice. Ray raced into third when Chase died, Baker to Davis. He came in on Engle's clean single over second. In the fourth inning Gardner doubled to right—a beautiful hit—and went to third on Elberfeld's out to Davis. Austin sent the ball to deep centre, where Oldring, running with it, barely touched it with his glove, and it went for a three-bagger, scoring Gardner. Brockett's foul fell to Baker, ending the round.

A marvelous double play spoiled Philadelphia's chances in the seventh. Barry started with a single to sharp left and Collins drew a pass. Baker's fly was caught by Demmitt in far right centre, and then Ray made a long throw to third base, for which Barry had dashed on the catch. So straight and true went the ball that it got there a second ahead of the forward runner, who was doubled out. Collins went to second on the play, but was caught in an attempt at third.

Chase's life on Barry's fumble and Engle's walk with one down, followed by the hitting of Elberfeld with a pitched ball, with two out, filled the bases for New York in the eighth, but Austin's fly was captured handily by Heitmuller. Then in the ninth came the rally in which the Athletics tied, it being due to two muffs by Keeler of flies from the same batsman that the runs were gained. Hartsel, batting for Morgan, was retired on strikes. Heitmuller filed to Demmitt. Barry singled to left and Collins walked for the second time. Baker drove a high foul to the great green gate, and Keeler, after getting under it by fine sprinting, dropped the ball. A minute afterward Baker sent a fly to short right. Again Wee Willie got under the ball, only to let it roll to the grass.

Barry crossed the line on the error, Collins taking third and Baker first. Eddie scored on a smart single to left centre by Davis, and that made the totals of tallies even. Then Keeler awoke to his responsibilities and caught Murphy's foul, retiring the side. For New York, Hemphill, batting in place of Sweeney, went out, Barry to Davis. Brockett singled to centre and came in on Keeler's penitential drive to the green gate for three bases, after Demmitt's short fly fell to Collins.

Pete Wilson, Manager Stallings's slim and energetic young southpaw, goes to Newark to-day to help the Indians capture the Eastern League pennant. At the end of that organization's season he will return to the Hilltop fold. The score:

LET DOWN THE BARS FOR 24-HOUR RACE

Popular-Priced Automobiles Will Be Permitted in Next Contest at Brighton.

TWO BUICKS NOMINATED

Fight of Small Car Makers Is Successful—Entries for Riverhead Race.

The Motor Racing Association has let down the bars for the next twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach, and in the contest to be held on Sept. 24 and 25 will be seen two Buicks, and possibly a number of other machines of lower price and less power than the big cars that have competed in previous contests.

This announcement, made yesterday afternoon after a meeting of the association, is highly interesting in view of the numerous protests that have been lodged with the American Automobile Association by the Buick concern. The Buick racing manager claimed that the Motor Racing Association discriminated against the makers of popular-priced cars when it adopted a rule limiting the entries to cars costing over $2,500.

As soon as the Buick Company learned of the action taken by the Motor Racing Association yesterday two cars were entered. Louis Chevrolet and Bobby Burman will have charge of the machines, and they will be assisted by two other members of the Buick racing team. It will be interesting to note what the Buick cars will do in the long grind now that they have been let in.

Of the big cars entered are two Loziers, a Palmer & Singer, an Allen-Kingston, a Rainier, a Houpt, a Renault, and a Fiat. The Motor Racing Association announces that at least twelve cars will face the starter on the evening of Sept. 24, when the contest begins.

The finish of the next twenty-four-hour race should be most thrilling and spectacular. The association has offered a cash prize to the driver making the greatest mileage during the last hour, and cars that drop out of the contest before the finish will be permitted to compete in the final sprint, so that almost the full field should fight it out for the time prize. The two Acme cars entered in the last race made a record of 55 miles an hour, and it is predicted that the last mile of the coming race will be even faster than that.

Twelve cars have been entered in the Long Island Stock Car Derby, which is to be held over the Riverhead-Mattituck course Sept. 29. This number will probably be increased before the lists close. Among the entries received yesterday were two Rainiers, three Maxwells, two Cadillacs, and an Apperson. Herbert Lytle, who will drive the Apperson, intends making a trial spin around the course before he gives positive assurance that his car will compete. Several grand stands have been erected along the course, and the people of Suffolk County are displaying keen interest in the coming contest.

A number of delegates and officers of the American Automobile Association left for Cleveland yesterday to complete the preliminary arrangements for the second annual National Good Roads Convention, which will open in that city next Tuesday. Chairman George C. Diehl of the Convention Committee and Frederick H. Elliott, Secretary of the A. A. A., are already in Cleveland, and headquarters have been established at the Cleveland Automobile Club.

Pirates Win in First Inning.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Spade gave bases on balls to the first three Pittsburg players that faced him to-day, and this was followed by singles by Wagner, Abstein, and Wilson. The result was four runs for Pittsburg in the opening inning, a lead Cincinnati was never able to overcome. Spade retired and Rowan, who took his place, allowed the visitors to accumulate three more runs, mainly by hitting. Mitchell hit the ball to the right field bleachers for a home run in the ninth inning. Score:

Squadron A Polo Match.

In the second of the series of polo games for the Major Bridgman Cup yesterday afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park between the teams of Squadron A the Whites vanquished the Blues by a score of 4½ goals to 2. The defeat of the Blues puts them out of the competition, as this is the second time they have been beaten, losing the first game of the series to the Reds. The final game will be played to-morrow afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, when the Reds and Whites will match forces. The line-up:

Whites—H. Goddard, A. W. Perry, T. Strong, H. Holt.
Blues—W. Baylis, L. Spencer, D. Rand, R. C. Lee.

Goals Earned—By Whites, Holt, Goddard, and Strong; by Blues, Rand and Lee. Goals by handicap—Whites, 2. Net goals—For Whites, 5; for Blues, 2. Penalty for foul—Whites, ½ point. Net score—Whites, 4½; Blues, 2.

Two Polo Defeats for Myopia.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 15.—Myopia polo team suffered two defeats at the Norfolk Country Club to-day. Dedham won a preliminary match for the Karlstein cups over Myopia C., 25½ to 0¾, and Great Neck captured the Myopia cup from Myopia A., 13½ to 8. The first game went to Dedham easily. Joshua Crane's playing alone was sufficient to defeat Myopia. He scored thirteen goals. Great Neck did not need the assistance of its three goals handicap allotment to win in the second contest, although the game was closer than the first.

FIGHT WAITS ON JEROME.

Reserve Sale Unlawful, Says District Attorney, but No Course Is Advised.

After a conference yesterday afternoon in the office of District Attorney Jerome, at which the District Attorney, Assistant District Attorney Murphy, Police Commissioner Baker, and William Gibson, President of the Fairmont Athletic Club, and his counsel were present, with the proposed boxing bout between Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford as the subject, the announcement was made last night by Maurice Dieches, on behalf of the boxing club, that the match positively will be held on Friday night, as an athletic entertainment for the members and guests of the club. No statement of what action the District Atorney's office will take was made, though Mr. Jerome put himself on record as declaring that the bout, as planned with reservations of seats and places of advantage for either members or guests, was in violation of Section 1,710 of the Penal Code, the charges for reservations of seats or places coming under the head of fees charged for the sparring exhibition.

Mr. Jerome did not make a final decision on the course to be followed by his office, but the conference and correspondence between Police Commissioner Baker and the District Attorney and the statement of the Fairmont Athletic Club seemed to make it plain that the next move will be made by Mr. Jerome, as District Attorney. It was said that Mr. Jerome would declare to-day the course he is to follow.

Mr. Jerome, at the conference yesterday, assured Commissioner Baker that the District Attorney's office would co-operate with the Police Department in the enforcement of the law relative to prize-fighting, and stated that he would be glad to advise in any specific case that may arise. His advice concerning the Ketchel-Langford bout up to date was that Commissioner Baker take every reasonable means in his power to ascertain from reliable sources the likelihood of there being infringement of the section of the Penal Code relative to prizefighting exhibitions.

For the Fairmont Athletic Club, it was said last night that there would be no violation of the law as interpreted by the courts defining the liberties and rights of club members in their private entertainments. It was said that there would be no trouble, because none but members or properly sponsored guests would be admitted, and there would be no policemen or members of the District Attorney's staff present, because none of them are members.

Hurley Victor Over Smith.

Battling Hurley had decidedly the better of a ten-round fight with Cy Smith at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night, having his opponent in bad shape a number of times, though he was unable to get in a winning punch. Smith was game, though outclassed, and Hurley did not come through the bout unscarred. In the sixth round Hurley struck Smith low, but as it was due to Smith jumping as the blow was delivered the referee did not call it a foul.

COUNTRY JAY'S NEW MARK.

Champion Trotter Under Saddle Does Mile in 2:08¼.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Trotting under saddle with Reamey Macey up, Country Jay lowered his own world's record of 2:10½ to 2:08¼ at the third day's Grand Circuit meeting in connection with the State Fair this afternoon. With The Raffles as pacemaker, Country Jay covered the first quarter in 0:31. At the three-eights mile post, The Raffles's harness broke, and the Jay was compelled to go it alone for the rest of the journey. Responding gamely to Macey's urgings, the thirteen-year-old gelding trotted the half in 1:03¾, three-quarters in 1:37½, and mile in 2:08¼.

Horses, Drivers, and Sulkies in Heap.

MALONE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—There was a bad smash-up to-day in the 2:11 pace at the Franklin County Fair here, in which Billy Brino, the Prince, and Raybetta, with their drivers and sulkies, were all piled in a heap. Fortunately nobody was fatally injured, and Raybetta, owned by J. H. Strovsnider of Brooklyn, although she was stripped of her harness and sulky, pluckily pulled herself together, and later won the race. Her best time was 2:11¼.

Yacht Varuna Back from Cruise.

RACE FOR PRINCE IMPERIAL

Costly Colt from Canada Hard Pressed to Win a Sprinter's Purse at the Gravesend Track.

The racing at Gravesend yesterday had incident and variety in abundance, but the happenings out of the ordinary were almost all of a character to ruffle racegoers, and it required an oversight, by which a horse and jockey that might have changed a result on an investigation for foul riding, were completely ignored, in amateur style, to restore the crowd to good humor.

The most important product of the afternoon's sport was the result of the Speculation Stakes, one mile and a furlong, which, with only two runners, was the biggest upset of the day. The runners were S. C. Hildreth's Firestone and

THE CENTRAL BANK PROPOSAL.

The country will be in sympathy with President TAFT's main purpose of bespeaking an attitude of friendly observation of the efforts of Senator ALDRICH's Monetary Commission to reform what Mr. TAFT calls our "patched-up banking and monetary system, which satisfies nobody." Mr. TAFT is entitled to thanks for that declaration, even if it stood alone. But it is too large an order to obey even from the President a mandate of final acceptance of plans as yet undisclosed, and which conceivably may be bettered up to the moment of disclosure by insisting upon conformity to the principles of monetary science rather than to any real or imagined necessities either of the Government or of any party.

There is need of this caution, because there is danger of repeating either the errors which caused the destruction of the central bank which the United States once had, or those other errors in the establishment of the present so-called National bank system which now clamor for amendment. In the words of JOSEPH T. TALBERT, President of the Clearing House of Chicago, when welcoming the American Bankers' Convention to that city this week, "It is not out of place to point out to you, and to emphasize the fact, that sound and correct, instead of artificial and political, legislation in our finances is imperative, and infinitely more important than the tariff, or any other issue that has been before us in recent years." It is not to be assumed that the country is in danger of artificial and political monetary legislation from the Commission itself—rather the contrary. But that danger does threaten from sources so influential both in politics, legislation, and finance that nothing can be taken for granted.

The President himself suggests that the "control of the monetary system shall be kept free from Wall Street influences." There is a sense in which that is true, and it is a pity that the President did not indicate clearly that he spoke in that sense. The central bank should be independent of all financial cliques, and of all merely speculative influences. But it is neither desirable nor possible that the central bank should be administered without regard for such wisdom in thought and boldness in policy as originated so recently in Wall Street, and rescued the country from the embarrassments into which it was plunged by the workings of that monetary system which Mr. TAFT so aptly describes. It would have been better if Mr. TAFT had recognized the obligation of his predecessor to the only part of Wall Street which is worth consideration, rather than that he should have pandered to a popular prejudice which it is better to instruct than yield to. There is a passage in Mr. TALBERT's address upon this point which Mr. TAFT might read with profit.

But although Mr. TAFT would have the central bank independent of Wall Street he would have it "responsible to the Government." It is possible to conceive of Governments to which it might be well to make a central bank responsible. But there have been times in the past when we did not have such a Government, and it is doubtful if all portions of the present Government are better sources of financial wisdom than the immutable principles of financial science. Mr. TAFT speaks for government by a party which passed the banking system which he condemns, and which enacted the silver coinage law. His own Administration includes Speaker CANNON, who is reported in the same newspapers as himself uttering abominable financial heresies. Mr. CANNON declared his opposition to any European system for the United States, expressed the opinion, which he is not alone in holding, to the effect that our present banking system is excellent, even if not entirely above criticism, and even committed himself to unreserved approval of the latest financial enactment by Congress. Regarding the Vreeland-Aldrich emergency currency law the Speaker said: "We enacted a law, the chief weakness of which, in my opinion, is that it lasts only six years; but then that could be cured by just taking the limitation off." That the Speaker holds such views is grievous in itself. It is even worse that the authors of our central bank—if we are to get one—so recently committed themselves to a legislative expression of opinions fatal to the usefulness of any banking system, whether or not its name shall include the word "central."

Wise consideration toward Mr. TAFT, as well as duty toward the country's needs, dictates a certain benevolent reserve toward Senator ALDRICH's financial masterpiece until it can be judged upon its merits, rather than upon forecasts of them. That is the surer way to get a central bank law which shall merit as well as receive judicious approval.

THE NATION'S FOOD.

The warnings sounded by Mr. JAMES J. HILL that we can no longer "feed the world" without an increase of agricultural population and an improvement in agricultural methods are beginning to be heeded. "We are likely to become a wheat-importing Nation," Mr. HILL said on Tuesday at the American Bankers' Convention. Accompanying the report of his speech THE TIMES printed a dispatch from Washington with reference to the future supply of the American meat market from Uruguay and Argentina. A universal practice of rotating crops would nearly double the product per acre of the staple cereals, and with our increasing population in the cities we should nevertheless continue to feed the world.

But with the conspicuous exceptions of the States of Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, and Nebraska the grain-producing States have in the last decade shown a decided tendency to increase their acreage production. In the five-year periods from 1868 to 1908 the yield of wheat per acre for the entire country has risen from 12.3 bushels an acre to 13.9 bushels, despite the fact that the great prairie tracts when first cropped were especially fertile. The yield for barley has risen in the forty years from 23.8 bushels an acre to 26.5 bushels; that of rye from 13.8 bushels to 16 bushels an acre; oats show some gain, while corn is the only backward crop. There is a difference of two-fifths of a bushel in favor of corn grown in the earlier half of the period from 1868. But Mr. HILL may derive some comfort from the figures of the yield of wheat per acre in Pennsylvania, which rose steadily from 13.8 bushels in 1868 to 16.6 bushels in the five-year period of 1903-1907, while Nebraska's yield increased from 12.4 bushels to 17.8 bushels of wheat per acre. Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois also show pronounced gains in their cultivation of wheat.

Slowly, we think, the farmers of the country have appreciated the need of mixing brains with their farming. This process has not been retarded in recent years by the propaganda of the freight-carrying railroads and by such agencies as the co-operative demonstrations of the Bureau of Plant Industry at Washington. The American farmer is still ignorant of his business as compared with the European peasant, whose production per acre averages nearly twice that attained in this country. But such improvidence may be overcome rapidly by the right methods. And recent statistics would indicate that the right methods are being applied.

TOO MANY PLANS.

It would be hard to invent a subway route which the city would not be better for having, so great and universal is the need of more travel facilities. And yet it is also true that while there can hardly be too many rapid transit routes in operation there may be far too many mere projects for routes. The old Rapid Transit Commission laid out many routes—nineteen, we believe—and died. Of them all only one was ever built. Now we have another commission and another nineteen routes, more or less. They cannot be all equally good, nor can all be built at once. Great as is the obligation of the city to the commission for its industry and ingenuity, the obligation would be greater if the commission would select its "one best bet," so to speak, and cumulate its energies until that route was put under construction. Then another could be planned, and so on.

The Eighth Avenue route is not to be condemned unreservedly, and as standing by itself. It would be a boon to receive such a gift provided it did not obstruct the receipt of a greater gift as the result of the commission's labors. Only a little while ago the commission was oblivious of the front door of the Pennsylvania Railway Station. Now, with even greater tardiness—or perhaps, rather, with equally objectionable prematurity in this case—it discovers the same station's back door. After the front door travel is accommodated it would be easier to applaud a plan to accommodate the back door. It is all but certain that both cannot be built together, and the Eighth Avenue route is objectionable as a substitue for its predecessor, which would retain its precedence.

The root of our present deadlock in this business is that the commission seems to regard itself in possession of a mandate to execute only its own plans, and not to execute the plans which it had an option to inherit. Those were well-considered plans. Possibly they were capable of improvement, but they deserved a better fate than to be discarded as worthless, or even as something to be avoided at any cost. Certainly the beginning which was made by the present Subway deserves a balance of praise over criticism. It is serving, and serving well upon the whole, twice as many riders as it was planned for. That is not a fair basis of an adverse presumption. Other things being equal, good business policy would suggest candid consideration of the plans of those who have done so well by the city, which is the owner in reversion of all that the present Subway possesses.

But the commission is proceeding on another policy. It seems to think that it is meritorious to create opposition to the present Subway. Why is it a good thing to make it difficult for it to relieve the congestion along its route? Why is it desirable to prevent it from being able to give transfers to other routes, and among the boroughs? And when the criticism of the Interborough and Pennsylvania Railways revealed to the community that the commission was guilty of long ignoring such an obtrusive factor in the subway situation as Seventh Avenue and the Pennsylvania Station, is it not futile to come forward with a plan for a back door service? When the commission complains that its plans are not accepted without amendments ought it not itself to be compelled to stand or fall on its own plans without announcing a new one daily? The commission is working too hard.

THE SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS.

The city's schools opened, as reported in the newspapers, with an attendance of 675,000, and 55,000 on part time. The total was never larger, but happily the number of those refused sittings, or put on part time, has often been exceeded. The situation regarding pupil accommodations is something like that regarding straphangers, that is to say, more seats are provided than there are occupants, but they are not always in the right places, nor always used to best advantage. When population is surging between the boroughs by the hundred thousand it is unavoidable that in one place or another there shall be here a surplus of sittings and there a deficiency. The problem is to fit the surplus to the deficiency.

If the population of the east side migrates to Williamsburg it is natural that the accommodations in both places should be thrown out of normal relation. Also it is to be noted that the decrease of attendance at the Manhattan end of the Queensboro Bridge is related to the enlarged enrollment in Queens. It is to be remarked also that some of the congestion is not of a sort calling for urgent relief, regardless of the burdens upon taxpayers. For example, when children are sent to school not for instruction, but for parental relief, it is obvious that the city is conducting a nursery rather than a school. Again, when congestion is reported in a class and there are vacant seats in the same district, or even in the same building, it is obvious that what is called for is better administration of existing facilities rather than an increase of the seats which are unfilled because of lack of precise information. Heretofore the attempt has been made to provide superfluity of accommodation rather than to make best use of existing facilities.

THE SEMMES CENTENARY.

Maryland is preparing to celebrate on Sept. 27 the birth, 100 years ago, of Admiral RAPHAEL SEMMES of the Confederate Navy. Admiral SEMMES commanded the Alabama, the vessel fitted out under British auspices in July, 1862, to prey upon the merchantmen of the United States. Having espoused the cause of the Confederacy, SEMMES placed himself under the Confederacy's orders. It was his not to ask the reason why, his but to do or die. That he performed his duty as he saw it is instanced by the charge made by the statesman COBDEN against the British nation on May 13, 1864. "You have been," he said, "carrying on hostilities from these shores against the people of the United States, and have been inflicting an amount of damage on that country greater than would be produced by many ordinary wars. It is estimated that the loss sustained by the capture and burning of American vessels has been about $15,000,000, or nearly £3,000,000. But that is a small part of the injury which has been inflicted on the American marine. We have rendered the rest of her vast mercantile property for the present valueless." And WILLIAM E. FORSTER on that day declared:

> There could not be a stronger illustration of the damage which had been done to the American trade by these cruisers than the fact that, so completely was the American flag driven from the ocean, the Georgia, on her second cruise, did not meet a single American vessel in six weeks, though she saw no less than seventy vessels in a very few days.

Small wonder, then, that MOTLEY wrote the next month, June 27, following the destruction of the Alabama: "The sinking of the Alabama by the plucky little Kearsarge will occasion great glee everywhere at home, and I can almost hear the shouts of delight at this distance," while Admiral FARRAGUT said: "I would sooner have fought that fight than any ever fought on the ocean." That the indictments against Great Britain of COBDEN and FORSTER were deserved is shown in the decision of the arbitrators at Genova in 1872, by the terms of which England paid $15,500,000 damages to the United States.

Yet it is fitting that Maryland should celebrate the birth of her distinguished son. When the Alabama went down Admiral SEMMES showed himself a gallant officer and a hero. Moreover, his centenary will have an international significance. Of the negotiations proceeding from the Alabama incident JOHN BASSETT MOORE, speaking on April 17, 1907, at the dinner of the Peace Congress in this city, said:

> When the adjustment of the Alabama claims by arbitration was first proposed to the British Government, what was the answer? Lord JOHN RUSSELL answered that the questions involved could not be submitted to arbitration, because, as he declared, they involved the honor of Her Majesty's Government, of which Her Majesty's Government was the sole guardian. And yet eight years afterward those very questions, after careful examination and critical formulation, were submitted to the tribunal at Geneva and finally decided.

A question involving a nation's honor! According to historic precedent that meant war, and nothing but war. Here, surely, peace had her victory, no less renowned than war. The question between the North and South has been settled forever. Questions hitherto demanding the belligerency of nations are now settled in peace. The Semmes Centenary means this.

"Holocaustelries" would be a more appropriate name for some of the Summer hostelries, in the opinion of The Insurance Press. Commenting on fires like those that destroyed the inn at Edgemere and the hotel at Point o' Woods this week, this newspaper for insurers and insured pleads for legislation requiring that "at least the kitchen and laundry of every hotel shall be of fireproof construction." But concrete construction throughout would be better. Had the fires occurred a month ago, when the hotels were filled, guests might have lost their lives.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Argument for a Secret Police.

Utica's experience as to the possibilities of crime where the Black Hand, whatever that may be, has terrorized an Italian colony, has naturally created alarm as well as horror in that city. It is not yet certain, of course, that the three children were shot by a man acting for a larger or smaller group of more or less organized blackmailers, but the indications point that way. The alternative theory is that the murders were committed by a homicidal lunatic—a theory which lacks plausibility, especially for those who are familiar with the usual, almost invariable, characteristics of that form of mania.

The report that the one surviving victim of the mysterious child slayer told his name when first questioned, but has professed utter ignorance of his identity since her father addressed to her a few emphatic commands which the bystanders could not understand, is to be accepted with caution, at least for the present. What was taken for a name may easily have been some other word or words, such as a child so young would be apt to utter if questioned while suffering from pain and terror. The story may be true, however, and if so it only illustrates anew the extreme difficulty of dealing with crime committed by and against people with notions utterly different from our own as to the function of a police force.

A considerable amount of money has been offered as rewards for the apprehension of the Utica murderer, but even though it were several times as large the chances of his capture would be little increased, since, under the assumption that he is backed by the so-called Black Hand, his "betrayal" to the authorities would almost certainly be avenged. The inability of our police to protect those menaced with such a vengeance has been proved many times, and it is therefore not at all strange that the honest Italian, no matter how much he may hate his criminal fellow-countryman, so often refuses to assist in bringing him to justice. The refusal is, indeed, as wrong as in the long run it is unwise, but with the individual it is not "the long run" that counts, and others than Italian immigrants might well hesitate to do their duty as citizens if its performance involved something more than a probability of painful death as a reward of virtue.

It becomes more and more obvious as time goes on that the only way to deal successfully with the Black Hand is through the use of the secret police which Gen. BINGHAM so often sought permission to establish. It is a desperate and repulsive remedy, but it will not take many atrocities like that at Utica to bring the public to realize that the situation is also desperate and justifies the one means of cure.

He Retired, But Not to Rest.

There has been no little curiosity, here if not abroad, as to why the young Brazilian SANTOS-DUMONT has allowed others to take all the risks and get all the glory that go with the successful use of real flying machines, which of course means those that are heavier than air.

In the recent days—which now seem so remote—when it was considered, and for that matter was, a great achievement laboriously to force a cigar-shaped balloon through a few miles of still air, SANTOS-DUMONT made his name known all over the world as the most daring and the most fortunate experimenter with these clumsy contrivances, but with the appearance of the vastly more promising aeroplane he retired from the field—or from the sky—and seemed to be content to observe the doings of others. Now it is revealed that he has not been idle, for he suddenly emerges from seclusion with an aeroplane of his own invention both smaller and swifter than those of his rivals. Its wings spread only a sixth as many square feet as does the machine of his best-known rivals, the WRIGHTS; with its one passenger on board it weighs only 260 pounds, and in its first public flight it made a speed of fifty-five miles an hour.

These be astonishing figures. Not long ago they would have drawn only derisive laughter to anybody offering them for judgment, but now nobody will doubt them, the word impossible having been withdrawn from use except in regard to arctic exploration—where it is still much needed. Evidently SANTOS-DUMONT retired because he saw that his brand of artificial bird was out of date, and he was content to remain on the ground until he could go aloft again without paying royalty to any other aviator.

Whether this new aeroplane is as much better as it is smaller than the rest remains to be proved, but it behooves the other volitators to speed up their engines and take in sail if they can. Other things being equal, the big flying machine is bound to be beaten in all the aerial races except those for carrying weight, and they may be even then.

Their Knot Not a Slip Noose.

Trial marriage of a new sort has just been tried over in New Jersey. The cautious pair, having, apparently, a lingering regard for the established conventions, began their test in the orthodox way by going before a minister and allowing him to tie them together hard and fast. Before doing that, however, they drew up and signed a little contract of their own, under which each permitted the other to go his or her way alone if after six months he or she decided that further association was undesirable.

The six months are up, now, and the man wants to exercise his option—in other words, to quit. The woman, on her part, is not only content with things as they are, but she is determined to hold her husband by the tie that binds instead of loosing him in accordance with the liberating agreement.

Of course the contract is of no avail as against the marriage ceremony, and the husband will not get away as easily as he hopes. If the wife doesn't find a reason—and an inclination—to divorce him he is probably a prisoner for life.

THRIFT.

Further Discussion of Important Problem of Household Economy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every once in a while I am highly amused at the facts and figures published in different home journals and newspapers, purporting to be "house accounts." The first one of this kind I recall allowed the large sum of 23 cents per month for cocoa, chocolate, &c., and as I was then accustomed to eat this quantity at one sitting—if I could get it—it resulted in making me a close student of this particular brand of literature. If you want to publish them, here are some monthly figures which are figures, and cannot be disproved, as they are found in our little dog-eared account book, and are not figments of any one's imagination. I pay $20 rent for a very comfortable flat, with plenty of green grass, trees, and fresh air thrown in, which is situated in the Jamaica district. Commutation costs $7.05 to Thirty-fourth Street, and no New York carfare is necessary. Luncheons in New York $5, and sundries, such as newspapers, &c., $3 per month. The balance of what I consider fixed charges are: Table, 4 1-3 weeks, at $6.50 per week, $28.17; coal, $2; gas, $2; laundry, $5; ice, 87 cents, making a grand total of $73.09. We will take $6.91 for the amount which is bound to take wings during the month without any one being able to stop its doing so, and this will bring it up to an even total of $80. Out of a salary of $100 per month we have remaining $20 for clothes, entertainments, insurance, &c., and if any one thinks this is too much, we don't. In explanation of the above items I must say that we do not burn furnace coal all Summer, nor buy ice all Winter, but have taken the year's total for these items and divided them by 12. In view of a letter recently published by "Catherine S.," I would like to remark that one-third of $28.17 goes to the Beef Trust. The only way it is practicable to set a table for two for $20 per month here is to reduce the meat bill to "Catherine S.'s" figure of $1.50! My wife is an excellent manager, we do not by any means "live high," and its costs us $28.17. Furthermore, to the faint heart who was bleating in a recent evening paper to know whether he could support a wife on $35 per week, would say that, with his salary and my nerve, I could support two!

P. S.—One is enough, however.

PLAIN FACTS.

Woodhaven, Sept. 15, 1909.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Economy most mysterious!" you exclaim when a correspondent declares that she and her husband live well on $20 a month. Yes, mysterious to one who has a fool for a housekeeper, but not mysterious at all to those not so singularly well mated.

I do not guess, I know, that $20 a month for the food of two adults is comparative extravagance and waste. No man eats better food than I do. It is the best procurable. The material for it costs me 20 cents a day, generally less. True, I drink no tea, coffee, or other decoction from drugs, and no alcoholic slop, and use no milk, the food of babes and pigs. Now, if you are good at figures you can calculate how much 30 times 20 cents amounts to.

Another thing. You have "an impression that vegetables are not cheap nowadays." Listen again. Most vegetables were never cheaper than they are now, or recently have been, viz., big cabbages, 5 cents a head; string beans, 5 cents a quart; beets, 1 cent a bunch; tomatoes, 5 cents a quart, indeed, those of good quality are so plenty that they can hardly be given away; onions, 5 cents a quart; potatoes, from 1½ to 2 cents a pound. And so on. Fruit is plenty and quite reasonable in price. Delicious peaches at 10 cents a quart are not out of reach of even people with slender purses, and grapes promise an enormous yield of good quality at the usual price.

Permit me to impart a secret to you. Buy your butter by the tub, when the best can be had for 25 cents a pound, and your cereals in bulk, and save from 50 to 100 per cent. by so doing. Likewise bake your own bread. Pay down for your meats, and hence be in a situation to buy wherever you can do best.

BACK TO NATURE.

A Country Club Where City Men May Study Floriculture.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The time is here when business men of the city must take up some hobby to relieve the mental strain which their various callings demand of them. Newspapers are recording too many breakdowns and untimely deaths. Men must keep closer to nature, and thereby find both pleasure and health.

Gardening and floriculture are the grandest relief from mental fatigue. They are not a fad, but a lasting work, perennial, and the effect of one's labor passes on to the next generation. The world is made more beautiful.

I knew a wealthy manufacturer who made a hobby of geraniums. He had a large greenhouse for the double variety and another for the single. These he gathered from all quarters of the globe, and the colors and varieties were a revelation to any ordinary gardener. To get full pleasure and benefit from such pastime a man must do all the work himself, for the interest will wane if dependent on others.

City men have little opportunity for taking advantage of my suggestion, so I will picture, as well as I can, a plan that will overcome present obstacles.

As a correlation of a city club, have near the city, in the suburbs somewhere, a park of considerable size. In the centre a clubhouse, a well-appointed country club. Adjacent to it, greenhouses and the paraphernalia of a country estate. The park divided into plots of 100x40. This area is sufficient to grow nearly everything from "A" to "Z" in a catalogue, and the surplus flowers could bedeck one's home, and also make a delightful gift to one's acquaintances. A rental of $50 a year per plot, besides club dues, should maintain such a place, it seems to me. I am sure it would be appreciated as a resort for retired business men; men past middle age and those needing relaxation. Indeed, the clubhouse and greenhouses would occupy one's time in Winter and in inclement weather. Preferable by far to a stuffy club in town.

We won't dub it a "Burbank club," but rather more appropriately, "The Carman Club," after the late Elbert S. Carman, one of the most charming characters about New York. As the late Secretary of State, John Hay, said of him, "He had that same charm of character when we were boys at school together." Born in affluence, he spent his whole life in improving plants, fruits, and flowers, his work initiating the first Government agricultural experiment work in this country, and whose name is borne in all the catalogues of seedsmen and florists throughout the whole world. What Is Great Britain?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Great Britain" is England, Scotland, Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands.

With Ireland, these constitute the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Peary's great story from Battle Harbor is of such universal interest that perhaps you will allow me to point out some slight errors in transmission which figure in this morning's account: On the first page in the first column "Three Voort Island" and "Cape Durville," should be "Brevoort Island," (it is close to Cape Sabine, near where eighteen of the Greely expedition perished,) and "Cape d'Urville," (named after Dumont d'Urville, the French polar explorer.) In the first line of the second column "southward" must stand for "northward," as Cape Union (Grant Land) is some thirty-five miles almost due north of Cape Lupton, (Greenland.) Further down the column "Cape Joseph Henley" stands for "Cape Joseph Henry." Cape Joseph Henry should not be misspelled; it is one of the greatest of arctic landmarks, both actually and historically. It was first seen on the morning of Aug. 31, 1871, by C. F. Hall, Commander U. S. S. Polaris, bearing forty-six miles northwest at the time that steamer reached its furthest north, and the furthest north that any vessel had so far attained, (82° 11';) it was the most northern land seen by Hall, who died less than three months later. Lieut. Aldrich of the Nares expedition reached a point on land, two miles south of the cape, (82° 48',) on Sept. 27, 1875, and it was on this occasion that Cape Columbia, the most northern point of Grant Land, (83° 7',) and the point where Peary turned northward and returned to, was first seen by man; a week later (Oct. 4, 1875,) Cape Joseph Henry was reached for the first time, by Markham, (also of the Nares expedition.) It was opposite this cape that Markham's famous sledge expedition of April-June, 1876, left the shelter of the land on its way north. This position is 82° 50' north, 68° 35' west. "Which I had for my Winter quarters" should read "which I had intended for my Winter quarters." In the third column occurs the sentence "I went * * * across the field and Parr Bay and the peninsula, made the circuit of Clemants Markham Inlet." A glance at the map will show that this garbled sentence is meant to read "I went across the Feilden and Parry Peninsulas." These are the two peninsulas which intervened between the Roosevelt and Clements Markham Inlet, (not Clemants,) and the words "field and" undoubtedly stand for "Feilden." As to Parr Bay, there is a Parr Bay many miles to the northwest, (it is mentioned later in Peary's dispatch,) but even Peary couldn't have gone there and back and made a circuit of Clements Markham Inlet in the seven days referred to. Parry Peninsula, which lies between 82° 45' and 82° 54' north, was named after Parry on the day of his record, (82° 45' 30",) which had stood forty-eight years as the world's record, and was beaten by Aldrich, on the occasion above referred to, (Sept. 27, 1875;) it lies in the same latitude as that reached by Parry, but on the other side of the world.

The word "moderation," lower down, stands, no doubt, for "modification" or "alteration."

The errors made by wireless transmission can usually be corrected by "reading between the lines," as they do not bear on more than one or two consecutive words.

GEORGE F. CAMPBELL WOOD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That a human life is risked at every performance of "The Bridge," now playing at the Majestic Theatre, is the protest contained in a letter published in THE TIMES this morning. As the author of the play, perhaps you will permit me a word of explanation.

It is dangerous, of course, for there is no way to hoist a man forty or fifty feet over empty space without danger. But every precaution is taken, and the girder is not "flimsy," as your correspondent suggests. I have never seen so substantial a production as this.

Mr. John Arthur, who plays the Bohemian laborer, lonely for his wife and child, and who is hoisted aloft, singing one of his native melodies, would be heartbroken if the incident were omitted.

Since the incident is necessary to truth, since it seems to thrill the gaping audiences to loud applause, and since the actor is willing to take the risk, I think that your correspondent has no cause for complaint.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Hudson-Fulton Committee has sent agents to Baltimore and Philadelphia to hire bands, while we have in our own town of New York City bands as good as any that can be had in either of these cities. Simply because we unfortunately enlisted in the National Guard we were informed that our services were not required. The information was sent to the Ninth Regiment Band that they would not be hired on account of their being enlisted men. Are we blacklisted because we are enlisted?

NATURE'S PRODIGALS.

He is gettin' back to Nature after thirty years away,
He forgot about his stomach till it went upon a strike,
An' he's humped an' bent over, sort o' sour an' peevish-like;
He ain't had no rest, I reckon, for a score o' years an' ten,
He's been diggin', diggin', diggin', with a day off now an' then;
He's been starvin' every longin' of his heart an' soul in town,
An' he's gettin' back to Nature when his works is nigh run down.

He can write his check for thousands, an' they'll cash it too, all right,
But there ain't no bank will cash it when it's drawn on appetite;
He's got dignities an' honors, an' he's stored a sight o' wealth,
He's got stocks an' bonds an' titles, an' most everything but health,
An' he found out when he lost it that he held it mighty cheap,
For he'd give a thousand dollars for a night o' restful sleep.

He is gettin' back to Nature, but I wonder what he'll say
When she asks him for th' treasures that he's wasted by the way;
For she gave him every blessin' that a mortal man should get,
An' he traded 'em for money an' he's got th' money yet,
But he can't buy nothin' with it that he really wants to buy,
An' th' price he paid for riches, it was purty middlin' high;
So he's gettin, back to Nature, in his lifetime's dusk an' gloam,

Bringin' bribes of hard-earned money to exchange for restful days;
Bringin' wealth t' trade for hunger, but th' tradin's mighty light,
For there ain't no open market t' buy sleep an' appetite.
They are gettin' back to Nature, but she's closed an' barred th' gate,
Where she wished 'em well an' left 'em—they are gettin' back too late,

FEDERAL USURPATION A PERIL, SAYS MAYOR

OUT FOR STATES' RIGHTS

In Talk at Wyoming County Fair Declares Tendency Toward Centralization Is Source of Danger.

WARSAW, N. Y., Sept. 15.—"If State sovereignty is to become a joke and State government a memory, let the Constitution be amended openly, in the broad light of day, and not violated in the dark," said Mayor McClellan in an address here to-day. Speaking at the Wyoming County Fair, Mr. McClellan vigorously upheld the Democratic doctrine of States' rights, and assailed what he characterized as encroachment on these rights by the Federal Government.

"One of the most serious dangers of the day," said Mayor McClellan, "is a very general disposition not to construe the Constitution loosely or strictly, but not to consider it at all. There is a disposition to regard it as no more fundamental than any other law, to think of it as an existing convenience which has outlived its usefulness and which may be 'got around' by any possible sharp practic. Congress and Legislatures have lately enacted laws that were of doubtful and sometimes of even admitted unconstitutionality, with the avowed hope that the members of the Supreme Court, realizing the excellent purpose of the framers of the legislation, would forget their oaths of office and cover it with the Constitution stretched beyond recognition. Parties have declared for propositions already held unconstitutional, with the open intention that if successful the Supreme Court would be reorganized for the purpose of reversing itself in the interests of the favored scheme. High officials have openly censured the courts for declaring unconstitutional their pet projects for perfection. Other high officials have been known to force through the legislative branch of the Government, measures which they knew were unconstitutional, and which were subsequently held to be so, for the purpose of discrediting a political opponent.

"It is as unlawful for the National Government to encroach upon the rights of the States as it would be for the States to encroach upon the rights of the Nation. And yet this is exactly what Congress is doing. And the reason that Congress is doing so is that the people of the States through indifference are willing that the States should slowly but surely be deprived of their power.

"The Government of the United States is a democratic Federal Republic. If the people of the States in cold blood and calm reason wish to change our Government from a Federal Republic to a centralized republic like France or England, well and good; they have the power.

"But the danger to our form of Government is that, little by little, we shall become more and more centralized; that very slowly, very gradually, almost imperceptibly, first one power and then another will be taken from the States.

"As we are the greatest and the most powerful of the States, it is our duty to resist to the utmost the furthest curtailment of our powers. It is our duty to preserve inviolate the spirit of conservatism which has always actuated us in the past.

"There is nothing so sacred about the Constitution that precludes the advocacy of its amendment. But where such amendment is desired it should be frankly faced and not dodged. If the States are to be reuced to the position of provinces, if our whole scheme and system of Government is to be changed, if we are to be ruled from Washington in all our local and every-day affairs, if the inter-State commerce power of the Constitution is to be used to regulate not only corporations but persons who may or may not actually do an inter-State commerce business, if the power of taxation is to be used to pry into the affairs of every domestic corporation; if, in short, State sovereignty is to become a joke and State government a memory, let the Constitution be amended openly in the broad light of day, and not violated in the dark."

Mr. McClellan reached Rochester at 1:38 o'clock this morning from Syracuse, where he spoke yesterday at the State Fair. He was a guest of the Genesee Valley Club of Rochester this morning. Thomas W. Finucane, Democratic State Committeeman, brought Mayor McClellan to Warsaw in his automobile. He returned to Rochester to-night, and a reception was held at the Powers Hotel there for him.

CLEANING UP JUSTICE.

The City Hall's Statue Is Getting Its First Cleaning in Years.

Two steeplejacks were busy yesterday giving the statue and the clock on the tower of the City Hall their first bath in years. By night the dial of the clock and the robed figure had grown several shades lighter.

Janitor Ryan, when asked about the innovation, declared that the cleaning process will be extended throughout the Hall.

"You see Marty Keese was a sick man for a long time before he died," said he. "We are on the job, that's all."

HARRIMAN'S FATHER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the magazine section of your paper of Sunday I noticed a picture of St. John's Church, of which the Rev. Orlando Harriman, father of the late E. H. Harriman, was rector from May 7, 1859, until Oct. 16, 1868. At the same time he was rector of Trinity Church, Claremont. At that time this was a farming community, and the church had to struggle for an existence. Mr. Harriman was offered the princely salary of $200 per annum. At the time of his resignation the salary was $874 in arrears. The claim was compromised, and it must be acknowledged not to the credit of the church, for $250.

The old wooden church was torn down in 1901, being replaced by the present stone structure at the corner of Palisade Avenue and Charles Street, near the terminus of the new viaduct from Hoboken. When Mr. Harriman was rector there could not have been more than 30 communicants. The last report showed that there were 602 on the rolls.

It is most probable that E. H. Harriman, as a boy, roamed over the fields which have since been covered with dwelling houses, factories, and business blocks.

Last year I tried to get for the new vestry room of the church as many portraits as possible of the former rectors of the church. I succeeded in obtaining among others the portrait of the Rev. E. T. Wright, a retired Chaplain of the United States Army. Mr. Wright was the immediate predecessor of Mr. Harriman. I had an interesting correspondence with this venerable gentleman, but no one was left here who remembered him. This is also probably true in regard to Mr. Harriman. In conclusion I may add that I have been trying to secure his portrait, but I have been unsuccessful in doing so. I should be glad if any one could give me information or help to this end.

WATSON HORSES WIN SIX BLUE RIBBONS

HARRIMAN HORSES OUT

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—C. W. Watson, the international horse show exhibitor, carried off the honors to-day at the sixteenth annual exhibition of the Westchester County Horse Show. The horses from the Fairmont Farms made practically a clean sweep in all the harness classes, capturing six blue ribbons. Fresh from their victory at the Newport show the Watson horses showed to splendid advantage, displaying all the best qualities necessary in harness horses. Not a little of the success was due to the splendid driving of Mrs. C. W. Watson, whose work handling the reins called forth loud commendations. In direct contrast to the Watson success was the defeat of the horses entered by Alfred G. Vanderbilt. The best of the latter's stable are being exhibited at Syracuse, but those shown by Oakland Farms did not impress the experts. It is expected that Mr. Vanderbilt will bring several of his best horses here later in the week, when a battle royal between two of the best stables of show horses in the country is expected.

The absence of the horses of the Avondale Stable was a big disappointment. All the entries were withdrawn owing to the death of Edward H. Harriman, the uncle of Joseph W. Harriman, owner of the Avondale Stable. Mr. Harriman's horses have in the past been very successful at the White Plains show and keen competition has been the result. Even with this disappointment there was an unusually good day's sport on the tan bark. R. F. McGrann, owner of the Grand View Farms of Lancaster, Penn., engaged ten stalls, but at the last moment was compelled to cancel the reservation.

Andrew Morison, whose saddle horses are becoming an important factor in their respective classes, won two blues by well-merited victories, and Emil Seelig of New York was another doubleheader.

C. W. Watson began the day's judging by capturing the blue ribbon for pairs of novice harness horses, 15 hands and over. The Fairmont Farms entry was the imported pair, Gongelt and Gangelt. They have plenty of substance and quality with good knee action, and will be a hard pair to beat next year. Dewitt C. Flanagan secured second prize with Kentucky and Bas Blancs. J. Campbell Thompson's pair did not show to advantage, although the horses would have made a hard fight for first had they settled down to work. Mr. Watson's Delham O. K. had a walk-over in the class for ponies in harness, with J. W. Harriman's Lady Eccles and Dainty Eccles withdrawn.

Emil Seelig's Midget scored a surprising victory over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Midget. The class was for harness horses, 15.1 hands and under. Twenty saddle horses faced the judges, and considerable delay was the result. F. M. Warburg's American Queen was selected for the blue ribbon, with Miss A. Anthony's St. Valentine a good second. Mr. Watson captured first and second prizes in the heavy harness horse class with Gangelt and Gongeit, respectively. J. Campbell Thompson's The Councillor is a splendid horse, but acted badly throughout the judging.

Nearly two hours were consumed in the jumping class, in which twenty-five horses competed. After a keen competition the first award went to Noiseless, ridden by J. E. Davis, which fenced admirably. Pontiac Stable's Sky Pilot was second. Andrew Morrison's Sonia scored a well-merited victory in the saddle horse class for horses between 15 and 15.2 hands, defeating a high-class lot of horses.

There was little doubt as to the winner of the Harriman Cup for the best ighorse. Mrs. C. W. Watson drove her favorite Lord Baltimore, which easily outclassed a big entry list. Emil Seelig's Duchess was hard put to in capturing the second ribbon from J. Campbell Thompson's Sensation. Harry Toplitz's Speedway pair, Judge Boardman and Graeme Gratton, won over two competing pairs in the class for pairs of roadsters.

Emil Seelig's Midget won the runabout class, scoring the second victory of the day. Harvey Ladew's Pattie Pembroke was on her best behavior and showed to advantage against Mrs. Morehead Patterson's Caroline, winning the premier award. Mrs. C. W. Watson drove Kitty Grey and Norena in the tandem class, but Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Madge and The Duke failed to put in an appearance and Mrs. Watson had a walkover.

Andrew Morison's Sonia made a splendid showing in the combination class and won over one of the hardest aggregation of entrants of the day. J. E. Davis's Vesta Tilley was second. The closing class of the day was keenly contested. C. W. Watson showed Virginia and Lady Baltimore, but J. Campbell Thompson, with Sensation and Emperor, gave the Fairmont Stable pair a hard fight. It was a close thing, and the judges required nearly half an hour to select the Watson entry for the first prize. The summaries:

CEDARHURST DOG SHOW.

Mrs. Tyler Morse's Old English Sheepdog Captures Many Prizes.

Special to The New York Times.

LAWRENCE, L. I., Sept. 15.—Society from all parts of Long Island attended the fifth annual dog show of the Cedarhurst Kennel Club to-day. It was one of the best of the Summer open-air shows and attracted nearly 500 entries. Dog fanciers from many of the Eastern cities showed their pets, and a number of newly imported canines from Europe were exhibited in competition with domestic breeds. Mrs. Tyler Morse of Boston again made a clean sweep of all the classes for old English sheep dogs with Shepton Hero, and in addition captured the cup for the best dog of any breed in the show. Shepton Hero, before being imported, won seven championships in England, and since being exhibited in this country has won in his class.

In the spaniel and toy classes the exhibits were well matched, and the judges were kept busy awarding the ribbons. Mrs. Paul A. Sorg's champion Tai Gan made an excellent showing in the Pekinese spaniel classes. The summaries:

ITALIAN SINGERS GIVE TWO OPERAS

SIGNOR BATTAINI POPULAR

CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA.

Santuzza	Signora Viliani
Lola	Miss Fox
Lucia	Signora Tanfani
Turiddu	Signor Battaini
Alfio	Signor Caronna

Conductor, Signor Jacchia.

PAGLIACCI.

Nedda	Signora Adaberto
Canio	Signor Battaini
Tonio	Signor Caronna
Silvio	Signor Vieri
Peppe	Signor Maini

Conductor, Signor Angelini.

The Italian Grand Opera Company took a fling at the "veristic" school of opera last night at the Academy of Music, producing that perennial double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci." The theatre was very well filled, and there was more enthusiasm than there has been at any performance since the first one of "Aida." Applause thundered through the theatre at all opportune and some inopportune moments. This sometimes had a bad effect upon the "verism" of the "veristic" operas, as when the tenor of "Cavalleria" came back to bow before he went away to be killed.

The performances, on the whole, were highly creditable, considering the prices at which they were offered and the conditions under which they were given. And the audience was evidently more than pleased from beginning to end.

The principal tenor and baritone rôles were sung by the same men in both operas, and this had the effect of making them more or less careful of their voices in "Cavalleria." Signor Caronna, therefore, was not awarded any enthusiasm after his air in the first opera, but he was obliged to repeat his part in the prologue of "Pagliacci," in which he used all his lung power. He evidently is a useful baritone, as he had sung the father in "Traviata" the night before and will sing Marcello in "La Bohème" to-night.

In Signor Battaini the management seems to have discovered a tenor who, in popular favor at least, is a rival of Signor Zerola, whose successful first night seems to have had the effect of silencing him. Of course Signor Battaini had to repeat the "Vesti la Giubba" air, and he was glad to. He, too, had saved all his lung power for this occasion, although, as has been suggested, one of his high notes in "Cavalleria" halted the action of the opera at a critical moment while he came back to bow.

Signora Viliani sang the rôle of Santuzza, and was quite good enough to satisfy the audience. She has an appealing sort of Italian beauty, and was not ineffective in the part. Miss Fox was the Lola. This American singer has a contralto voice and a lyric soprano temperament. It was difficult to conceive her as the heartless Lola.

So far Signora Adaberto has not proved a member of which the company can be proud. She was hopelessly miscast as Nedda. Signor Jacchia conducted "Cavalleria," and again showed that he is a conductor of much merit. Signor Angelini waved the baton over "Pagliacci."

'THE GREAT DIVIDE' IN LONDON

American Play Enthusiastically Received—Henry Miller Makes Speech.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Charles Frohman's presentation of "The Great Divide," with Henry Miller and Edith Wynne-Matthison in the chief rôles, at the Adelphi Theatre, to-night was received with unstinted applause by an audience in which there was a good sprinkling of Americans. Henry Miller made a brief speech in which he expressed his heartfelt thanks for the reception given him on returning to his native land after thirty years of toil and perseverance.

London critics agree that the play has certain stirring features which make a deep appeal, and, though the psychology of the third act is rather crude, the play seems to have a fair chance of obtaining a place in the comparatively small list of American successes in London.

NORA BAYES IS ENJOINED.

She May Not Appear at Present Under Any but Ziegfeld's Management.

Supreme Court Justice Amend granted yesterday the injunction asked for by Florence Ziegfeld, Jr., the theatrical manager, restraining Nora Bayes, the actress, and her husband, Jack Norworth, from playing under any other management than that of Mr. Ziegfeld, pending a final hearing on the issues involved.

Mr. Ziegfeld alleged that he had a contract with the two players to appear in "The Follies of 1909" at a salary of $800 a week, and that Miss Bayes was to be featured, but that both left the company and have been appearing elsewhere.

Miss Bayes and Norworth replied that the former had an attack of nervous prostration because the waiters were permitted to vend their goods on the roof garden, and certain lights were not turned down during her songs.

Ziegfeld's counsel replied that nervous prostration did not prevent Miss Bayes from attending the races and indulging in late suppers.

MISS VERA GILBERT ENGAGED.

Prospective Bride of Randolph R. Santini Joins the Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierrepont H. Gilbert announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Vera P. Gilbert, to Randolph Rogers Santini of Rome and New York. The engagement has been rumored all Summer. Miss Gilbert made her début three years ago. The Gilbert town residence is at 33 Riverside Drive and their villa at Newport at Ochre Point.

This Summer, since her engagement, Miss Gilbert has given up her membership in the Episcopal Church and has become a Roman Catholic, which is the faith of her fiancé and his family in Rome.

Randolph Rogers Santini is the son of Comm. Pio Santini, a Roman Senator and Police Commissioner under Prince Prospero Colonna for many years, until the defeat of the Royalist Catholic Party last year by the Socialists. The Santini family is an old Italian house, a branch of the Santinis of Milan, who are now extinct, and who have been distinguished in Italian history since the sixteenth century.

Mr. Santini's mother is an American. She is the daughter of the late Randolph Rogers, the sculptor, who was a friend of Hawthorne and who is mentioned in the introduction of the novel "The Marble Faun" as the artist who inspired the story. Among his works in America are the bronze doors of the Capitol in Washington and the statue of William H. Seward, in Madison Square, in this city.

Mr. Santini has been in this country about four years.

WEDGWOOD POTTERY EXHIBIT.

Collections of Lord Tweedmouth and Sir Arthur Sanderson for Duveens.

The largest collection of original Wedgwood pottery in existence will, according to a statement made at the offices of the Duveen Brothers yesterday, be placed on exhibition at the Duveen Galleries, 302 Fifth Avenue, on Oct. 1.

The exhibition consists of the combined collections of Lord Tweedmouth, ex-Premier of the Radical Cabinet, who died in London yesterday, and Sir Arthur Sanderson. The two collections were purchased from the two well-known English collectors by Ben Duveen this Summer at the same time that other members of his firm were negotiating for the Maurice Kann collection of paintings in France.

The combined collection which the Duveens will exhibit and sell here consists of more than 463 original plaques, vases, ewers, candlesticks, medallion portraits, and busts, all in unimitable colored jasper, and all designed, "thrown," and "turned" by Josiah Wedgwood himself and by Flaxman, Bentley, Lady Templeton, and the other members of the small but remarkable group of pottery artists which the historic earthenware inventor attracted about his little Staffordshire factory between 1770 and 1795.

The collections of Sanderson and Tweedmouth were gathered piece by piece by the two Englishmen's agents all over Europe. One vase was made for George IV., when he was Prince of Wales, and remained for a long time in his possession. Another vase was found by Lord Tweedmouth's agent in the possession of Prince Galitzen of Russia. Others were obtained by the Englishmen's agents from the Vize, T. S. Walker, and De Falbe collections, and still other individual pieces were found in dismantled English country homes. One of the feature pieces in the collection is one of Wedgwood's original fifty copies of the Portland vase, only sixteen of which are now extant.

Interesting to Americans is a medallion portrait of George Washington. The portrait is in white relief of black jasper, and is said to be the only specimen of Wedgwood in these colors known. The likeness was made from a French medallion which was in the possession of Mr. Snowden, and the details of which were worked out by Wedgwood's assistant, Flaxman. The Duveens' whole collection consists of 73 vases, 74 plaques, 215 medallions, 12 small statuettes, and 89 miscellaneous ornaments.

John Addison Cammack.

John Addison Cammack, a nephew of the famous Wall Street operator, died yesterday after a short illness at his home, 61 East 177th Street. He was 61 years old and was born in New Orleans, being a descendant of the Cammack family of Louisa Court House, Va. Mr. Cammack was a railroad man all his life, being connected with the accounting department of a number of the larger railroads in the East. He started his railroad career at the age of 18 in the offices of a railroad in Dallas, Texas. He came to New York eighteen years ago and entered the offices of the New York Central, rising to the position of chief accountant. He left that position twelve years ago to become chief accountant of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, retaining that position for several years. He is survived by six children, Marion, Russell T., Harold, Arthur C., Mrs. George S. Pierson, and Miss Florence Cammack.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A cablegram received here to-day from Consul Wallace at Jerusalem announces the death in that city of Mrs. Angeline E. Newman, widow of Bishop John P. Newman, who was one of the widely known leaders in the Methodist Episcopal Church. After her husband's death, ten years ago, Mrs. Newman became deeply interested in foreign missionary work, and two years ago went to Jerusalem to organize a school for kindergarten missionary work there. Although 80 years old, she had been actively engaged in this effort until recently. Mrs. Newman was born in Stillwater, N. Y., Feb. 13, 1829.

Obituary Notes.

Father GEORGE ARETANDER, pastor of St. Andrew's Catholic Church, St. Paul, Minn., died at his home there yesterday morning. His death was due to a form of paralysis. Some of his parishioners consider him a martyr to duty, as they believe he contracted the disease attending to the spiritual wants of members of his congregation who had been stricken.

LEONARD DE BROWN died at his home, 11 Sherman Street, Passaic, N. J., yesterday. He was 86 years old. He came to Passaic from Holland nearly fifty years ago, and remembered when every house in what is now Passaic could be seen from the present City Hall site, and could be counted on the fingers of one's hands. Three daughters and a son survive him.

WALTER L. MORGAN, formerly connected with the United States Navy at Newport, R. I., died yesterday at his home, 328A Marion Street, Brooklyn, in the 25th year of his age. Mr. Morgan was the only son of John K. Morgan, veteran of Company C, Fourteenth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., and of the William H. Hubbell Camp, No. 4, United Spanish War Veterans.

TURKISH BATH PARTY FOR W. B. HURLBURT

He and Other Guests Led Blindfolded Through Plunge, Fully Dressed.

THEN BRANDED AND DINED

Odd Celebration of His Recovery After Auto Accident—Rock He Landed on Presented to Him.

To be catapulted from a racing car going at full speed, and land on a rock in a river bed is not a great deal of fun. But William B. Hurlburt, New York manager of an automobile company, to whom this happened, celebrated it with his friends in this way.

They were all blindfolded and hustled into automobiles, driven to a Turkish bath, led still blindfolded through the hot room, the steam room, and then through the pool, with water up to their necks, stripped of their drenched clothing, branded on their bare backs with a rubber stamp, and—then they were dined.

Mr. Hurlburt's only consolation seemed to be that his friends shared the same treatment as he. When it was all over the diners presented to him the same stone on which he landed three months ago. With it went a lot of speeches, mostly congratulatory, and he was generally made to feel that his friends were fond of him.

Most any one who saw the half dozen automobile loads of blindfolded men slowly wending their way through the crowded streets just before theatre time last night from the Hotel Gainsborough on West Thirty-fourth Street to the baths in West Forty-second Street would have thought that some college students were initiating a group of freshmen. Mr. Hurlburt, "Billy" Hurlburt, as his friends call him, had not been told what was to happen. In fact most of his friends who were to give him the dinner were unaware of the full programme. All the details had been left to "Tom" Moore, General Manager of the Motor Racing Association.

It should be explained that about three months ago Mr. Hurlburt, while speeding his machine along the city line, was thrown over a stone bridge and landed in Byram River on a large piece of granite. He was fished out and for several weeks lay on his back while his physicians and friends wondered if he would pull through. His remarkable physique stood the test, and he is now none the worse for the experience.

Mr. Hurlburt's friends in anticipation of the event last night, got the stone on which Mr. Hurlburt landed, had a handsome bronze tablet placed upon it bearing the following inscription and verse:

Here rests peacefully upon the floor
High his ascent and great his fall,
But we have the stone, our Bill and all.

We have gathered this propitious night
To commemorate the Flyer's flight.
When onward and upward Hurlburt flew;
How high he went he never knew.
"I hope," said Bill, "when I have to stop,
I will just drop down on a nice, soft spot."
So he chose this rock as a stopping place
And is ready to fly another race.

Those who went through the preliminary ordeal last night and who sat down to dine with "Bill" were:

REV. DR. P. A. H. BROWN DEAD.

Known as "Fighting Vicar" of St. John's Chapel in Varick Street.

The Rev. Dr. Philip Auld Harrison Brown, vicar of St. John's Chapel, and widely known as "The Fighting Vicar," died yesterday near Cooperstown after a short illness. Dr. Brown was for many years identified with the Trinity Parish Chapel and was a conspicuous defender of the integrity of the little church on Varick Street.

When the move was made by the Vestry of Trinity Church to discontinue St. John's Chapel a few months ago Dr. Brown defied them. He rallied to his side many powerful allies and contested the scheme to do away with St. John's. Those who worshipped at St. John's were very fond of their vicar and they encouraged him in his opposition to the Vestry of Trinity. Although the fight was lost and St. John's was discontinued, the fight was bitter at times. But Dr. Brown and his allies were opposed by forces which they could not control.

Dr. Brown became identified with St. John's when the Rev. Dr. Sullivan H. Weston and William E. Cook were in the parish. He came then from Cooperstown, where he had been rector of Christ Church. It was there he chose to spend the remaining days of his life after the discontinuance of St. John's. In January, 1900, Dr. Brown celebrated his twen

"My Son Having Failed Completely in his preliminary examinations for college, entered your school, and in one year he covered two regular school years of work as is done at most schools, and not only passed his examinations easily for college, but also with credit to himself and his school."

This extract of a letter from the mother of a recent student is one of a hundred or more, valued by Mr. Groff, showing the high grade of success he has had for twelve years.

THE GROFF SCHOOL

is ideal and exceptional as a boarding and day school.

If a boy is bright and wishes to make rapid progress he is not held back by reason of any other boy, or by the old "grade system." If he is timid or nervous, he is encouraged; if he is careless, interest in his studies is secured; if he does not know how to apply himself, he is taught. To this individual method of teaching is due the Groff School's wonderful success, and "success is what talks."

A thoroughly up-to-date commercial course for boys who do not desire to go to college.

A most liberal system of athletics, wisely directed.

All work prepared at the school under the direction and assistance of expert teachers, unless home work is preferred. Reopens Sept. 29th. Call on or address the Principal (now at the school), Board Decides That Chocolate Tasting Samples Are Not Undervalued.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday settled a dispute between the Government and F. L. Caller, the chocolate manufacturer of Berne, regarding the values to accrue on importations of so-called "tasting samples."

When the goods reached New York, Appraiser Wanmaker took the position that the samples were undervalued. He accordingly raised prices over the invoiced values and exacted duty on the highest basis. The representative of the foreign exporter appeared before Judge Waite of the General Board and submitted proof that his original prices correctly represented market values prevailing in Switzerland at the time of the exportation of the goods to this country.

Judge Waite finds that the invoiced prices were correctly stated by Mr. Caller. He reverses the Appraiser's action and sustains the original entry.

In a decision by General Appraiser Fischer, the board upholds the local appraiser in advancing values of various linen lace articles exported to this country by Heinrich Hesse of Vienna.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

HERMAN MATZ.—Herman Matz, a setter, of 127 East 114th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,102 and assets of $5, engraving tools, which are exempt.

STEPHEN J. SCHERER.—Judge Holt has appointed Easton L. Bacon receiver in bankruptcy for Stephen J. Scherer, photographer, 1,160 Broadway, with a bond of $500. The furniture and fixtures, valued at $1,000, are in charge of a City Marshal.

ADAM C. DOUGLAS.—Adam C. Douglas, manager of a wine company at Washingtonville, N. Y., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,602 and no actual assets. John A. Douglass of Delhi is a creditor for $1,666 on a note dated Feb. 17, 1896, on which suit has been commenced. The petitioner claims that the note has been paid, and is also barred by the statute of limitations.

CHARLES H. DOBBIN.—Charles H. Dobbin, a clerk, residing at the Hotel Marie Antoinette, Broadway and 67th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $241 and no assets. He has only two creditors, both of Saratoga Springs—Dr. Douglass C. Moriata, $203, medical services between 1890 and 1900, and The Saratogian, $38, subscription between 1885 and 1908.

SARAH BIRNBAUM.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Sarah Birnbaum, dealer in furniture at 3,975 Third Avenue, by these creditors: Isidor Zeldin, $199; Charles Kramer, $143, and Harris Sussman, $265. It was alleged that she was insolvent, and allowed a City Marshal to remove some of the stock on an attachment for $250 in favor of the United States Cabinet Bed Company. Business has been carried on in her name since April, 1906.

POCKER & ORBACH.—Morris Pocker and Hugo Orbach, who compose the firm of Pocker & Orbach, skirt manufacturers at 37 West Nineteenth Street, have filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $9,541 and assets $6,890, consisting of stock, $675; machines and fixtures, $625; salesmen's samples, $182; cash, $8, and accounts, $4,900. Among the creditors are Joseph Marcus, $3,025, secured, and H. Fish & Co., $1,468. Judge Holt appointed Jerome A. Kober receiver. The business was started in July, 1907.

SIMON GINSBURG & BROTHER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Simon Ginsburg & Brother, cloak manufacturers 107 Bleecker Street, show liabilities of $170,476, of which $51,930 is secured, and assets of $26,772. Among the creditors are the Public Bank, $24,000, secured; State Bank, $22,450, secured; F. Vietor & Achells, $5,480, secured; American Woolen Company, $13,000; Max Psaty, $11,500. Simon Ginsburg has individual liabilities of $199,515, mostly on mortgages, and assets consisting of his residence, possibly equity, $25,000; apartment houses corner 141st Street and Lenox Avenue, value $260,000, mortgaged for $190,000, possible equity $70,000, but if sold under present conditions the equities would be wiped out. Harris Ginsburg has individual debts of $935 and as assets his residence, 74 West 114th Street, mortgaged for $13,000, no equity.

JOSEPH M. TOBIAS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Joseph M. Tobias, manufacturer and jobber of cloaks and suits at 72 Fifth Avenue, by James, Schell & Elkus, attorneys for these creditors: C. A. Auffmordt & Co., $300; Samuel Elsman & Co., $800; F. Vietor & Achells, $40. It was alleged that he was insolvent and transferred some of his outstanding accounts. Judge Holt appointed Rufus W. Sprague, Jr., receiver. Mr. Tobias began business in 1892, filed a petition in bankruptcy on Nov. 20, 1899, and compromised with his creditors at 25 cents on the dollar. In July, 1908, he claimed to be worth $52,000. He was reputed to own a house at Far Rockaway, valued at $15,000. He was also proprietor of the Tobias Cloak and Suit Company, a mail order business from manufacturer to consumer. Liabilities are estimated at $35,000 and assets $15,000.

W. E. HOWARD, INCORPORATED.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against W. E. Howard, Incorporated, wholesale and retail baker at 702 Sixth Avenue, by these creditors: Rowland & Co., $930; Malt Diastase Company, $280, and George Schuchman, $428. It was alleged that the corporation was insolvent, on Aug. 5 admitted in writing inability to pay its debts by transferring all its assets to a committee of creditors, of which the petitioners were members, to manage the business, and since then made preferential payments of $584 to three creditors, and removed large quantities of lard. Judge Holt appointed James N. Rosenberg receiver, with authority to continue the business for twenty days on application of Cohen Brothers, who said that the liabilities were $40,000 and assets between $7,000 and $15,000. The corporation supplies hotels and restaurants with bread, rolls, and cakes.

Abrams & Rubin Settlement.

Judge Holt has confirmed a composition of Abrams & Rubin, who did business as the Atlantic Suit Company at 64 East Eleventh Street, at 40 cents on the dollar. When the case came up yesterday one creditor for $1,300 opposed the composition and 106 creditors had accepted it. In order not to hold up the settlement Henry Lesser, attorney for the firm, said he would give a surety bond to pay the claim of $1,300 in full in case the opposing creditor proved his specification of objections, and the Judge concurred in the composition. Liabilities are about $60,000.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Strong and Active—Call Money Rates, 2½@3 Per Cent.

STEEL'S NEW HIGH RECORD

Advance in Corporation's Shares Influences General Market—Taft's Monetary Reform Speech Well Received.

The stock market yesterday was strong in all departments. Advances of from 1 to 3 points were scored by all but a scant half-dozen of the fifty or more really active stocks, and while transactions were heaviest among the railroad shares, yet interest was even greater in the industrials, which, almost without exception, responded to an unusual volume of buying. One of the most suggestive features of the price movement was the relative inactivity and narrow fluctuation of Union Pacific. Where for nearly a month the market has pivoted upon this stock, yesterday, its course was without the least effect upon the trading. It was plain from the character of a considerable part of the day's business that much of the rise was again due to the driving in of belated "shorts." Speculators of this ilk have in the past fortnight received the most costly punishment ever meted out to a contingent of Wall Street traders, and, while their covering purchases have, of course, served to sustain prices and to advance them in many directions, for the time being, yet in a technical sense the market has by this very fact been deprived of an important source of strength. Perhaps the most influential factor yesterday was the heavy buying and advance of United States Steel common into new record levels. For the day the stock rose 2⅝ points upon transactions of above 205,000 shares. Daily reports of the enlarging business of the corporation are so familiar now as to seem monotonous, but it remains to be seen what effect the consequent expansion of the company's earnings is to have upon disbursements to stockholders, and it is, of course, upon the theory of larger dividends that buying of the stock still goes on, even at prevailing prices. It is the prosperity of the Steel Corporation in particular, and the steel and iron trades as a whole, which have brought the industrial section of the market into its present favor with Wall Street. Investigation shows that financial results only little less surprising are being obtained by companies in all lines of trade, and their shares are, therefore, sought. Two other matters of somewhat broader significance had a part in the making of yesterday's market. One of these was the extremely favorable impression created throughout the financial district by Mr. Taft's able championship of sound banking ideas, and especially the central bank, in his Boston speech. From his own and the advocacy of leading bankers throughout the country, it is perhaps not too much to hope for early legislation of the right kind. Again the entrance of a second representative of Morgan & Co. into the board of the City Bank was much discussed, and, while some deductions drawn, such as that concerning the consequences of this happening upon the railroad situation, were wide of the mark, yet too much stress cannot be laid upon it so far as it reflects the marked harmony among the greater banking interests of the city.

Money markets, through quotations for both time and call loans, continue to reflect the situation brought about by last week's reduction of banking surplus, and the losses to the Sub-Treasury so far this week, together with shipments of money to the interior. Quotations for a number of maturities were advanced, and in others former offering prices became to-day's bid prices. Foreign exchange has as yet given no evidence of interest in the hardening money markets, but that it will do so if rates continue to rise is a matter of course.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Steel Again Takes the Lead.

Interest shifted abruptly yesterday from the so-called Harriman stocks to United States Steel, and through Steel to the industrial section of the Stock Exchange. With a little apparent effort the price of Steel common went beyond its previous high level, establishing before the close of the day a substantially better record figure. On the floor this substitution of Steel for Union Pacific as a pivot for the market was liked, since there is almost universal agreement that the situation with respect to the Harriman shares in a trading sense is so confused as to make it a matter of luck rather than judgment if profits accrue from operation in them.

Shortage in Steel Billets?

One of the matters much discussed in the afternoon in connection with the steady rise in Steel was the usual weekly review of the iron and steel trade by a recognized trade authority which put out its editorial yesterday under the caption, "A Shortage in Steel." After noting the fact that steel rail purchases during the week had figured up to about 250,000 tons, it added that a shortage in steel billets was developing, and that the situation had already progressed to a point where tidewater consumers had taken up with importers the question of obtaining supplies abroad, particularly in small sizes.

National City Bank Rumors.

The announcement of the election of J. P. Morgan, Jr., to the Directorate of the National City Bank, while without real significance in view of the fact that the Morgan firm had long held representation in the board, was advanced by some of the dealers in banking stocks yesterday as an explanation of the recent rise in the shares of the National City Bank, which at the first of the month were quoted at 387 bid, and are now selling at 415. What has been probably more potent in influencing this rapid advance are the rumors recently current of an impending increase in the capital of this institution, with the probability in such case of a dividend to shareholders sufficient to cover subscriptions to the new stock. The rumors, however, have been nipped by denials in official quarters that the bank had any such stock increase in view.

Good Times for the Railroads.

The unanimous reports of railroad officials of rapidly increasing business were supplemented yesterday by a word from President Marvin Hughitt of the Chicago & Northwestern, who said that while he did not look for the "superabundance of prosperity that is being freely predicted," he counted on what might be called "good times" on his system this Fall. The Chicago & Northwestern has prepared for large traffic movements by the purchase of between 7,000 and 8,000 freight cars and about 60 additional locomotives.

Recovery in Ice Securities.

The American Ice Company, the operating company of the American Ice Securities Company, has declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the preferred stock, practically all of which is owned by the American Ice Securities Company. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record on Sept. 25. This is the first distribution since the dividend of 9 per cent. was paid in December, 1906. The slump in the stock of the American Ice Securities Company last week, when the price dropped to 21, within 2½ points of the low price of the year, reached in January, was checked a few days ago. Yesterday the stock sold up to 29¼, closing at 28½, which compares with the high record of 42⅝ on April 13.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Daily Trade and Consular Reports for Thursday note the following opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

3,874. TENDERS FOR SOUTHERN SIAMESE STATE RAILWAYS.—Vice Consul General Carl C. Hansen of Bangkok has forwarded copies of specifications for tenders for the supply of tools and other material for the southern line department of the Royal Siamese State Railways. The limited time will not permit of bids from American firms, as the conditions of delivery state that goods must be furnished within fifteen days of acceptance of tenders, but the specifications will serve the purpose of showing the classes of goods required and acquainting firms in the United States with the progress of the work.

3,875. LEATHER ALBUMS AND STEREOSCOPIC ATTACHMENTS.—A letter received from a Boston firm of freight agents and Custom House brokers states that it has an inquiry from London for embossed leather albums and cushion covers, decorated in Indian style. The firm also has a foreign inquiry for stereographic attachments for single-lens cameras to make stereoscopic pictures, and would like to get in touch with houses able to supply the same.

3,876. MACHINERY OF VARIOUS KINDS.—An American Consular officer in Eastern Europe reports that a business man in his district wishes to communicate with American firms that have agencies in Europe and also those which carry stocks of the following machinery: Wood working machinery, equipments for factories making briquettes from sawdust, machinery for reporting feathers from birds killed by means of compressed air, and machinery for the manufacture of fibre from ordinary nettles, (Urtica dioica.)

3,877. MACHINERY FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF NITRATE OF SODA.—An inquiry has been received by an American Consular officer for the names of responsible makers of machinery in the United States for the manufacture of nitrate of soda. The contract would roughly estimate amount in value to about $1,000,000, and the machinery is required for six plants to be installed in Latin America.

3,878. FIBRE IN DIFFERENT COLORS.—A New York business man writes that he has inquiries from Europe for American fibres in different colors and would like to get in touch with American firms in a position to supply the same.

3,879. PAPER MILL MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT.—A report has been received from an American Consular officer in the Far East in which it is stated that a department of the local Government proposes to establish a paper mill at an estimated cost of $250,000. The native mills are very primitive in their equipment and this attempt should prove successful.

3,880. COTTON AND HOSIERY YARNS AND MERCERIZED COTTON YARNS.—A communication has been received from a New York firm of commission merchants advising that one of its foreign clients desires to be put in touch with American manufacturers of cotton and hosiery yarns and mercerized cotton yarns.

3,881. AMERICAN GOODS FOR ITALY.—An American Consul in Italy reports that a business house in his district is anxious to handle the following classes of goods: Animal grease, lard, tallow for making soap and oleomargarine, cotton, cottonseed oil, corn, oats, wheat, blotting paper, brick-making machinery, tools, agricultural implements, lamps, and furniture.

3,882. SHOES AND UPPER LEATHERS.—One of the special agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor reports that a business man in Latin America desires to communicate with American tanners of upper leathers, wishing to extend the same. He also desires to correspond with American shoe manufacturers relative to the establishment of an exclusive American shoe agency and depot.

THE COTTON MARKET

Active Demand Here and Abroad—Closes 15 to 20 Points Up.

Cotton was generally firmer yesterday when a prominent New Orleans operator supposed to be acting for a New York firm, bought fully 50,000 bales, according to report. The close was steady at a net gain of 15@20 points. Liverpool cables showed large English spot sales, and a generally better demand in Manchester.

The market opened firm at an advance of 6@ 13 points. Reports that interior holders pay no attention to dips in futures were a factor.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange broadened out decidedly, seventy-two different issues changing hands during the course of the trading. A very large proportion of the total transactions, approximating 111,620 shares, was, however, in Reading, Union Pacific, and United States Steel common. While the last-named was third in point of volume, it was, however, really the feature of the day. Its strength influenced floor sentiment favorably, many of the professional operators taking it as an excellent index to the trend of the general market. It failed to sell under 79⅝, compared with a New York Stock Exchange low of 79½, and it ruled a fraction above the other board's price practically throughout the day.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Trading in London Continues to Suffer from Poor Business.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Money was in quiet demand on the market to-day, and discounts were firm.

Trading on the Stock Exchange continues to suffer from poor business, the dealings of the public being very small. Consols, gilt-edged securities, and home rails were dull. Mexican rails improved on bear covering. Foreigners hardened, and copper shares were better on the recovery in New York.

American securities opened quiet and slightly higher. Trading during the first hour was limited. At noon the market was quiet, with prices from ¼ to ⅝ higher than yesterday's New York closing. An improved demand raised prices in the afternoon, but later there was a sagging. The receipt of the New York opening caused a betterment again, but values eased slightly at the close.

Money, ⅝@1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills 1½ per cent.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm on advices from New York. The private rate of discount is 1⅝ per cent., an advance of ⅛.

Exchange on London, 25f 14½c for checks.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—There was a firmer tendency on the Boerse to-day. Baltimore & Ohio was higher.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Azor R. Hunt, general Superintendent of the Homestead Works of the Carnegie Steel Company, has been elected a Director of the company, to succeed William H. Singer.

At the annual meeting of the Cuba Railroad Company, officers and Directors were re-elected and resolutions were adopted commending the work done by the company in the past year.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad gives notice that the premium of $27.50 offered on exchange of Hannibal & St. Joseph 6s for the company's general mortgage bonds will be reduced on Oct. 1 to $25 per bond.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Except for an easy and slightly lower opening, the forenoon market yesterday was quite firm, with late months showing the most strength. September was under considerable pressure again both in Chicago and Liverpool, clearing 1½d net lower in the English market. Other deliveries in Liverpool were ¾ to 1¼d net lower. In the afternoon heavy selling of September and large Western receipts destroyed confidence. Their interior receipts amounted to 1,523,000 bushels, compared with 628,000 bushels a week ago, and 1,714,000 bushels at this time last year. Cash demand in the various markets was slow. Advances of ¼d at Berlin and 1c at Budapest were reported. Export business amounted to 12 loads. Cash wheat in New York closed: No. 2 red, $1.00¼ elevator and $1.11⅛ free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.00⅝, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.13⅛ free on board afloat, all nominal.

CORN.—Predictions for frost in Iowa, Illinois, and Nebraska, preceded general steadiness yesterday. Receipts of 230 cars at Chicago were much less than the estimate, but all Western points had about 200,000 bushels more than last year. No. 2 corn in New York closed 70c delivered, and sold at 78c elevator; new No. 2 corn, 66½c free on board afloat, nominal.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Goelet Estate Corner on Fifth Avenue Leased—Elevator Apartment House to Be Built at Eighth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street—Other Dealings.

The property at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, a four-story dwelling, 20 by 100, owned by the Goelet estate, has been leased for a long term. Nothing as to the details of the transaction could be learned yesterday at the Goelet estate offices, but it is understood that the building will be altered for business use by the lessee. The house has not been occupied for several years. Directly opposite, at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, is the residence of Robert Walton Goelet.

Important Eighth Avenue Project.

The D. A. Cushman Realty Corporation, composed of interests representing the estates of Angelica B. Faber, Emilie A. Wilcoxson, and William F. Cushman, owners of the large plot located at southwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, is about to improve that property with an eight-story elevator apartment house with stores on the Eighth Avenue frontage.

This plot has been in the family since 1850, when Don Alonzo Cushman, an old-time dry goods merchant, having an eye to the northward growth of the city, purchased this and adjoining property, then a farm on the outskirts. Up to 1900 this property was used as a coal yard. Then the owners improved it by erecting a two-story "taxpayer."

Schwartz & Gross have prepared the plans for the new apartment house. Purdy & Henderson will look after the iron work, and the contract to erect the building is in the hands of the Edward Corning Company.

George F. Wilcoxson has leased, from the plans, for a long term of years, the entire building to the firm of Louis Cohen & Co., now tenants of the stores in the "taxpayer," who will use the ground floor for their department store and rent the apartments. These will consist of four, five, and six-room suites. This will be the first building of this character erected on Eighth Avenue, south of Fifty-ninth Street.

West Sixty-sixth Street Deal.

Payson McL. Merrill, in conjunction with J. Roberts Walton, has sold for Alexander Smith Cochran 38 West Sixty-sixth Street, a three-story stable, on lot 24.7 by 100.5.

Houses Sold in Various Sections.

Charles S. Kohler has sold for Mrs. Carrie S. Abrams the two four-story brownstone flats 219 and 221 West 104th Street, on plot 50 by 100.11, to L. A. Servatius.

The same broker has also sold for Susan E. Laytin to Kate E. Hume, 124 Manhattan Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on lot 16.8 by 75.

John M. Royall has sold for the Maplesden estate, 21 West 134th Street, a three-story dwelling, 17.10 by 99.11.

Mrs. C. H. Dederer has sold 560 West 113th Street, a four-story dwelling, 19 by 100.11, to C. M. Sherman.

Daniel H. Renton & Son have leased for Estelle Seymour to J. Otto Hunicke for a term of years the three-story dwelling 622 West 147th Street.

McAvoy's Club the Buyer.

The Marcy Association, the Democratic organization of the Twenty-third Assembly District, of which Thomas F. McAvoy is the head, is the purchaser of the three-story building at 507 and 509 West 145th Street, the sale of which through Duff & Brown and John P. Leo, Jr., was reported recently. The club heretofore occupied the upper part of the building at 510 West 145th Street, directly opposite, and will move to its new headquarters after the necessary alterations have been completed.

Plans have been filed for two six-story apartment houses, with stores, to be built on 133d Street, east of Lenox Avenue, by the Newport Realty Company, of which Max J. Klein is President. The houses will cost $50,000. Young & Gronenberg are the architects.

New Building for Branch Post Office.

Post Office Station I, which at present occupies the ground floor of the apartment house at the southwest corner of Columbus Avenue and 105th Street, is to be moved to larger quarters within a few months.

The plot, 100 by 100.11, at 178 to 184 West 102d Street, adjoining Public School 179, near Amsterdam Avenue, has been leased by Horace S. Ely & Co. for Eugene Higgins to the Branch Realty Company for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $100,000. The company will erect on the site a two-story building, the easterly 60 feet of which is to be occupied by the Post Office. The remaining 40 feet will be given over to stores and lofts. Plans for the new building are being drawn by Maximilian Zipkes, and it is expected that the structure will be finished by next December.

Nassau Street Corner Transferred.

The Germania Life Insurance Company yesterday transferred its property at the southeast corner of Nassau and Cedar Streets to the Fourth National Bank.

To Build Near Carnegie Mansion.

Plans have been filed for a new five-story residence to be built at 11 East Ninety-first Street by John B. Trevor from designs by Trowbridge & Livingston. It will be of brick and limestone, and will occupy a frontage of 26 feet. The estimated cost is $75,000.

Leases in Midtown District.

William A. White & Sons have leased for Mrs. C. S. Harper 1 West Forty-sixth Street, adjoining the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue, to Charles Thorley for ten years. The same brokers leased to Mr. Thorley a few months ago the corner building, which is now being altered. The lease of 1 West Forty-sixth Street recorded yesterday shows an annual rental of $5000.

George A. Bowman has leased for Charles Thorley to John M. Adler the six-story building 121 West Forty-second Street for a term of years; also for the James McCreery Realty Company a part of the sixth loft at 112 and 114 West Forty-second Street to Arthur Johnson & Co. for a term of years.

S. B. Goodale & Son have leased for William H. Nelson to J. B. Martin the store and basement 163 West Twenty-ninth Street; also for John E. Olson the second floor in 39 West Twenty-fifth Street; also for Louis Cohen to M. Harris the store 402 Sixth Avenue.

Ludlam Estate Sale To-day.

Herbert A. Sherman will offer to-day in the Vesey Street salesroom twelve properties owned by the Ludlam estate. The sale is to be held in pursuance of a Supreme Court partition decree and will cover the following parcels: 42 Henry Street, 78 Monroe Street, 25 and 27 Pell Street, 455 and 457 West Thirty-third Street, 53 Bayard Street, 15 James Slip, 89 to 93 Park Street, 175 and 177 Worth Street, 36 to 40½ Monroe Street, 139 Cherry Street, and 141 Cherry Street.

Receivers in Foreclosure Suit.

Justice Guy has appointed John V. Coggey receiver of the rents of 307 West 127th Street, a five-story tenement, pending a suit by Rachel Newman against Joseph Ettinger and others to foreclose a second mortgage of $4,500. The prior mortgage is for $19,500.

To Improve Staten Island Plot.

AUTO TOPPLES INTO FIFTH AVENUE HOLE

Mrs. Jeanne La Croix Miscalculates Turn at 35th Street and Runs Into Excavation.

TRUCK HAULS MACHINE OUT

No One Is Hurt and Mrs. La Croix Directs the Salvage—She Takes Blame for the Accident.

A sharp turn, a slight miscalculation on the part of Mrs. Jeanne La Croix, wife of Paul La Croix, Vice President and manager of an automobile agency, and the machine she was driving crashed late yesterday afternoon through the boarding around the excavation at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street. It plunged downward, and, landing in the pit five feet below, hung for an instant in a normal position. Then it turned on its right side, just as the gasoline tank exploded.

In that instant the occupants of the roadster—Mrs. Paul La Croix, another woman, who was sitting beside her, and Henri Gargzon, the chauffeur, who was in the rumble—sprang from their seats, and fortunately escaped without a scratch.

The accident occurred about 6 o'clock, when the thoroughfare was crowded with vehicles and pedestrians, and a big crowd quickly gathered. Policeman James Byrnes of the Traffic Squad ran up, and helped Mrs. La Crox and her companions out of the excavation. The woman with Mrs. La Crox, who would not give her name, was hysterical from the shock and at once hurried home.

Mrs. La Croix after dusting herself off unconcernedly left the chauffeur in charge of the wrecked machine and went to a telephone to summon aid. Several policemen and workmen employed in the excavation tried unavailingly for twenty minutes to lift the machine to the street, and then a large motor truck appeared, and after half an hour's straining managed to pull the automobile out of the hole.

It was towed away for repairs, and Mrs. La Croix, who had superintended the rescue, left with her chauffeur for her home at 273 Central Park West.

The police say that the machine, which is owned by the automobile dealer and carried the license number 83101 N. Y., came down Fifth Avenue at a good pace. Mrs. La Croix was at the steering wheel, and as the car came abreast of Thirty-fifth Street, tried to turn west along that street. Either she miscalculated the turn or lost control of the machine, for an instant later the car and its occupants were in the ditch.

Mrs. La Croix kept her head as the machine turned over, and as soon as she was assured that her two companions were unhurt, took charge of affairs until the machine was raised to the surface of Fifth Avenue. She assumed the entire blame for the accident.

BEQUESTS TO THE BLIND.

Miss Edith Lord Leaves Most of Her Estate to Benefit Them.

Among many bequests to charitable institutions Miss Edith Rebecca Lord, daughter of the late John Taylor Lord, who died at Zehlendorf, Germany, on July 7, in her will filed for probate yesterday, has left large sums in aid of the blind of England. Her entire residuary estate has been devoted to this purpose. She has placed it in the hands of trustees with instructions to found the "Edith and Norman Lord Pensions."

These will amount to 10 shillings a week and are to be paid to as many blind men and women in England as the income will allow. It is, however, laid down that the recipients must have become blind after their twentieth year, must be over 35 years old, and of good character, and must never have begged in the streets or other public places.

Several blind men and women are also remembered by name and receive bequests running from $50 to $500. To Miss Beatrice Taylor is left $2,500, to be used in her discretion for the blind branch of the Sunbeam Mission, and the Trustees of the Gardiner Trust for the Blind in London receive $5,000, the income of which is to provide annually a concert and dinner for 200 blind persons, which is to be known as "The Norman Lord Dinner."

The value of Miss Lord's personal property here is estimated at $300,000. Her nephew, Arthur Perceval Hamilton, receives $25,000; a niece, Miss Kathleen Mary Hamilton, and two other nephews, Hans Patrick and Alan Fisher Hamilton, and Miss Violet Speller, $12,500 each.

Miss Jessie Giles Gammack receives a bequest of $25,000, and $5,000 each is left to Michael Ponsonby of England, a cousin of the testatrix, Cyril Ponsonby, the Hon. Mrs. Cyril Ponsonby, Miss Alice Clarke, Miss Mabel Walker, Miss Mabel Hart, the Princess Marguerite Cantacuzine, Mlle. Madeline Doyen, Fraulein Walter, and Miss Corinne and Miss Nora Neroutsos.

Unnamed Donors Aid Milk Depot Fund

Secretary Wilbur C. Phillips of the New York Milk Committee announced yesterday that the $750 needed to maintain the milk depots at 202 Henry Street and 73 Cannon Street until Oct. 1 had been subscribed. The donors—one of $500, the other of $250—desired that their names be withheld. TOMAHAWKED FROM STAGE.

Coney Island Indian Hurls His Hatchet Into a Waiter's Arm.

The audience in the music hall at Henderson's Walk and the Bowery, Coney Island, watched intently last night as Manuel Rosa, who says he is a full-blooded Apache Indian, gave a stage exhibition of Indian customs, winding up by throwing a tomahawk at a board on which was painted the figure of a man. The accuracy of the Indian excited the admiration and applause of the audience.

The auditorium was packed with men and women of the Mardi Gras crowd, among whom moved a dozen or more waiters, serving drinks and cigars. One of these, Samuel Friedman, who lives on Coney Island, drew near the stage as he walked about among the tables. Those near him heard him cast a jesting remark to the Indian upon the stage.

Instantly Rosa turned from the painted figure at which he was throwing his hatchets and like a flash let fly the weapon he held in his hand. The glittering hatchet hurtled through the air, turning around and around, and buried its head in the fleshy part of Friedman's left arm, between the shoulder and the elbow. The waiter fell to the floor, screaming with pain.

Instantly there was a panic in the audience. Men and women sprang to their feet and rushed for the doorways through which half a dozen policemen were already fighting a way through the crowd. The policemen reached the stage in time to see Rosa disappearing in the wings. They grappled with him, and the Indian put up a fight. It took the combined strength of the policemen to subdue him and take him to the Coney Island Station, where he was locked up, charged with assault.

"He bothered me," was all the Indian would say.

ACQUIT JEFFERSON FUND MAN.

Court Exonerates James W. Morrissey, Who Organized a Monument Movement

James W. Morrissey, the theatrical manager, who got into trouble with the family of the late Joseph Jefferson some months ago while collecting funds for the erection of a monument to the memory of the dead actor, was acquitted yesterday in Special Sessions of the charge of "operating a business without filing a proper certificate with the County Clerk."

In October, 1905, Joseph Jefferson's son, Charles B. Jefferson, gave Morrissey written permission to collect money for a monument. Nothing was said in the document about the commission which Morrissey was to receive. He organized a Board of Directors for the enterprise, headed by Andrew Carnegie and including Levi P. Morton, Cornelius N. Bliss, John D. Crimmins, Chester S. Lord, and the late John H. Starin, but then it came out that Morrissey was to receive a commission of 25 per cent. on all money he raised, and Mrs. Jefferson wrote to Morrissey's Directors and other people asking them to give the plan no further aid.

The row reached the District Attorney's office and a detective arrested Morrissey on Aug. 25, arraigning him in the Tombs Court the next day on the charge that he was operating a business without filing a certificate. Magistrate Breen held Morrissey in $100 bail.

The case came up before Justice Mayo and his associates in Special Sessions for trial yesterday. Lawyer Gibson, for Morrissey, after showing the court Charles B. Jefferson's letter authorizing Morrissey to collect the fund, explained that Morrissey hadn't known that he had to file a certificate before doing his collecting. There was no other testimony except Detective McConville's complaint, and Justice Mayo announced Morrissey's acquittal.

Morrissey showed last night a letter from John D. Crimmins in which Mr. Crimmins affirmed his belief in Morrissey's "sincere and honest purpose." He also said he had instructed his lawyer to sue Mrs. Jefferson and her son for defamation of character and business injury.

JEWS HAIL THE NEW YEAR.

Every Synagogue in the City Filled with Worshippers.

With the appearance of the evening star in the sky last night, a new year, 5670 of the Jewish era, which counts from the creation of the world, as they hold, began for the Jews.

Rosh Hashona was celebrated in all the synagogues of the city with solemn services. Every temple was filled, every regular congregation attended in full numbers, and those not regular members of congregations assembled in halls which had been transformed into provisional places of worship.

Services will continue to-day, and in the orthodox synagogues services will also be held to-morrow. Ten days hence Yom Kippur, or the day of atonement, will be celebrated.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, found his temple too small for the large holiday congregation. His flock assembled in Carnegie Hall, which was well filled when the services began at 8 o'clock last night.

SAFETY DEVICES SAVED LIVES.

Public Service Board's Monthly Figures Prove It.

The report of the Public Service Commission on accidents on the city's surface traction lines for August shows a further diminution as compared with August a year ago before the commission's requirements regarding safety devices on surface cars were complied with. There is a decrease in the total number of accidents reported from 5,314 to 5,049.

The total number of persons injured showed 3,327 for this August as compared with 3,339 in August a year ago, and serious injuries were reduced from 286 to 204. As against forty-four persons killed in August a year ago there were but thirty-one persons killed in August, 1909, on the city's traction lines.

CAR WORKERS STRIKE AGAIN.

Pressed Steel Car Company Accused of Breaking the Recent Agreement.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—The car workers' strike at the plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company in Schoenville, which was thought settled on Wednesday of last week after costing nine lives and heavy financial loss began anew to-day when between 3,000 and 4,000 employes of the car works walked from their work and quietly dispersed to their homes.

The workmen allege the car company officials have broken faith with them regarding the discharge of bosses brought here during the recent dispute.

PENNSYLVANIA JAIL FOUND INTOLERABLE

Conditions at Allegheny Penitentiary Will Force Removal of Federal Prisoners.

300 TUBERCULOSIS CASES

Inmates Confined Two in a Cell and Half of Them Idle, Prison Inspector Reports to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Conditions at the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania, at Allegheny, have been found so distressing and intolerable as to require the immediate removal of all Federal prisoners whose transfer is practicable, and to demand the most serious consideration of the proper public authorities. This is disclosed in the report of C. H. McGlasson of the Department of Prisons and Prisoners to the Attorney General.

At the direction of the Attorney General, Wade Ellis, acting head of the Department of Justice, made known to-day the results of the investigation which Mr. McGlasson conducted, following the reports published by the newspapers several weeks ago, criticising the conditions at the penitentiary. The Federal authorities are guarded in their statements, as it is not their desire to reflect on the State officials of Pennsylvania or any others who may be responsible for the conditions at the institution.

"The population on the first of this month was 1,301," says Mr. Ellis in his statement. "Of this number more than half are at all times idle, and more than half are confined two in a cell. The cells are unusually small, and the cots take up almost the entire length of each, the room for moving about being a space eight feet long and eighteen inches wide. There are more than 300 prisoners suffering from tuberculosis, and 79 cells are now occupied by those showing advanced stages of this disease. The prison is filled with vermin of all kinds, although the officials are making an effort to eradicate them. An unusually large number of the prisoners are of the lowest possible character, mentally and morally, and there is but one general mess provided for all. Almost universal complaint is made about the quality of food served, especially the meats."

On one occasion the prisoners are reported to have arisen in a body and hurled their food, plates, and other articles at one of the inspectors of the prison, and to have called upon him to witness the quality of the food. Because of the number involved in this outbreak, punishment seems impossible, it is said.

There are twenty-one Federal prisoners at the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania. All of these who can be immediately transferred, except those whose terms will shortly expire, will be removed at once to Atlanta or Leavenworth.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—That 300 of the prisoners in Riverside Penitentiary are suffering from tuberculosis and that the remainder are terror stricken lest they contract the disease was embodied in a statement coming from the prison to-night in an appeal to the Board of Prison Inspectors from certain prisoners that they be removed to the Government prison at Atlanta, Ga., for their health's sake.

Almost the entire thirty members of the bankers' colony in the penitentiary have joined in the plea for removal, Warden John Francies to-night admits the 300 cases of tuberculosis, and that the disease is spreading quickly. Those who have joined in the plea to be sent to the Government prison at Atlanta include William Montgomery, Senator Quay's former associate, who wrecked the Allegheny National Bank; Frank Rinehart, who wrecked the Farmers and Drovers' National Bank of Waynesburg, Penn.; and John Young and Henry Resber of the Farmers and Drovers' National Bank of Pittsburg, who are credited with having stolen $3,000,000 in two years' time.

FOR COMPULSORY CREMATION.

Cemetery Superintendents' Convention Favor This Disposition of the Dead.

Cremation is steadily coming into favor, according to the experience of most of the delegates attending yesterday the twenty-third annual convention of the Association of American Cemetery Superintendents at the Hotel Astor, and it will not be very long before it is in general use. In Greenwood Cemetery alone, it was pointed out, the receiving vault has been remodeled so as to provide 320 niches for the deposit of urns containing the ashes of the dead.

"Some day not in the far future," said the Secretary of the association, W. G. Grassau, "the law will make cremation compulsory, as it was in ancient Rome. Science has shown that it is by far the most sanitary method of taking care of the dead."

The convention opened on Tuesday with an address of welcome by Acting Mayor McGowan, and papers were read on the conduct of cemeteries and such subjects as "Tree Planting and Tree Pruning," "The Relative Value of Services, Burial Lots, and Other Accommodations," and "How Can the Maintenance of Mausoleums, Monuments, &c., be Best Provided for by Lot Owners?"

Yesterday the entire party took a drive through Central Park, Van Cortlandt Park, and finally went to Woodlawn. The programme for to-day calls for a trip through Prospect Park, Brooklyn, and a visit to Greenwood Cemetery naturally follows. After that the crowd will take in Coney Island.

TO BURY PHOTOS WITH HIM.

W. H. M. Grevel So Directed In a Curiously Drawn Will.

The will of William Henry Maximilian Grevel, President of the Continental Export Company and Director in Fleischmann's Model Bakery, Incorporated, who lived at 85 East Tenth Street and died at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., on Aug. 17, was filed yesterday for probate. It proved to be an unusual document, both as to contents and length, the copy covering thirty typewritten pages. There was nothing in the petition which showed the value of the estate, and the attorneys who filed it refused any information on this point.

One of the remarkable clauses of the will, which leads the document, is in regard to the disposal of his body. Mr. Grevel directed that the services be brief and under Masonic auspices. He desired that his body be incased in a coffin "even now provided by me and taken in an undertaker's wagon, not a hearse, to the nearest crematory for incineration, there to be met by two close friends (not in any way connected with my family) volunteering the favor, who shall see that my coffin is demolished and shall remain in sight of the retort to which my body is committed until my ashes are taken therefrom, placed into the inner receptacle of the combination, likewise even now provided by me, and turned over to them for delivery to my beloved wife, or whomsoever she may designate; or, in event of her prior death, they may be sealed by my attending friends and temporarily left in the crypt of the crematory.

"Then as soon as practicable, but before any disposition of my property is made, the receptacle originally containing my ashes shall be placed in the outer receptacle, also even now provided by me, surrounded by photographs of those dearest my heart and person at time of my death, not forgetting those of my departed parents, Aunt Hareck and my late father-in-law, Dr. John H. Herman, as well as my own, properly inscribed, and shall be secured and tightly soldered thereunto, the inscription on said outer receptacle then to be completed in the presence of a trusted friend volunteering the act of kindness, and the whole, either with or without ceremony, deposited within the marble urn in the granite monument on Lot 82 of Lutheran Cemetery, Middle Village, L. I."

500 BAKERS AT DINNER.

With much good music the New York Master Bakers' Association had a dinner at the Harlem Casino last night. Five hundred of the 10,000 owners of the State's bake shops were present. The dinner began at 9 o'clock in order to give the bakers a chance to close their shops for the evening.

I. Bernard of Berlin, Germany, President of the German National Association of Bakers, presented the State association with a silver loving cup from Germany's 65,000 bakers. Secretary Rudolph Fries of the New York State Association urged every one to attend the annual bakers' exhibition which is now going on at Madison Square Garden.

Service Board Wants Cash to Investigate Subway Claims for Millions.

On account of the additional expense involved in the preparation and printing of bids for the Broadway-Lexington Avenue Subway route and in the arbitration of the claims of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for extra allowances on the equipment of the Manhattan Subway and the building of the Brooklyn Subway, the Public Service Comission has sent to the Board of Estimate a request for an additional allowance of $150,000 for its expenses for 1909. The comission, in December, 1908, asked for $087,500 for its work this year.

The letter to the Board of Estimate states that the cost of preparing and printing the plans for the Broadway-Lexington Avenue line will be in the neighborhood of $50,000. The information is also contained in the letter that the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, besides claiming $6,000,000 in extras on the Manhattan Subway, has a claim of $5,500,000 for the construction of the Brooklyn extension.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

Hudson-Fulton Number

SUNDAY, SEPT. 19

Accompanying next Sunday's regular issue of The Times there will be a special supplement, handsomely illustrated, devoted to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration.

One entire section will consist of pictures in which every phase of the subject will be dealt with. Among them will be two pages, one made up of pictures showing the progress of New York as illustrated in the evolution of street corners, from Fulton's day to the present. Such famous corners as that of the Post Office Building on Park Row, for instance, will be shown, and the astonishing contrast will give many a New Yorker a more vivid idea than he ever had before of the vast difference between the New York he knows and that which Fulton knew.

Then, to show the change from the old Dutch occupation that followed on Hudson's discovery, there will be a page of pictures of New York's sky line and water front from Hudson's time until to-day. Step by step, for two hundred years, the changing of New York is shown, from the site of little New Amsterdam to the sky-scraper era of 1909.

Historic scenes in New York from Hudson's day to Fulton's will fill another page, including surveys of what then might have been described, in truth, as "little old New York."

But, aside from these pictures, which are designed to bring before the reader at a glance the meaning of the celebration, there will be pages on pages of pictures dealing with the celebration itself. There will be portraits of the leaders who are engaged in making the celebration a success. There will be pictures of the permanent memorials which will remain; pictures of the Hudson Monument, the Hudson Memorial Bridge, the Fort Tryon tablet, the Stony Point gateway, and others. There will be two pages of pictures, one devoted to the Half Moon and the other to the Clermont. In these many things of interest, such as the steamboats of the times immediately succeeding the Clermont's famous cruise and scenes connected with the building of Hudson's ship, will be shown.
